Have You HEARD?

by M. Keith Nester, Sr., BC-HIS

HEARING LOSS ON THE BATTLEFIELD

It is a well-known fact that one-time exposure to very loud noise can result in permanent hearing loss, so it comes as little surprise that soldiers on the battlefield are vulnerable to hearing loss. According to a recent report, hundreds of British soldiers who have served in Afghanistan have had their hearing permanently damaged due to exposure to the intense noise of combat. The report goes on to say that in one regiment, nearly one in ten soldiers has hearing defects that could prevent them from further frontline service, as well as hamper his chances of a civilian job. While surplus and other protective gear were issued to all soldiers, their use has not been rigidly enforced except in helicopters.

Plot, construction workers, rock musicians, even landscape artists wear ear protection while working. The noise levels in many instances in our lives is enough to cause hearing to deteriorate, often without our being aware of it happening. Do you spend lots of time in a noisy environment? Have you been experiencing hearing difficulties? There really isn't any reason to wait any longer hoping the problem will go away, because it won't. Take charge of your hearing—call AUDIBAL to arrange a hearing test.

P.S. Soldiers and recreational gun users may want to have their hearing checked to see if there is an impairment that can be helped by a hearing instrument.

Lakers Fall

Rodney Clark contributed 11 points and seven assists, and Mo Gunn finished with 13 points.

"We are going to have to play much better than what we did tonight if we hope to win against Allegany this week," Gibson said, noting that the Lakers committed 25 turnovers.

Harford (8-15, 3-10) was led in scoring by Lionel Perkins with 20 points. Jesse Bolk netted 15, and Troy Burgan chipped in with 10.

Garrett's record now stands at 17-4 overall and 8-4 in JUCO games, with five regular season games remaining.

"We are going to play six games in a span of 11 days, and they are all crucial to our standings, but none more important than the Allegany game this Saturday," said Gibson. "That is the Division 1, Region XX game we need to win if we hope to move up in the standings. Plus we need for some other teams to lose. We are 3-2 in Division 1 play so far."

Saturday's big game with arch rival Allegany College will tip off at 7 p.m.

LOCAL'S BRUSH WITH GREATNESS - Former resident Bethany Savage recently received the chance to meet and cheer for West Virginia University quarterback Pat White at the Senior Bowl held in Mobile, Ala. Savage was with the Washington Redskins cheerleaders, who represented the NFL as cheerleaders for the game. Savage is a 2004 graduate of WVU. Three players from WVU were selected to play in the game for the southern team. Kicker Patrick McAfee and cornerback Ellis Lankster were the other two players selected to participate. White was named Most Valuable Player after the game. Savage also was one of four Redskins cheerleaders selected to accompany the Redskins sponsored charter flight to the Super Bowl. While in Tampa, the cheerleaders hosted several events sponsored by the Redskins organization.

The Lakers will host the junior varsity of St. Mary's College of Maryland on Monday, which will be David K. Martin Memorial Scholarship Night. Admission will be free; however, persons are invited to make a donation at the door in his memory to support the fund. The late David Martin, who was the Garrett County clerk of court, was also a long-time assistant coach of the Lakers.

Garrett will then travel to Montgomery Rockville for another JUCO game next Wednesday.

"This adjustment created increased hardships on our Garrett County office's financial health, which in turn led to internal challenges related to staff retention and recruitment," he said.

The Mental Health Center of Western Maryland Inc. was opened as a not-for-profit agency in Hagerstown in late 1992. It has enjoyed a good reputation among professionals in the business.

Four full-time employees and some part-time workers will lose their jobs because of the closing.

Brooke Schneider, director of behavioral health at the Garrett County Health Department, says his employees will "gladly accept" anyone who is affected by the closing and needing assistance.

"We have the facilities to fill in the gap," he said.

Robert Stephens, director of behavioral and family health at the Garrett County Health Department said, added, "Of course we will do all that we can to help those folks. We have the facilities to help, and we will."

APPOINT AN EQUITY GUARDIAN

Planning to sell your home soon? Do you know how much equity you have? When preparing to sell, determine the amount of equity received from the sale - before marketing your home.

Equity is calculated by deducting the amount you currently owe from the present value of the property. The first step is to make a determination of present value. This can be done in two ways.

Ask your real estate agent to perform a "Competitive Market Analysis," showing the recent sale prices of other homes similar to yours. The purpose is to help you arrive at a reasonable selling price for your property. Another way to establish the current value of your home is to order a certified appraisal, an unbiased evaluation of the "fair market value" of your home.

Now, subtract your current loan balance from the present value. What remains is called "equity," the part you get to keep upon the sale of your home. It should be carefully guarded from low offers and bargain-hunters.

Your best protection against loss of equity is the representative that you choose. It is the agent's responsibility to attract qualified buyers, and negotiate the highest possible sale price. As your representative, the agent has a fiduciary obligation to represent your best interests. The benefit to you is the enjoyment of the highest possible amount of equity. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call at the office or on my cell at 301-501-DALE

A HUGE DAY FOR STEELERS' FANS - With Pittsburgh only two hours from Garrett County, the Steeler fan base in the local community is not small, and several residents made the trek to Tampa, Fla., for last Sunday's 43rd Super Bowl. Pittsburgh's team and the Arizona Cardinals gave a nail-biter of a matchup, with the Steelers coming out on top in only the last minutes. A national report stated that more than 90 million people watched the game from all over the world. The photo above was taken by resident Jon Bell.

"Marylanders are clearly feeling the pain caused by rising unemployment and the foreclosure crisis. In times like these, the services the state offers are more critical than ever," said Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation Secretary Tom Perez. "It's important for us to get the word out about unemployment insurance, workforce services, and other resources that can help people continue to put food on the table, pay their heating bills, and continue putting money back into the local economy."

During the comment period, former Maryland delegate DeCorsey Bolden of Oakland, speaking on behalf of the Garrett Countians for Smart Growth group, spoke out against the proposed Rt. 219/Oakland bypass project, which was deferred a couple months ago because of the state's estimated $1.2 billion budget deficit.

"I'm not here to ask for money, but to ask you to designate the millions of dollars that would be needed to build this bypass to some other worthy project in the state," Bolden said, noting several reasons why he and his group are opposed to it.

The governor responded that the bypass project is not one that will receive funding even when the state receives its share of federal money from President Obama's stimulus package once it is approved. When pressed further as to whether or not the project is considered just deferred or delayed, O'Malley said that it is essentially tabled indefinitely. "I know that it will not be brought back for the next two years [of my administration], and hopefully not for four years after that," he said, indicating that he hoped to be re-elected for another term in 2010.

The governor noted that, although there is room to be optimistic, Mountain Marylanders, like others across the state, are struggling in these tough economic times.

"Working together we are finding new and innovative ways to leverage western Maryland's natural treasures for economic progress," he said. "This region's tourism sector is growing, and on other fronts, companies like Closet Maid, American Woodmark, Hunter Douglas, Bietzel, and NewPage are embracing the green revolution with promising new initiatives. Yet for all the opportunities that exist here, I cannot sugarcoat the difficulty of these times. No one in this room needs to be reminded of how hard western Maryland has been hit by this national recession."

During his State of the State address last week, Gov. O'Malley shared an excerpt of a letter which was received by an Allegany County resident who was struggling to make ends meet. The citizen, named Sandra, was having a hard time paying her energy bills. Gov. O'Malley shared her story at the meeting last night.

"I am glad that the governor and his cabinet are going to the far western part of Maryland. Elected officials should not sit behind a desk waiting for citizens to come to them, they should come to the people," Senator George Edwards said. "These town halls allow the governor and his cabinet to meet Marylanders from across the state to hear their diverse concerns and recommendations unique to their area."

Other positives pointed out by the governor were the following: Maryland has seen its second largest single-year homicide reduction in 25 years, with 66 fewer murders, 34 fewer fire deaths, and 60 fewer lives lost in traffic accidents last year; affordable health-care has successfully been expanded to 100,000 additional Maryland families; Maryland has conserved nearly 21,000 ecologically valuable acres through Program Open Space - quintupling Maryland's progress by more than 16,000 acres versus the previous administration; and Maryland has seen four straight years of zero percent increase for in-state college tuition, expanding affordable higher education to more Marylanders rather than fewer.

To protect Maryland's middle class families, over the last two years, the governor noted that his administration has: passed what the Washington Post called "among the most sweeping [reforms] in the country" to help Maryland's most vulnerable neighbors, assembled more than 700 volunteer lawyers to aid at-risk homeowners, and negotiated agreements with six loan servicers to help borrowers and lenders find alternatives to foreclosure; created 33 One-Stop Centers, which provide résumé, computer training, and job search services; expanded opportunity to more women and minority business owners by increasing state awards to MBE firms; and recovered $1.2 million in unpaid wages owed to Maryland workers and passed the nation's first living wage law.

"Maryland is defined by the contributions of working families, and our future will be shaped by the children in our public schools," Lt. Gov. Brown said. "We know these are tough economic times, and tough economic times require us to work harder and smarter to protect the progress we've made and the future we hope to leave our children. By working as One Maryland, we will get through these difficult days and continue along the path of progress for years to come."

Free Blood Pressure Screenings To Be Available During Cardiac Rehab Week

Garrett County Memorial Hospital staff will celebrate "The Pulse of Life" as the theme for this year's National Cardiac Rehabilitation Week, Feb. 8-14. During that week, a free blood pressure screening clinic and health risk assessment will be available in the hospital's Board Room on Wednesday, Feb. 11, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Cardiac rehabilitation helps more than 100,000 Americans recover each year from heart attacks or heart surgery, according to the American Association of Cardiovascular and Pulmonary Rehabilitation.

Cardiac rehabilitation services offered through GCMH are free to patients and include a one-on-one consultation with a cardiac nurse. Recovering patients also have access to a series of educational programs designed to help them address some of the issues and lifestyle changes they may face following a cardiac incident. Program presenters include a dietitian, pharmacist, and registered nurse.

Information about GCMH's Cardiac Rehabilitation Program is available by calling Kendra Thayer at 301-533-4271.

Nominations For History Teacher Of Year Sought

The Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History is seeking nominations for the annual Maryland History Teacher of the Year Award.

The Maryland winner will receive a $1,000 honorarium and will be in the running for the National History Teacher of the Year award, the winner of which will be selected this fall. His or her school library will receive a core archive of history books and materials.

Spates Memorial Scholarship For Nurses Announced

The late Constance Spates was, according to those who knew her, "a nurse who went beyond the traditional limits for her profession, a mentor to young nurses, an advocate for regional health care, and a truly caring individual."

To continue to support the concerns she fought for, her children and their spouses have pledged $80,000 to establish the first scholarship to benefit students in Frostburg State University's new bachelor of science in nursing completion program.

"Mom was a caretaker in her work and in her life. She was always looking after someone," said Mark Spates, who graduated from FSU in 1982. He and his sister, Diane Spates Clement, a 1994 graduate, are funding the scholarship with their spouses, Lynn and Bert. Constance Spates died in 2007.

Clement said her mother was "a role model" for other women, especially other nurses, as she worked her way up through the administration at both the former Miner's Hospital in Frostburg and later at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, now part of the Western tion program.

cal services director for Garrett County David Ramsey, a former colleague and friend of Spates, said he first met her when she and the late Dr. Fred Miltenberger were working to establish a regional trauma center at Memorial Hospital. He said that Spates "was well-equipped to navigate the political, administrative, and medical hurdles" in this and many other major projects she tackled.

"She really had a unique ability to understand the patient care side, as well as the administrative side" of an issue, Ramsey said.

Her children say that since their mother died they've learned more and more about the way her life "touched others," especially those nurses whose careers she nurtured. At her funeral, they were approached by a woman who wanted to express how much of a mentor her mother had been, and what that meant to her life.

"She helped me become more than I thought I could be," the woman told them.

Those who knew Spates say it is appropriate that a scholarship in her name benefits those nurses who are trying to advance their careers through FSU's R.N. to B.S.N. program.

"Connie supported the advancement of nursing as a profession, including the increased role of nursing in medical care over the years," Ramsey said. "She was a strong, smart, caring woman."

The recipient of the Constance Spates scholarship must be a registered nurse who lives or works in Allegany or Garrett county or contiguous counties in Pennsylvania or West Virginia.

Let's Get Down To Business!

Garrett Land Sales "Garrett County's Original Real Estate Company"

Garrett Land Sales is the county's newest real estate company but its principals are well known throughout the tri-state area, according to owner Tim Cosner and broker Tommy Thayer.

Tim and Tommy said they are excited about the positive response they have received from the local real estate community for their new business, which they call "Garrett County's Original Real Estate Company."

Located at the Thayer Center complex in Oakland, Garrett Land Sales shares in the rich traditions of its parent company, Garrettland Inc., which has been the area's leader in the property management and appraisal business for over 30 years.

Tim has lived and worked in the county for more than 20 years. He has been a business owner, real estate developer, and land acquisition specialist, and has initiated, managed, and completed numerous multi-million dollar real estate projects in West Virginia, from Morgantown to Charles Town, as well as Garrett County.

An avid outdoorsman, Tim enjoys hunting and fishing the mountains and streams of southern Garrett County and nearby West Virginia and prefers mixing "pleasure with business." He said he never misses an opportunity to combine his love for the outdoors with his desire to generate new business and to serve his buyers and sellers who share this common bond.

Tommy has been active in the Garrett County real estate market since 1975 when he came to work for Garrettland Realty after his honorable discharge from the U.S. Navy.

He held the positions of sales and property manager during his 20-year career until 1994, when Garrettland decided to divest itself of the brokerage business in order to focus on the growth of its appraisal and property management divisions.

During the last 15 years, Tommy was a top producer with another local agency, and his continuous presence in the local real estate arena gives him the distinction of being the county's senior licensed realtor.

Tommy said he is enthusiastic about having the opportunity to apply his knowledge and experience to his role as broker of Garrett Land Sales and looks forward to his new association with Tim.

Joining them on the Garrett Land Sales team are veteran agents Kenny Green and Paul Macy, both of Oakland, who have worked with Tim on other real estate projects over the years.

Tim said Paul and Kenny are excited about sharing their knowledge and professionalism in the real estate industry with the buyers and sellers in the Oakland area, whom they feel have been overlooked in recent years, and are committed to offering the personal, one-on-one service their clients need and deserve.

Garrett Land Sales offers a non-traditional, "refreshing" approach to real estate by promoting properties first and the company second, according to Tim.

"We know every detail of the properties that we represent in order to deliver the best service possible to both buyer and seller," he said. "We cooperate with the other real estate agencies, ensuring that their agents can also share in the benefits of working with a team of full-time, knowledgeable agents who guarantee the maximum exposure of a seller's property to the broadest coverage available."

Garrett Land Sales is a member of the National Association of Realtors and the Metropolitan Regional Information System (MRIS) multiple listing service, as well as the Maryland and Garrett County boards of realtors.

"We look forward to working with you on all your real estate needs," Time said. "Contact us today at garrettlansales.com or call 301-334-5757."

College Search Made Easier Via MHEC Site Link

A new feature on the Maryland Higher Education Commission's web site makes finding comparative information about the state's two- and four-year public and independent colleges easy through use of an innovative link.

This link, developed by MHEC's office of information systems, gives students and parents an interactive way of searching for a range of colleges or universities best suited to them, according to an MHEC news release.

Those looking for colleges or universities who may be interested in attending can access the site, then submit their ZIP code. From there, they can choose their college type (no preference, two-year or four-year), their degree type (certificate, associate, bachelor's, master's, and/or doctorate), the male/female population, student enrollment at institution, and annual tuition costs. Miscellaneous information such as availability of room and board is also provided.

After the student submits the search criteria, several potential colleges or universities meeting the criteria pop up and instantly provide substantial information about various Maryland institutions.

"It is user friendly and a great source of almost immediate information for students searching for the best college choice," said Secretary of Higher Education James E. Lyons Sr.

To access the site, students should go to MHEC's web site at www.mhec.state.md.us, click on the "College and Universities" link under "Postsecondary Education," then look for the "Search for a College..." link.

MHEC '09 Data Book Is Released

The Maryland Higher Education Commission's 2009 Data Book was released this week. The publication provides easy-to-access statistics and information about numerous aspects of post-secondary education in Maryland.

The book contains updated figures about student enrollment, retention and graduation rates, degrees awarded, faculty, revenues and expenditures, tuition and fees, financial aid, and distance learning, among other statistics.

The Data Book has been used by the O'Malley-Brown administration, MHEC commissioners, legislators, college presidents, vice presidents, deans, faculty, the press, and the general public for its statistics.

"This is a tremendous publication," Secretary of Higher Education James E. Lyons Sr. said. "It is an invaluable source of information to me, and I am sure that once again this year, those who make use of the Data Book will agree that it is a great resource."

To request a copy of the Data Book, persons may contact Kristen Neville at 410-260-4512. It will also be available online at www.mhec.state.md.us by February 10.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was noted American journalist, essayist, satirist and critic of culture H.L. Mencken who made the following sage observation: "Strike an average between what a woman thinks of her husband a month before she marries him and what she thinks of him a year afterward, and you will have the truth about him."

• It may seem odd, but the Drug Enforcement Agency supports, in a fashion, a publication that advocates the legalization of cannabis: the DEA has three subscriptions to the magazine High Times.

• There was a time when cartoon character Fred Flintstone appeared in ads for Winston cigarettes.

• In an anthropological study once conducted in Papua New Guinea, it was found that one in three adult deaths were the result of homicide. And it seems that those murdered were often targeted because they were suspected of practicing sorcery.

• There seems to be quite a rivalry between the towns of Rosehill, N.C., and Wilmington, Del. Both locales claim to be the home of the world's largest frying pan, with a diameter of 10 feet. This begs some questions, of course: How many eggs are being fried at once to require such a large piece of cookware? And what sort of stove is required to heat such a mammoth pan?

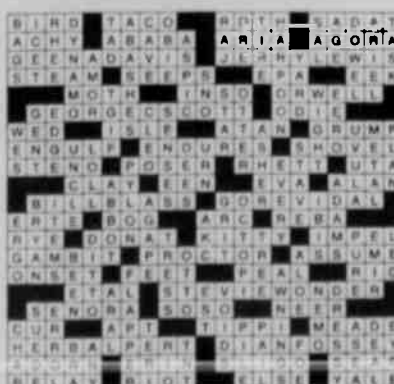

• In today's troubled economic times, you might not be surprised to learn that in his famed "Devil's Dictionary," Ambrose Bierce defined a corporation as "an ingenious device for obtaining individual profit without individual responsibility."

• According to estimates made by United Nations researchers, approximately 25 languages became extinct in 2008, meaning the last native speaker had passed away.

New Dog Isn't Like Old One

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Our beloved mutt "Pistol" was put to sleep a year ago after battling cancer. Two months ago, my son and I adopted a new dog, "Skyler," who is mostly Swiss mountain dog and we're not sure what else. Skyler is about 3 years old, and I'm not sure if he's adapting well to his new home. He barks furiously at the slightest noise and barks constantly at any visitors. Pistol was never like this, and he also was an adult adoptee. How can we get Skyler to settle down? — Janet in Kansas City, Mo.

DEAR JANET: Well, first, remind yourself that Skyler and Pistol are two different dogs, and that — as adult adoptees — you don't know what either of their upbringings were like. As a different dog, Skyler will have a different personality as well, and that also determines how he reacts to new noises and people.

It's important not to compare your new dog to the old dog. But we often do that with pets — it's part of the grieving process when we lose a beloved companion.

So, be patient with Skyler. He needs time to become accustomed to his new environment, and he needs to be slowly socialized rather than introduced to all your friends at once, which can be quite overwhelming for a pet. He needs regular obedience training and steady, predictable interaction with the household so he will become comfortable with the rhythms and rules of his new life.

And, be patient with yourself. Pistol will always be a part of your life, and you will miss him. Skyler isn't a replacement for Pistol; he's a new addition. Give yourself time to get past Pistol's loss and to accept Skyler for the dog that he is.

Q: I have an antique lapel pin made in about 1900 that promoted Carrie Nation and her anti-saloon campaign. It is a small copper hatchet with a design featuring a small pearl and white stone. Do you think it has any value? — Dorothy, Sun City, Ariz.

A: I could not find your pin in one of my favorite reference books, Warman's Political Collectibles: Identification and Price Guide, by Dr. Enoch L. Nappen (Krause, $24.99), but I did track down two seasoned collectors. I described your pin, and they both think it is worth about $75.

Q: I have a J. Estey and Company pump organ made in Brattleboro, Vt. The patent dates are all from the 1860s. Where can I get more information about its value? — F.M., Montevideo, Minn.

A: Although Minneapolis is where you live, you need to consult an established piano/organ dealer in that city. He or she will be familiar with values in your region and can help you determine the age and value of your instrument. Don't pay too much attention to patent dates, since they can't be used to accurately date an item. For example, I have a kitchen gadget that was patented in 1895 but purchased new by my grandmother in 1928.

TV Pipeline

Leno's television nights before 'Tonight'

By Jay Bobbin
C 2/26/09

Q: On a "Laverne & Shirley" rerun, I noticed Jay Leno was featured. How many acting roles did he have before he became a stand-up comic and took over "The Tonight Show"? —Harold Roebber, Brown Deer, Wis.

A: That's actually two different questions, since he started his stand-up work many, many years before succeeding Johnny Carson in NBC's late-night lineup. Leno was performing in clubs when he landed his first steady television job as a writer on the sitcom "Good Times," and that show also gave him his first credited home-screen acting job as "ready" — "Young Man."

He actually had different roles in two episodes of "Laverne & Shirley," and among the other shows on which he appeared were "One Day at a Time," "Alice," "Frasier" (albeit in voice only), "Home Improvement" and "The Drew Carey Show." Leno also has made several feature films, including "Silver Bears" (with Michael Cane and Cybill Shepherd) and "Collision Course" (with Pat Morita). Additionally, in recent years, he's done voice work for animated movies such as "Robots," "Ice Age: The Meltdown," "Cars" (as a character named Jay Limo) and "Igor."

Q: What happened to the promised second season of "Breaking Bad"? —Michael Doctor, Columbus, Ohio

A: It's coming, and soon. AMC plans to start running new episodes of the edgy show Sundays starting March 8, with Bryan Cranston — formerly the father on "Malcolm in the Middle" — in his Emmy-winning portrayal of a terminally ill teacher who turns to drug dealing to ensure his family will be financially secure when he's gone.

If you wish, you can own the first season of "Breaking Bad" just before the second one starts. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment is scheduled to release it Feb. 24.

Q: Please give an update on what Jane Pauley is doing now. —Mary Anne Watson, Wake Forest, N.C.

A: Actually, the former "Today" and "Dateline NBC" co-host hasn't been up to much professionally since her syndicated weekday "Jane Pauley Show" lasted one season several years ago. She did appear on PBS last spring as moderator of a related discussion that followed the special "Depression: Out of the Shadows."

Pauley's main focus these days appears to be on her home life with cartoonist Garry Trudeau ("Doonesbury"). They have three children.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army National Guard Sgt. 1st Class David L. Meyer participated in the 56th presidential inauguration Jan. 20 as part of the largest ever contingent of National Guard members to serve in Washington, D.C.

More than 7,000 Army and Air National Guard members from 31 states and territories provided the 2009 presidential inauguration with military working dogs, consequence management planning, and ceremonial, logistics, and medical support through the Armed Forces Inaugural Committee. National Guard members also assisted local authorities with crowd management, traffic control, and emergency services operations.

The Armed Forces Inaugural Committee is established every four years by the secretary of defense as a joint service organization to coordinate military ceremonial participation and support inaugural events.

Meyer, a construction equipment platoon sergeant, is a member of the 243rd Engineer Company based in Cumberland. The guardsman, who has served in the military for 27 years, is the son of Irene Pedersen of St. Paul, Minn. His wife

Marylanders Can Support Cancer Fund On Tax Form

Marylanders can help fight cancer this tax season by checking a box on their state income tax form to direct the donation of a few dollars to the Maryland Cancer Fund.

The check box allows state residents to enter any amount they wish to donate, and the amount will be deducted from the individual's tax refund or added to the individual's tax payment.

Established by legislation in 2004 and administered by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), the Maryland Cancer Fund provides financial support for cancer research, prevention, early detection, and treatment.

"Cancer touches all our lives in some way," said DHMH Secretary John M. Colmers. "A small donation of just a few dollars to the Maryland Cancer Fund is a great way to put your charitable dollars to work right here in Maryland and help further reduce the impact this deadly disease has in our state."

Maryland Cancer Fund donations are distributed as grants through DHMH. Those eligible to apply for funds include physicians, hospitals, laboratories, educational institutions, local health departments, governmental organizations, and other organizations and persons who conduct cancer education, screening, prevention, and treatment activities.

Maryland taxpayers have donated almost $2 million since contributions to the fund began in 2005.

As of January 1, the Maryland Cancer Fund had provided Cancer Early Detection/Secondary Prevention grants to five different organizations to provide screening for colorectal and prostate cancer screening programs. The fund has also provided treatment to 14 Maryland residents.

BF FIFTH GRADERS PARTICIPATE IN GEOGRAPHY BEE - Fifth grade student recently participated in the National Geography Bee, an annual event sponsored by the National Geographic Society. Students in grades 4 through 8 are eligible to participate. "The students are asked a rigorous set of questions in order to qualify for the Championship round," said a spokesperson. The winner of the school level bee then completes a written test to determine eligibility to participate in the state level competition. In the front row, from left, are Dalton Smith, Camden Nichols, 1st place winner Tyler Bowers, Garrett Owen, and Hannah Schroyer. Second row: Nathaniel Langford, 3rd place winner Sierra Boatman, 2nd place winner Alexandra Longest, and Nicole Pysell.

In November DHMH issued a request for proposals for Cancer Primary Prevention and Cancer Early Detection/Secondary Prevention grants. Interested individuals or organizations are invited to apply for funding their cancer-related projects.

For more information about the Maryland Cancer Fund, persons may visit www.mdccancerfund.org or telephone 410-767-3117.

JUST IN TIME FOR VALENTINE'S DAY, and sure to satisfy anyone's sweet tooth, are Amelia's Bon-Bons in flavors of coconut, peanut butter, maple nut, or cherry nut. Amelia Wolf has been making these bon-bons for over eight years as a fundraiser, and has produced more than 12,700 just this year. Her proceeds will go to Cindy's Fund, a local non-profit organization that provides support to cancer patients through education and screening programs in Garrett County. Amelia worked with Relay for Life from 2001 to 2007, but decided in 2008 she wanted to donate her profit to a local charity. She will sell her bon-bons up until Valentine's, and then switch to making chocolate eggs for Easter. For more information on Amelia's Bon-Bons, and how to get some of your own, see the story on the last page of this section. Photo by Angie Sincell.

11th Annual MSP/NRP Deep Creek Dunk Slated For Feb. 28

The 11th annual Maryland State Police and Natural Resources Police Deep Creek Dunk, a fundraiser for Special Olympics Maryland, has been set for Saturday, Feb. 28, and will be held at Uno's Chicago Bar & Grill at Deep Creek Lake.

This year's theme is "Get Your Dunk On!" and event organizers are expecting more than 600 people to do just that, including Baltimore Ravens offensive tackle Adam Terry (#78). New for this year is a Friday evening "Toast Your Buns" bonfire at the Honi-Honi Bar and a pre-registration option.

"Every year the MSP/NRP Dunk just gets better and better because of the people who get involved," said Tom Schmiedwind, executive vice president of sports marketing for Special Olympics Maryland. "The enthusiasm of the crowd, the support that SOMD athletes who attend are shown, and the overall festive feeling combine for an unforgettable day for all who attend. And the best part is that all the fun ultimately translates into a better tomorrow for SOMD athletes in all of our communities."

DNR Officers Note Accident, Arrests On Lake

Maryland Natural Resources Police investigated a snowmobile accident on Deep Creek Lake last Wednesday, Feb. 4, at approximately 9:30 p.m. that sent a McHenry woman to the hospital.

Cynthia O. Cramer, 44, of McHenry was operating a snowmobile on the lake near Paradise Point Road when she lost control of the sled and crashed. She was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital with serious, but non-life threatening injuries.

NRP charged Cramer with operating a snowmobile while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, and operation of an off-road vehicle in a negligent manner. A court date of April 22 has been scheduled for Cramer in Garrett County District Court.

Roads Dept. Reports On Budget, Maintenance, Personnel Issues

Garrett County has received 112.35 inches of snow this winter season, general superintendent Jay Moyer told the county commissioners during a Garrett County Roads Department report on Tuesday. As a result, the department's anti-skid supply is running somewhat low, but Moyer indicated the stockpile would be replenished soon.

The superintendent also reported on budget, maintenance, personnel, and snow-plow turnaround issues. "We're just a little bit past the midway point of the budget year, and right now we've spent 74 percent of our [fiscal year 2009] operating budget," Moyer said. "It sounds bad, except for the fact that we're into the 'big-ticket' items."

Those items include the purchase of abrasives, tools, and small equipment. Moyer stressed that the 74 percent expenditure was normal, considering the snowy conditions that the county has experienced. He noted the local area has had 29 "storm days" this winter.

The superintendent added, however, that department is "right on the money" with overtime expenditure. As of Tuesday, about 46 percent of the $460,000 overtime allocation has been spent.

"Green Globes" Bill Sponsored By Del. Beitzel

Hearings were slated this week for Sen. Janet Greenip's (R, District 33) and Del. Wendell R. Beitzel's (R, District 1A) "Green Globes" legislation. Senate Bill 243 was heard in front of the Budget and Tax Committee on Wednesday, while the House Appropriations and the Health and Government Operations committees will jointly take up Beitzel's HB 226 today at 1 p.m.

"Last year's High Performance Buildings Act was a very important piece of Maryland law, but it needs to go further," said Greenip. "It left out Maryland's own tree farmers, who are an excellent source of environmentally friendly building materials."

The 2008 legislation required state capital projects to comply with the U.S. Green Building Council's LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) rating system. This system, which is widely used in Europe, is not used for Maryland's forestry products.

"This is a good bill for Maryland's foresters," Beitzel said about HB 226/SB 243. "We are ensuring that Maryland's forests and Maryland's citizens reap the benefits from the projects paid for by Maryland's tax dollars."

Relay For Life Teams Reminded Of Kick-Off Event

Area residents are reminded that the official kickoff celebration for the 2009 Relay for Life will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 17, at Garrett College in the Continuing Education Building, Rooms 205-207. This will be the 25th Relay for Life in Garrett County.

All those interested in forming a team for this year's event, which is slated for June 12 and 13 at Southern Garrett High School, are encouraged to attend the get-together.

For more information, persons may call 301-722-2145 or visit the web site at www.relayforlife.org/garrett.

ARTS ADVOCATES RALLY IN ANNAPOLIS - The Garrett County Arts Council made a strong visual presence at Tuesday's Maryland Arts Day in Annapolis, according to council president Tiddle Wheeler. The local arts advocates joined others from across the state to urge the state legislators to stop a $6 million cut from the proposed arts budget. Wheeler is pictured above with the sign, with vice president Madelyn Hoffeditz next to her. The local arts council members made their way from the Senate offices to the House of Delegates building holding high a Garrett County Arts Council placard made especially for the event. See story. ## FEMA, Local Reps To Allocate Food, Shelter Grant Representatives from the Garrett County commissioners, Mtn. Top ministerial Association, Catholic Charities, the Department of Social Services, a former homeless person, and the American Red Cross have been selected to assist the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in determining how the Emergency Food and Shelter Grant, recently awarded to Garrett County, will be allocated.

A national board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high need around the country. Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must be nonprofit; have an accounting system

Commissioners Withdraw Flawed EMS Bill, Will Reinroduce In 2010

The Garrett County commissioners have decided to withdraw their proposed emergency medical services legislation that was submitted to the Maryland General Assembly earlier this year. A draft of the bill was recently presented to the commissioners for their approval, but county officials found the document contained several errors.

"The decision to not proceed with legislation during the 2009 General Assembly session was agreed to based on a review of inaccurate text language drafted by Legislative Services and the limited amount of time to amend [it] to read exactly what the purpose of the legislation is," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

The proposed legislation would allow the county to formally establish the current Emergency Services Board (ESB), which could then advise the commissioners and oversee local volunteer fire and emergency medical services departments. The ESB could assist departments with raising funds, managing paperwork, etc. Board members would also oversee the proposed Length of Service Award Program, which would provide a small retirement stipend to fire and rescue volunteers. The county has allocated $400,000 for the program.

FIRST TEAM TO COMPETE IN US OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS - The new FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Career and Technology) team was present at the February Board of Education meeting to give this year's project presentation to the board. The team managed to take home several awards from the Pittsburgh FLL Championships in December. This year's theme is Climate Connections, and the team, along with the high school team will be competing in the first ever U.S. Open Championships. The team has been working with berry breeder Harry Swartz of the University of Maryland, who is in the process of moving his strawberry, blueberry, and raspberry research to Garrett County because of its cooler summer climate. The team worked to come up with a cost efficient and environmentally friendly "green" greenhouse for Garrett County climates. Above, in the front row, from left, are Devon Jobe, Andrew Hauser, Zach Frick, Daniel Adams, and Rachael Huxford. Back row: BOE president Rodney Durst, coaches Arlene Lantz, Ronnie DiGirola, and Phil Malone, Rebecca Lee, Colin Lynch, and Levi Lantz, and school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets. The team will be one of several hosting an open house at GEARS, Accident, from 4 to 6 p.m. this Sunday.

Accidental Fire Destroys Trailer At New Germany.

Losses were estimated to be $15,000 after fire broke out Sunday afternoon in a 12' x 64' mobile home located along New Germany Road.

Firefighters from the Grantsville, Meyersdale, and Salisbury volunteer fire departments were summoned to the residence of Blair Folk at 2:06 p.m. after a passerby saw smoke coming from the structure and called 911.

Some 20 volunteers responded to the scene and brought the fire under control in about 30 minutes, according to Deputy State Fire Marshal Ryan Chapman. He said that the fire was caused by a malfunctioning coal furnace, which ignited nearby combustibles. His report said that the structure was a total loss.

Also responding to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

HIGH WINDS WREAK HAVOC - A seemingly relentless onslaught of high wind has assailed Garrett County and the surrounding area since about 8 p.m. last evening, resulting in uprooted trees, downed power lines, and property damage. Electrical power has been interrupted at more than 2,000 local homes, and two elementary schools, Accident and Friendsville, were also without electricity this morning. That situation combined with the continued dangerous winds caused officials to close schools today, making it the 9th missed day for the students this year. The wind is to continue until this evening, and the temperature, which was in the 80s yesterday, is plummeting back to the 20s, which is a far more normal range for this time of year. Snow is expected back this weekend. All residents are urged to use caution when venturing outside today, as long as the winds are strong. This photo was taken along Rt. 219 South, where several pines were uprooted and were thrown across the power lines. The scene is only one example of similar property damage sites throughout the county today. Photo by John McEwen.

Infestation Of Crows Causing Major Mess, Health Concerns In Oakland

by Glenn Tolbert

In Oakland, the skies are owned by crows. Thousands of them can be seen flying in massive flocks (or murders, as they are sometimes called). Upon take off from a roosting area, they rip the air in unison with a high pitched screech and the beating of innumerable wings.

This could be a fascinating sight, so many wild, flying creatures all in one place. But there are hazards associated with the spectacle, one of which is a health concern caused by the presence of so many birds.

Steve Sherrard, director of environmental health for the Garrett County Health Department, brings up a worst-case, but not too unlikely, scenario.

"If the droppings from the crows continue piling up where the crows are roosting every evening, a fungus can develop," he said. "When people breath that fungus into their lungs, they get headaches and a fever. So it must be inhaled to cause the illness."

Some local people say that the birds also have a major impact on their businesses. Michael Bello, owner of Bello's Portraits along Center Street, doesn't mince words on the subject of Oakland's crows.

"It's horrible," he said. "We're essentially captives in our building. We can't have clients come in after 5 p.m. We have zero walk-in traffic and could spend every day washing our windows and cleaning the disgusting mess on our sidewalks."

Bello says he tells his evening clients to park in certain places and to come into his studio quickly.

The problem has become so bad that he is planning to move his business to another location.

Town officials were hoping that a poisoning program could get under way soon,

AN ABSOLUTE, ONGOING MESS in much of downtown Oakland has been endured since November because of what has become an annual infestation of crows throughout the winter months. The droppings by thousands of the birds can't be cleaned up fast enough, and are grossly evident in these photos of a bear statue in front of Bello's Portraits along Center Street and the U.S. Postal Service mailbox located along the alley behind the post office. Among the attempts by St. Mark's Lutheran Church to scare the birds away is the placement of "scary" balloons in the trees in front of the church (pictured above right), as well as a sound device on top of the church. But the deterrents do little more than keep the birds off the church top and out of those particular trees. See story.

but according to sources within Town Hall, the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) failed to get all the proper permits in time to begin poisoning the birds before this spring. Predictions are that when the weather warms, the birds will disband on their own, as they have done the past several years.

Not everyone, however, wants to see further attacks on the crows of Oakland.

Maggie Brasted of the Humane Society of the United States e-mailed a letter to Mayor Asa McCain which read in part:

"Oakland's intent to kill crows is both inhumane and inappropriate. It is inhumane because the birds will suffer."

Brasted went on to describe various non-lethal methods to use on the birds, but nearly every one of those has already been tried by town officials and the USDA, with virtually no success.

Among those trying to use non-lethal means against the crows is Rev. Dr. Scott Robinson, pastor of St.

Mark's Lutheran Church, also located along Second and Center streets in one of the favorite roosting areas. Pastor Robinson and his congregation have installed some relatively low-tech weaponry which have had minimal effect.

They include "visual scare" balloons, which seem to keep the birds out of the trees in which the balloons have been placed. (See photo)

The church also invested in a Bird-Xpeller sonic device, which Robinson said is effective to some degree, but again mostly just in the trees on the church property. The device makes at intervals the sounds of pred-ator birds and of crows in distress.

The automobiles of his parishioners are generally bombarded by the crow droppings in the course of just an hour or two that they are parked at the church during evening worship, choir practice, and meetings.

The droppings are tracked into the church on a regular basis, and coat the hand railings along the walk in front of the church.

While being interviewed, Pastor Robinson pointed across Center Street to some giant evergreens, which looked as if they were suffering from poison after serving as the major roosts for the birds throughout the winter

The pastor said he is disappointed that there will probably be no action taken by the USDA before this spring.

"Mind you, I love animals and nature," he said. "But if you ride by our church in the late evening, you'll note that there is nothing very natural about this particular infestation. We asked for help and were advised by the USDA that poisoning is our only remaining solution."

DUI/DWI Charges Given To Several By GCSO, MSP

Several people were arrested on driving while intoxicated and driving while impaired charges this past week. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police each handled cases.

A Garrett County deputy conducted a stop on a 2002 black Hyundai on Deep Creek Drive and Garrett Highway. Further investigation led to the arrest of Jessica Marie Boone, 27, Mt. Airy. She was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, and driving while impaired.

In a separate incident, Garrett County deputies responded to Main Street, Deer Park, for a reported motor vehicle accident. Investigation into the accident led to the arrest of Todd Edward Nowland, 39, Lakeland, Fla. Nowland was charged by deputies with DUI, DWI, and failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

In another incident to which Maryland State Police responded, Matthew Alan Vecchioni was stopped in the area of Sand Flat Road and Rt. 219. He was subsequently arrested for DUI per se after a search revealed smoking device in the back of the vehicle. He was taken to MSP McHenry Barrack for processing.

In a separate incident,

Maryland State Police conducted a traffic stop on a 2001 Ford Escort after observing it traveling at 70 mph in a 55 mph zone. Upon contact with the driver, Cody Eugene Lucas, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, an odor of burnt marijuana was detected and a probable cause search was conducted. The search revealed a bag of suspected marijuana located above the driver's visor and a smoking device with trace amounts of suspected marijuana between the seat and console.

Lucas was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia. He was transported to the District Court commissioner's office for a bond hearing.

Three-Vehicle Accident Sends One To GCMH
A three-vehicle accident in the area of Deep Creek Drive, McHenry, last Friday resulted in the transport of a McHenry woman to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Cindy Helen Reeson, 46, was stopped behind a second vehicle, driven by Sarah Patricia Duck, 29, Oakland, who was stopped at the intersection of Rt. 219 and Deep Creek Drive waiting to turn. Barbara Louise Hall, 23, Accident, was traveling north on Rt. 219 in a third vehicle when she failed to stop behind the two stopped vehicles.

Hall's 2001 Isuzu Rodeo struck Reeson's 1996 Pontiac Grand Prix, which then struck Duck's 2006 Hyundai Tucson. Reeson was taken to GCMH by Northern Rescue Squad, where she was treated and released with minor injuries.

Honoring Mr. Lincoln...

It was on this day 200 years ago today that Abraham Lincoln drew his first breath, born to Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, two uneducated farmers. The birth took place in a one-room log cabin on the 348-acre Sinking Spring Farm in southeast Hardin County, Kentucky, making him the first president born outside the original 13 colonies.

There are many reasons to utilize this space today to recognize and honor Mr. Lincoln, both from a national perspective, as well as a more local, personal one, at least for us here in the offices of this newspaper.

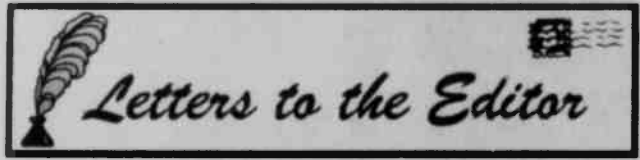

Lincoln's rise from that one-room cabin in the hills of Kentucky to law school and ultimately to the office of president of the United States is in and of itself a remarkable story. However, he is certainly best known for his efforts to eliminate slavery in this nation, first with his Emancipation Proclamation, then his push for passage of the 13th Amendment to the Constitution banning slavery, and finally, his agonizing position of having to engage in a long, bloody civil war in which hundreds of thousands of his fellow citizens died. How amazed he would be today, with our first African American president in office.

A bit of a local connection to Mr. Lincoln is the birthplace of his mother, Nancy Hanks, in neighboring Mineral County, W. Va. (at the time, Hampshire County, Va.). Just about every Garrett County resident is familiar with, or has at least heard of, the local organization Cindy's Fund, which provides funding for cancer screening, prevention programs, and research. A feature story in today's issue tells about an exceedingly generous local woman who makes and sells bon-bons, with all the proceeds benefitting Cindy's Fund. The Lincoln connection here is that Cindy's Fund was founded in memory of Cindy Kutchman, formerly Cindy Hanks, who is a direct descendant of Nancy Hanks, and thus a cousin of Mr. Lincoln. (So is the actor Tom Hanks, by the way.) Cindy's twin sister Sandy is the chairperson of the Cindy's Fund board.

The personal connection to Mr. Lincoln for those of us who work for this newspaper is that our publication was named in honor of President Lincoln. Captain Thomas Hayden, who was decorated for his valor at the battle of Gettysburg, worshipped the ground on which President Lincoln walked. After the war, he moved to Oakland, purchased an already established weekly paper, and immediately named it The Republican. Hayden selected the name since Lincoln was the first Republican president. In just three weeks, we will begin our 133rd year of producing that publication, without having missed a single week.

So we feel a special connection to Abraham Lincoln, and we hope to continue to honor him, in some sense on a weekly basis, by keeping this publication alive.

(And BTW, why not celebrate this special birthday, or Valentine's Day, by going out and purchasing some of those bon-bons? They are absolutely delicious, a great gift, and for such a good cause. We have some available here at our office.)

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

It has been brought to my attention that property owners in Garrett County have been targeted by a company that is sending official-looking letters recommending they get a certified copy of their deed for a fee.

National Deed Services Inc., an Illinois-based company, offers to obtain a certified copy of a deed for $59.50. This company is acquiring quite a hefty fee for providing this service. It is a gross misrepresentation of the cost of a certified document from the circuit court clerk's office.

Most property deeds are no more than two or three pages long. The charge per page for copies is $5.00, and the fee for certification is an additional $5. This means in most cases that a certified copy of a deed from our office costs no more than $6.50.

While it may be a good idea to keep a certified copy of your deed with your personal papers, most property owners already have their original deed. Original deeds are recorded in the clerk's office and returned immediately to the property owner.

I urge anyone with questions about obtaining copies of recorded documents to ignore the letter and contact the clerk's office for information. You may visit the office at the courthouse, write to us at P.O. Box 447, or contact us by telephone at 301-334-1937.

Sincerely,
Sondra R. Buckel
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County

To the Editor:

History is set to repeat itself, again. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Bill of 2009 that is being debated in Washington has all the hallmarks of a classic instead of maintaining a straight path, and uneven tire wear. These symptoms mean there's an alignment problem. Proper wheel alignment is important for the lifespan of tires and helps ensure safe handling.

•Low tire pressure, bulges or blisters on the sidewalls, or dents in the rim. These problems will be visible and should be checked out as soon as possible, as tires are the critical connection between your car and the road in all sorts of driving conditions.

To ensure safety and reliability, it's worth having a professional technician inspect the car and make the necessary repairs. To learn more, visit the Car Care Council's web site and check out the new digital version of the popular Car Care Guide at <http://www.carcare.org/car-care-guide>.

Attention, all Northern Garrett High School alumni!

On behalf of Northern Garrett High School, I would like to cordially invite all Northern Garrett High School alumni to a meeting on Monday, Feb. 16, at 5:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. The meeting will be held just prior to the Northern girls' basketball game vs. Mtn. Ridge.

I am delighted to have this opportunity to share some very interesting information with you concerning the development of an active alumni association. I am hopeful that you and your classmates will find this information to be exciting, and that it will encourage you to renew your relationship with your alma mater.

Gary Reichenbecher
Principal
Northern Garrett High School

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Democratic Central Committee requests the county commissioners to immediately revise the county's priority list for spending funds received through the proposed federal Economic Stimulus Program.

Many of the projects on the list will not directly benefit Garrett County taxpayers, and the list does not wisely invest these one-time-only funds to provide jobs, tax relief, or lower costs. Many projects will benefit only a few people or few Garrett County businesses, and may not help businesses stay open or employees pay bills.

At least one of the project, the U.S. 219 relocation, cannot be developed within the 90-day period. We suggest using the following criteria to change the list:

1. Is the project necessary?
2. Will the project contribute to lower taxes or fees for Garrett County taxpayers?
3. Can it be started within 90 days?
4. Is it fair to all Garrett County taxpayers, not just a few?
5. Will it create jobs and give paychecks to Garrett County businesses and employees?

We suggest three areas for investment of the stimulus funds:

•Roads – There have been operating cutbacks in this department in an attempt to save money this fiscal year. By using stimulus funding this year for maintenance of county roads and bridges, beginning in early spring, county money can be extended and needed maintenance and repairs can be performed without increasing local taxes. A partnership with the state could make improvements to Rt. 495, help with economic development, and relieve traffic congestion along U.S. 219, including Grantsville, Accident Deep Creek Lake, and Oakland/Mountain Lake Park.

•Water, sewer, and related infrastructure outside the Deep Creek Lake area – There are many older, failing water and sewer systems that need rehabilitation, or that can be extended, to assure these systems work properly. By using the economic stimulus funds for these purposes, the county will not have to borrow and then charge customers higher rates to pay off debt.

•Preventive maintenance – By using the one-time funds, needed repairs and maintenance of the county's buildings, schools, and infrastructure can extend serviceability of roofs and windows, heating systems, wiring, siding, gutters, painting, etc., and decrease the need for higher taxes in the future to perform major construction, overhauls, and rehabilitation.

We ask that you immediately revise your list using the criteria we suggested, and communicate those changes to state and federal officials.

Sincerely,
James R. "Smoke" Stanton
Chair, GDCDC

down three employees. "But as of right now, we have no plans to replace any of them," the superintendent said.

Moyer also reported that his department has presented an "acceptable course of action" to the Thousand Acre Development principals. Last week, TAD representatives Joe and Bill Franklin met with the commissioners. The developers asked the county to grant a temporary waiver on its snowplow turnaround requirement. The waiver, the Franklins noted, would enable them to secure funding and proceed with their development.

County officials and TAD have been discussing the turnaround issue off and on for about four years. "There is so much history with this," Moyer said, noting that a new agreement seems to be reached between the county and developers every year. The Roads Department is requiring that the developers construct an asphalt pad, based on county specifications, either inside or outside the TAD entrance.

At their meeting with the Franklins last week, the commissioners denied the waiver request because of county policies.

But the county later made an offer that would enable the developers to proceed with the financing portion of their project, according to county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

Moyer explained that TAD would have to agree to four things:

1. Have an 80-foot diameter asphalt pad located inside the Thousand Acre gate and centered at the intersection of Thousand Acres and Little Snaggy Mountain roads.

2. Have Highland Engineering show the location and configuration of that turnaround.

3. Submit the turnaround plan to the Roads Department for review and approval as soon as possible.

4. Post a $25,000 actual construction bond.

"We also have asked that this not be an open-ended agreement with them," Moyer said. "It does have a two-year limit so this issue doesn't arise again in a year or two."

The superintendent noted that the turnaround inside the development would have to meet county specifications so that it could be included in the county's system of roads.

"We're waiting to hear back from them," Moyer said about the Franklins.

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Maryland State Police assisted NRP with the incident.

NRP also charged a LaVale man on Saturday, Jan. 24, with operating a snowmobile while intoxicated on Deep Creek Lake near McHenry.

Officers were in the area at the time monitoring snowmobile activity on the lake for proper off-road vehicle (ORV) registration stickers. NRP initiated a stop on Christopher P. Sell, 50, of LaVale, and during the course of the stop, Sell was arrested and transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for processing.

February is American Heart Month

(A release from the Garrett County Health Department)

High cholesterol, high blood pressure, obesity, diabetes, tobacco, and secondhand smoke are risk factors associated with heart disease. Coronary heart disease is the #1 cause of death in the United States, while stroke is the #3 cause of death and a leading cause of serious disability. Doctors use measurements of your blood glucose, blood pressure, blood cholesterol, body mass, waist size, and weight to assess the quality of your health.

Do you know your numbers? In order to know your risk for heart disease, you need to know your numbers.

There are usually no signs or symptoms of high blood cholesterol, so it is important to have your blood cholesterol checked. A simple blood test can be done by your doctor to check your blood cholesterol level. A lipoprotein profile can be done to measure several different kinds of cholesterol as well as triglycerides, another kind of fat found in the blood.

Desirable or optimal levels for adults with or without existing heart disease are:

- Total cholesterol: Less than 200mg/dL
- Low density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol ("bad" cholesterol): Less than 100 mg/dL
- High density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol ("good" cholesterol): 40 mg/dL or higher
- Triglycerides: Less than 150mg/dL

The National Cholesterol Education Program recommends that healthy adults have their cholesterol levels checked once every five years.

This is the first in a series of three articles about heart health. Next week: information on high blood pressure.

operating a snowmobile while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs and failure to display registration sticker on off-road vehicle. He was released on his signature.

A court date of March 25 has been scheduled for Sell in Garrett County District Court.

Snowmobiles may only be operated on DNR lands on trails designated for snowmobile use. Snowmobiles utilizing these trails must be registered annually with DNR and display a registration sticker. Registration stickers are available from any DNR regional service center.

A snowmobile may be used on trails designated for its use from December 15 through March 15 of each year, except for certain trails, which may be closed based upon consideration of overall physical, environmental, and recreational use. It is recommended that visitors call the state forest and/or park office before using the trails to obtain current trail closure information or hazard advisories.

To learn more about snowmobile and other off-road vehicle use on Maryland's public lands, persons may also go online and visit the Maryland Department of Natural Resources web site at www.dnr.maryland.gov.

Withdraw Bill

Pagenhardt said the commissioners decided to withdraw the proposed legislation after Sen. George Edwards informed them that the bill would need to be read at the committee level on Feb. 7.

"Which was a date that prohibited sufficient time for review by county staff, the Emergency Services Board, and members of the Garrett County Fire and Rescue Associations," Pagenhardt said.

The commissioners will complete a final draft of their proposed bill and submit it during the 2010 General Assembly session, he noted.

Terra Alta Man Sentenced To 60 Days For Possession

In recent Garrett County District Court, Justin Ray Dalton, 24, Terra Alta, was found guilty for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana charge. Judge Leonard J. Eiswert sentenced Dalton to 60 days with all being suspended, supervised probation for one year, and $207.50 in fines.

Dalton's charge stems from August 2008 when officers noticed a suspicious vehicle in a Hutton neighborhood. Garrett County sheriff's officers and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force initiated a traffic stop and made contact with Dalton. As he was asked to exit the vehicle, officers noticed he appeared impaired.

It was reported that Dalton had admitted to officers that he had drunk alcohol and smoked CDS earlier in the day. He consented to a search of his vehicle, which revealed a metal pipe and metal cylinder with marijuana inside.

Officers seized the items and placed Dalton under arrest. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

In another district court hearing, Stephen Marty Bray, 34, Royston, Ga., pleaded guilty to a CDS possession of marijuana charge, was found guilty and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $357.50 in fines.

In July 2008, Maryland State Police initiated a traffic stop on I-68 for a commercial vehicle inspection after noticing that Bray was towing a portable air compressor. During the inspection, officers detected a slight odor of burnt marijuana coming from inside the vehicle. Bray and a passenger were asked to exit the vehicle.

A search of the vehicle revealed a duffel bag with a coffee can that contained two packs of rolling papers, one metal grinding device that contained suspected marijuana residue, one metal smoking device that contained suspected marijuana residue, a bag that contained suspected marijuana, and three small pieces of partially smoked marijuana cigarettes.

Regina Gearhart at 301-616-7681.

Bray advised that the items found were his and that he had smoked marijuana several hours earlier in the vehicle. He was placed under arrest and transported to the McHenry Barrack for processing. He was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

In an unrelated case, Melissa Rae Ketola, 29, King George, Va., was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict after pleading guilty to a CDS possession of marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, unsupervised probation for one year, and fines of $157.50.

Her charge stems from July 2008 when sheriff's officers initiated a traffic stop. A K-9 scan of the vehicle by the GCNTF detected a positive alert for the presence of illegal drugs. A search of her vehicle revealed a suitcase containing a bag containing MDMA (Ecstasy), a schedule I CDS, and a smoking pipe containing burnt marijuana residue.

A search of Ketola revealed a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe containing burnt marijuana residue. She was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia.

David Lansdale Sweitzer, 18, was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge. He was charged after a traffic stop in August 2008 for failure to ## Kristine Miller Joins Advancing Excellence Camp.

KRISTINE MILLER, Oakland Nursing & Rehabilitation Center's administrator, LNHA, MBA, was recently invited to join the Maryland Local Area Network Exchange (LANE) of the Advancing Excellence in America's Nursing Homes campaign as a liaison for western Maryland.

The Advancing Excellence campaign is a voluntary coalition-based movement to improve the quality of life for residents and staff in America's nursing homes with a goal of strengthening the public trust in nursing home care by focusing on quality improvement and self-regulation.

LANE is a coalition of stakeholders at the state level that come together for the purpose of supporting providers and consumers in achieving the campaign goals. The coalition serves as the central organization to ensure the success of the campaign for each state.

Did you know that tooth decay, or cavities, is the most common chronic disease found in children? It is five times as common as asthma and seven times as common as hay fever.

Each year, more than 51 million school hours are lost because of dental related problems. According to the National Centers of Disease Control and Prevention, 18 percent of 2- to 4-year-old children have experienced tooth decay, and 16 percent have untreated tooth decay. By age 17, more than seven percent of children have lost at least one permanent tooth because of decay. In Maryland, 31 percent of kindergarten and third grade children have tooth decay. If tooth decay remains untreated, it causes pain and infections that may lead to problems with eating, speaking, playing, and learning.

Fortunately, with good oral health care habits, tooth decay can be prevented. Taking care of your children's teeth - including baby teeth - from the very start is the key!

"A child should visit the dentist when his or her first tooth appears, or by his or her first birthday," said Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer, "and it is important for parents to teach their children good oral health care habits, including proper brushing and flossing techniques, eating nutritious foods, and making regular visits to the dentist."

Steps such as these will help ensure that children will have a healthy mouth, as well as a healthy body. It is important that parents supervise brushing until children are 7 or 8 years old. Since children learn oral health care from their parents, it is also important that parents serve as a good role model by practicing good oral health care habits.

"Encourage children to brush twice daily for two minutes for a healthy mouth, and visit the dentist regularly," said Glotfelty.

For more information about oral health programs and services available in Maryland and in the local area, visit the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Office of Oral Health web site at www.fha.state.md.us/-oralhealth, or telephone Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7660.

Tips for Preventing Tooth Decay in Children

- Use a wet cloth to wipe baby's gums after each feeding.
- Use a soft brush or cotton swab to clean baby's teeth daily.
- Do not put a baby to bed with a bottle, but if you do, use only water in the bottle.
- Schedule children's first dental visit when their first tooth appears, or by their first birthday.
- Provide children with healthy snacks such as fruits and vegetables.
- Supervise while children brush their teeth until 7 or 8 years of age. Use toothpaste with fluoride and encourage children to spit out the toothpaste instead of swallowing.
- Ask your children's dentist about the need for fluoride treatments.
- Ask about dental sealants when your children's permanent teeth come in.

Mt. Storm Church To Host Diabetic Cooking Classes

The Hardy and Grant county offices of the West Virginia University Extension Service will offer a series of cooking classes for people with diabetes and their family members or caretakers. In partnership with the West Virginia Diabetes Control Program and Judy's Drug Store, "Dining With Diabetes" will begin March 9 at two sites and run for the next four weeks.

Classes will meet every Monday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Presbyterian Church in Moorefield and from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Mt. Storm Methodist Church. Participants are asked to attend all four weeks.

Extension agents Martha Garton and Miriam Leatherman, along with Sandy Ford, diabetic educator, Judy's Drug Store, will discuss cooking with artificial sweeteners, substituting low-fat products, and seasoning with herbs and spices.

Class participants will get recipe booklets, watch cooking demonstrations, learn easy exercise techniques, and taste food made with less fat, sugar, and salt. The program also includes free blood pressure screenings and free A1c tests during the first class and at the three-month follow-up session.

No products will be sold at the class, according to an extension office spokesperson.

This grant-funded program is free, but space is limited. Persons may call the Hardy County Extension Office at 304-530-0273 or Grant County Extension Office at 304-257-4688 to enroll.

JAZZ BAND SLATES "FOOT STOMPIN'" PERFORMANCE — The Sugar Foot Stompers will perform at the Cabin Fever Fundraiser on Saturday, March 28, at New Germany State Park. This annual fundraiser benefits two local conservation organizations: the Friends of New Germany and Savage River Watershed Association. See story for details. Pictured are members of the Sugar Foot Stompers: Steve Vortigern, trombone; Tom Simpson, trumpet; Gino Mauricci, clarinet; Stephan Moylan, banjo; and Matt Eary, bass.

Cabin Fever Fundraiser Scheduled March 28 At New Germany Park

The Friends of New Germany and Savage River Watershed Association will host the second annual Cabin Fever Fundraiser from 5 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, March 28.

The public is welcome to attend this event, which will be held at the Lakchouse and Rec Hall at New Germany State Park. In case of severe weather the event will be held on Sunday, March 29, from noon to 3 p.m.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children ages 6 to 12.

The entrance fee covers an evening of homemade soup and bread, live music, and door prizes. There will also be a bake sale and silent auction in which individuals can bid on a variety of items.

Interested persons may assist these local organizations by donating items for door prizes and the silent auction, such as antiques, artwork, hand-crafted items or "re-gifted" Christmas presents.

Individuals may also help by providing a referral to a favorite business that might be willing to make a financial contribution or donate a gift of one's products or services (meals, lodging, ski lessons, rentals, haircut, massage, oil change, etc.).

"Volunteers will contact the business on your behalf and its generosity will be publicly acknowledged," said an event spokeswoman.

Music for the Cabin Fever Fundraiser will be provided by the Sugar Foot Stompers. This popular local band formed in 2007 to play traditional New Orleans style jazz. The group made its debut opening for the Preservation Hall Jazz Band in a Garrett Lakes Arts Festival performance.

Steve Vortigern is the founder and leader of the Stompers. He has a master's degree in jazz studies. Steve and his wife Sunshine moved from San Diego, Calif., to Cranesville, W. Va., to create and run an organic farm.

Gino Mauricci plays clarinet. He is also concert master of the Garrett Community Concert Band and plays with another popular local band called The Remedy. Gino has performed with such luminaries as Wynton Marsalis. He and his wife Lisa live near McHenry.

On cornet and trumpet is Tom Simpson. Tom is a well-known local talent who plays with other groups, including Queen City Funk & Soul. He runs his computer business in Oakland, where he lives with his wife Pam.

Banjo player Stephan Moylan is a public defender in Oakland. He plays guitar and learned the banjo just for the band. Stephan and his wife Kim live near Oakland.

Matt Eary, a computer programmer, plays bass. In other milieus he sings, plays piano and French horn, and does some acting in local theatre. Matt and his wife Lindy live near Grantsville.

The Friends of New Germany is a non-profit organization of local and state-wide persons interested in enhancing and preserving the beauty and quality of the recreational resources of New Germany State Park.

The Savage River Watershed Association is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed by assisting interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach.

Persons who have general questions about the Cabin Fever Fundraiser may contact Kathy Tunney, Friends of New Germany president, at 301-895-3769 or bnktunney@pennswoods.net.

Those who would like to donate an item or make a business referral are asked to contact Kevin Devine, Savage River Watershed Association OSM/VISTA volunteer, at 301-689-7156 or srwacoordinator@gmail.com.

GCAC Rallies In Annapolis For Arts Funding

Facing the largest state arts funding cut ever, members of the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) joined hundreds of other state arts advocates Tuesday in Annapolis in a Maryland Arts Day rally for adequate financial support, in the midst of dire economic times sweeping across Maryland and the nation.

GCAC urged legislators to stop a $6 million proposed budget reduction to the Maryland State Arts Council, and instead restore the original $16.5 million full funding level that had already been approved for the Maryland State Arts Council in fiscal 2010, before the financial downturn triggered state cutbacks.

GCAC receives significant funding from the Maryland State Arts Council.

In Annapolis, GCAC also sought the elimination of proposed deficit pre-set budget levels through fiscal 2013 under Maryland's Budget Reconciliation and Financing Act (BRFA).

"We've never seen a budget like this one," Maryland Citizens for the Arts board chairman Douglas Mann told arts advocates gathered for Maryland Arts Day.

The GCAC group met with the western Maryland's senators and delegates to press for an arts funding overhaul under the mantra, "Flat at 16, out of BRFA."

GCAC executive director Keith Roberts told Delegate Wendell Beitzel and Senator George Edwards that Garrett County would be "hit particularly hard" because small, rural populations don't have adequate local resources to fund arts organizations.

"At a time when the arts are needed the most — because experts say citizens turn to the arts in recessions — they could falter and even fail without sufficient funding," Roberts said.

The GCAC provides more than $40,000 in annual local grants funding, with about 20 arts organizations as recipients.

"These organizations are then able to thrive and enhance Garrett County's quality of life," Roberts said. "Non-profit arts organizations from the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival to Our Town Theatre — plus a bevy of other musical, visual, and performing arts groups — would struggle to

BONES OF BETRAYAL

by Jefferson Bass

C. 2009, William Morrow $24.95; 357 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

"Say cheeeeee!"

As a child, you undoubtedly held "cheese" in your mouth while your mother was on the backside of a camera. Birthdays, picnics, silly backyard days in a blow-up pool, holidays with Grandma, and so many firsts were immortalized with a pop (remember flash cubes?) or a snap (cameras with a fold-up viewer?) or a whirr and a shake (instant pictures?).

But some pictures, long-held in storage, could deepen a mystery. In the new book Bones of Betrayal by Jefferson Bass, Dr. Bill Brockton needs to put everything in focus to solve a murder.

The old man floating in the abandoned swimming pool on the side of a Tennessee hill had been dead long enough to have frozen in the ice. When Brockton and his assistant, Miranda, got the body thawed, they turned it over to the medical examiner, Dr. Edelberto Garcia, for autopsy.

But this was no routine procedure. The dead man's internal organs were almost liquefied. He had died slowly and painfully after having swallowed a tiny capsule of iridium-192, an extremely deadly pellet of intensely radioactive matter. And Garcia and Miranda had handled the capsule.

Decades before, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, was the site where the nuclear bomb was born, and Dr. Leonard Novak — the dead man — had been an important scientist at the helm of the Manhattan Project. Highly intelligent, yet humble, Dr. Novak was the keeper of many secrets. One of them was in the freezer of his apartment, stuffed in an old Prince Albert tobacco can.

It was a film which appeared to be unused, but when Brockton's experts eked out an image, they found another mystery. Faintly, the photos showed a man with a bullet hole in his head, lying at the bottom of a crater.

With two mysterious deaths on his hands and two horribly injured colleagues in treatment, Brockton learned that Novak was once married to a charming, now aged lady who still lived nearby. The former Mrs. Novak loved her vodka, and she loved to tell stories. She also loved to pretend she was senile to everyone but Brockton.

And then, beneath murky waters, another body surfaced.

I usually have a pretty strong stomach, but Bones of Betrayal was a little gruesome even to me. Luckily, I started it well after dinner, late at night.

On the other hand, maybe that wasn't such a good idea either. This book kept me reading way into the wee hours.

Author Jefferson Bass is actually two people: Jon Jefferson is a journalist and documentary filmmaker. Dr. Bill Bass is a widely known forensic anthropologist and founder of the University of Tennessee's "Body Farm." These credentials mean that this book contains real-life details you won't find in many novels of this type; there are been there, done that authentic autopsy and crime-scene scenes that delicate readers will want to avoid, but that CSI and true-crime fans will relish.

If you love a mystery and can picture yourself engrossed in a good novel soon, then read this one. Bones of Betrayal will make you smile.

Photographer Penny Knobel-Besa will soon be the featured artist at the Garrett County Arts Council's Gallery in Oakland with an exhibition of 35 photographs. The show is titled "Five Walls and a Corner," and it will be on display from Feb. 14th through April 4.

Originally from Baltimore, Knobel-Besa has lived in the Flintstone area of Allegany County since 1989 and is a member of the Garrett County Arts Council with her husband, international sculptor and painter, Hilmar Gottesthal. She and her husband have a woodland studio, called Sanctuary Studios, where they both show their work. Knobel-Besa also offers photography classes there.

The photographer is also a playwright and theatre director, having founded the Maryland Theatre Arts Company in Baltimore which she then moved to Cumberland. Following the production of her own play, a children's musical called Under Your Pillow, in New York, she formed the Children's Theatre Arts Academy and Kids Art Studio, producing plays at the Cumberland Theatre, the Palace Theatre in Frostburg, and the New Embassy, also in Cumberland.

After retiring as artistic director of the Maryland Theatre Arts Company, Knobel-Besa started to pursue photography full time and traveled 13,000 miles across the continent building her body of work. She is currently writing a book chronicling her travels. She was named Maryland Photographer of the Year, has won national and regional awards, and has often had her writing published in the literary magazine Antietam Review.

She has a theatre degree from Towson University, a master's degree from the University of Baltimore, and has done post-graduate studies in theatre at Yale University and writing at Johns Hopkins. Her photography studies started at Loyola College and continued at Hagerstown College, Frederick's Delaplaine Center and, privately, with Benita Keller of Shepherdstown College. Most recently, she has been exploring computer manipulated photography at Allegany College.

ONE OF 35 PHOTOGRAPHS SOON TO BE ON EXHIBIT at the Garrett County Arts Council's Gallery in Oakland is pictured above, taken by photographer Penny Knobel-Besa. Her show, titled "Five Walls and a Corner," will be on display from Feb. 14 through April 4. A reception for the artist is slated for Thursday, Feb. 26, from 5:30 until 7 p.m. at the Gallery along Alder Street. The public is invited to attend. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For additional information, persons may call 301-334-6580. See story.

The exhibition's title, "Five Walls and a Corner," was derived from the fact that the exhibition space has five walls and a corner. One wall will offer a series of photographs taken from inside underground caverns in Slovenia. Another will offer a series of unmanipulated 35mm color photos. Two other walls, titled Painting with the Camera and the Art of Photography, will display recent digital portraits and scenic images. The remaining wall will feature photographs taken in Turkey, especially Istanbul and the Whirling Dervishes. The corner area of the exhibit will be Giclee prints, which are photographs printed on canvas.

The public is invited to an Artist Reception on Thursday, Feb. 26, from 5:30 until 7 p.m. at the Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For additional information, persons may call 301-334-6580.

Roger Skipper To Read From New Novel: The Baptism Of Billy Bean

Oakland author Roger Alan Skipper's second novel, The Baptism of Billy Bean, is scheduled for release on Feb. 23. The 384 trade paperback is published by Counterpoint and distributed by Publishers Group West.

Skipper will offer a sneak preview during a reading this Saturday, Feb. 14, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Deer Park Sportsman's Club and the following Saturday, Feb. 21, from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Book Market in Oakland.

The book's protagonist, Lane Hollar, has seen little of the world beyond West Virginia - Parris Island and Vietnam - but that was enough. Now, 30 years later, he is estranged from his only son, Frank, and from society at large. Lane has his grandson Toby, his daughter-in-law Darlene, his bait shop, and his banjo, and he desires or needs nothing else.

But then one day, he and Toby are out fishing when they witness a drug-related murder. Suddenly, the boundaries of his world are no longer his to define. An investigation rules the drowning accidental, but reveals the witnesses to be the perpetrators, and without preamble, Lane is fighting for not only for his life, but also for the things that it has lacked: love, family, and peace.

Publishers Weekly said, "[Skipper offers] pitch-perfect dialogue, a skillfully drawn supporting cast, and a memorable portrait of the changing face of Appalachia enhance this impressive character study."

Booklist wrote, "[Skipper] is skilled at producing memorable character. . . . There is a delightful sense of country noir and world-weariness here that hard-boiled crime fans will savor."

Skipper's first novel, Tear Down the Mountain, was published in 2006.

The Garrett County native graduated from Southern High School in 1969, and served in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam era. He later became a luthier, constructing and playing acoustic musical instruments; a woodworker; building contractor; then president, general manager, and chairman of the board of directors of Beachy Lumber Company of West Virginia Inc.

At the age of 47, Skipper resigned his position to pursue his dreams of getting a college education and becoming a writer. He had previously put his wife Connie and two sons, Jason and Daniel, through college.

Skipper enrolled first in Garrett College and later Frostburg State University. After graduating from FSU in 2002, he was awarded the prestigious Jack Kent Cooke Graduate Scholarship. He later received a master of fine arts in creative writing from Vermont College, Montpelier, Vt.

The following is an excerpt from Chapter 2 of The Baptism of Billy Bean. (Note the punctuation is verbatim.)

As they passed in the Wal-Mart aisle their eyes touched and ratcheted back and the shorter man said, Hey, I know you. You're Lane Hollar. Not until the lower lip quiv-ered did Lane see past the gray hair and bifocals and the extra weight. Harry? he said. Harry the coaltruck driver.

How you been? The hand was cold and firm like half-hard clay. Not like his voice.

Better but I'm getting over it.

Me and the woman used to come dance when your bluegrass band played at the Legion. We miss that. He glanced over his shoulder. She's got too fat to dance anyhow so it's likely for the best.

If Lane had ever seen Harry's face in the Legion's dim-light swirl of cigarette smoke he'd not attached it to an owner. Yeah, he said. Meaning nothing.

We were at the Mid-Atlantic Banjo Championship one time too. Up at Cumberland. Watched you win it. You still pick some?

Haven't played a note for years.

That's a shame. There's nothing but country music nowadays. If you could call it that. Bunch of damn noise.

Yeah. Impatient to get his groceries and be gone but snagged on a splinter of shared experience. The way Mary's underpants used to catch on his calluses. You still driving coal-truck?

No, hell no. I kept on another couple weeks after that baldheaded feller run under me

FLEX YOUR BUYING MUSCLE

Regardless of the causes, most areas around the country are experiencing what is commonly referred to as a "buyer's market." That term might make sellers squirm, but for those purchasing a home, lower prices are just the starting point for negotiation these days.

During the recent "boom" years, buyers often accepted a property "as is," and asked for few concessions, even forgoing inspections and appraisals in an attempt to avoid being dumped for the next qualified buyer in the queue. Now, however, buyers are in the drivers seat and they know it, insisting on a variety of terms in their offers.

The most popular demand now seems to be the "home warranty," whereby the seller purchases a one-year service contract to cover any unexpected system and/or appliance repairs. Of course, this is on top of insisting that sellers pay for all needed repairs exposed by an inspection before closing, or at least an allowance paid to the buyers to cover the expenses.

Just one inspector doesn't seem to be enough, either. Now buyers are looking more closely at lead and radon levels, roofs and foundations, and looking into inspectors who specialize in these areas. Sellers find they need to be more flexible, or the buyers will simply move on to the next seller in the queue. Now is the time to boost your purchase power. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Boy Missing From G'ville Area; MSP Seeking Leads

Maryland State Police are once again seeking information on the whereabouts of a Grantsville juvenile, Michael Salmon, 16, who reportedly ran away from the Chestnut Ridge Road area.

This is the second incident in which the boy has been missing. He is described as a white male, 5'10", 185 lbs., with medium length red hair. Salmon is said to suffer from bipolar disorder. He was last seen wearing a dirty white hooded sweatshirt, jeans, and brown sneakers.

Broad Ford Elem. Kicks Off St. Jude '09 Math-A-Thon

A St. Jude Math-A-Thon event recently began at Broad Ford Elementary School. This program helps raise funds for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, a research and treatment center for childhood cancer and other deadly diseases. The Oakland community can sponsor students participating in the Math-A-Thon by pledging an amount-per-problem or a one-time donation.

"St. Jude is the leader in the fight against catastrophic childhood diseases such as leukemia, brain tumors and sickle cell disease," said principal Suzie Sincell, coordinator of the event. "Through events like this Math-A-Thon, Oakland will be supporting the St. Jude mission of finding cures and saving children across the country and around the world."

A tradition for more than 30 years, the Math-A-Thon is a supplemental math education program for grades K-8 that raises funds for the research and treatment of childhood diseases at St. Jude. Through programs like Math-A-Thon, the idea of St. Jude founder Danny Thomas to raise funds for the hospital through community-based events is able to continue.

Participating students receive a Funbook that is filled with math problems and puzzles. Students ask family and friends for pledges based on an amount-per-problem or a one-time donation. After students complete their Funbooks, they collect the pledges and donations from

FIRST LEGO Team To Compete In Tech Challenge

Garrett County has a new FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) team that will be competing next week at the Maryland State FIRST Tech Challenge (FTC) Tournament in LaPlata. The team is sponsored by the Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society (GEARS) and 4-H.

The team will be hosting an open house at the GEARS Center, Accident, this Sunday, Feb. 15. The event will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Guests will have the opportunity to see FIRST LEGO League (FLL), FTC, and the FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) Team 1629 run their robots. There will also be displays of other activities that happen at GEARS throughout the year such as the summer technology camps, underwater robotic workshops, SuGO Sundays, and the 4-H After-School Robotic programs.

"The G-Force team, FTC Team 2818, is a rookie team this season," said coach Arlene Lantz, "so the coaches are learning along with the high school team members." The season began in September with the release of the game challenge. This year's sports theme is to build a robot to retrieve hockey pucks and to score them in the center of a playing field.

The students have built a robot to manipulate objects and to navigate over uneven surfaces, which challenges the robotic designers, programmers, and drivers. During the match, the robot is to start out in a 30-second autonomous mode and then human drivers take over for the next two minutes. The team works with an alliance partner so four different robots will be on the field for each match.

"FTC offers fun and excitement in science and technology, real-world application of science and math concepts, hands-on problem solving, programming experience, and the opportunity to work alongside engineers and other professionals," said Lantz. "In addition, the students build self-esteem and confidence as well as teamwork skills." Being involved with FIRST also qualifies the students to apply for numerous college scholarships that are awarded annually.

Still Time To Get Flu Shot

There is still time to protect oneself from the flu and help stop its spread, according to the UnitedHealth Group.

"Flu season is here, but it's not too late to get vaccinated against the flu virus," said Sam Ho, M.D., executive vice president and chief medical officer of UnitedHealthcare.

"Because the virus mutates and changes from one flu season to the next, last year's flu shot (2007) won't protect against this year's virus," he continued. "We encourage everyone, especially people in the high-risk groups for influenza, to make their health a priority by scheduling time to get their annual flu shot."

UnitedHealth Group recommends that anyone who falls under the following categories should get their flu shot vaccinations as soon as possible:

- children 6 months through 18 years of age;
- pregnant women;
- individuals of any age with certain chronic medical conditions;
- adults 50 years of age and older;
- individuals who live in nursing homes and other long-term care facilities.

A doctor's order is not required for a flu shot; however, a normal office visit co-pay or co-insurance may apply. Most employer-sponsored, Medicare and Medicaid plans offered through health carriers, such as UnitedHealthcare and its affiliates, provide full payment coverage for the vaccination.

In addition to scheduling an appointment with their primary-care physician for a flu shot, UnitedHealthcare's 1.5 million participants in the region can locate a local flu shot provider by visiting www.myuhc.com, or by calling the toll-free number on the back of their member ID card.

Customers are reminded to consult their plan documents for specific information regarding flu shot vaccinations.

homes, according to the VA.

The VA and Oakland Elks Lodge invite local residents to visit/honor these hospitalized veterans and to participate in a variety of activities at the VA medical centers. The activities and events include special ward visits and valentine distributions, photo opportunities, school essay contests, special recreation activities, and veteran recognition programs.

The week also provides an opportunity for the community to become acquainted with the volunteer opportunities within the medical center. Persons may visit va.gov/directory to locate the nearest VA facility.

Notes From Bittering

by Joan Giotfelty Sussman

Aunt Helen Englar and son Mike Englar of Westminster came up last weekend for the memorial service for Margie Shirer, mother to Lisa, who is my brother Barry's long-time girlfriend.

On Dean's List

James Lawrence Kent has been named to the dean's list at Pensacola Christian College for academic achievement during the 2008 fall semester. This was a result of earning a B average or higher.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kent of Kitzmiller.

Pensacola (Fla.) Christian College is a liberal arts college enrolling more than 4,000 students from every state in the U.S. and from around the world.

February 7 would have been my grandfather Oral Giotfelty's 120th birthday. He was born in 1889 and died in 1980. In his life he saw lots of change.

Pastor Randy Richardson had to spend the night in the hospital last Monday. All the tests came back negative, and he was released to come home on Tuesday. He is feeling fine now.

A joint worship service will be held Sunday, Feb. 22, at 10 a.m. at Zion Lutheran Church. This will celebrate Zion's 100th anniversary as a member of the Bittering Lutheran Parish. Bishop Ralph Dunkin will be attending and will deliver the sermon.

Ruth DiPaolo is hanging in there. She is looking forward to spring so she can get out a little bit. Winter is almost over; we get through February, and then in March begins the first stage of spring.

Terry Beitzel called his mother from James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va., to tell her they got three inches of snow. That is a good bit of snow for down there.

I hear several R-publican law-makers who say the current economy rescue is "the largest public fund in history." Not so; FDR spent tons of money to drag our nation out of the Great Depression, and construction projects did work then. Of course, the spending for World War II also helped by building machines of war for our nation and our allies.

But the Bush-Cheney administration is in a class by itself as a failure. They worshiped the "free market," but they destroyed it.

Americans will have a hard time trusting the financial sector in regulating itself because of the "fat cat" bailout. At least the next installment has some safeguards, including a cap for executive pay at a level of one hundred thousand over the president's salary. It is a step in the right direction, but it still does not address the key problem in our economic meltdown.

Can America hold her head high when so many of her citizens are in such poor financial shape? One proposal that I thought was best was to replace the aging fuel-guzzling federal fleet of cars with fuel-efficient cars. That would provide three bonuses for the U.S.: stimulate our failing automobile industry, reduce dependence on foreign oil, and better the environment.

The last decade or so has been horrible for America, and there is no simple solution in fixing it.

Lakers Defeat St. Mary's, But Fall To Allegany And Rockville

The Garrett College men's basketball team dropped a tough Maryland JUCO Conference decision to visiting rival Allegany College Saturday night, 73-64. The Lakers then bounced back Monday to record a 72-56 non-conference win over the visiting jayvee squad of St. Mary's College of Maryland, only to fall to host Montgomery-Rockville, 73-65, in another JUCO clash last night.

The 1-2 week left the Lakers with an overall record of 18-6 and a Maryland JUCO mark of 8-6, with just two more conference games to play.

Leading by as many as 10 points in the first half of Saturday's game against Allegany, the Lakers saw their lead slip when J.T. Lewis fell on a wet spot along the sideline and the Trojans picked up the ball for an easy layup to give them a 64-62 lead.

The visitors increased their lead to as many as nine points in the final five minutes. A three-pointer from the left corner by Chris Speicher cut the Trojans' lead to 68-64 with 42 seconds remaining.

The Lakers pressed and fouled Allegany's Steve Shepp, but he sank both free throws. That was followed by a Laker turnover and another goal by the Trojans.

Shepp was fouled again and hit two more free throws with 28 seconds remaining. Missed three by Mo Gunn and Brian Koonce in the final seconds kept the Allegany procession to the foul line going, as Nathan Herriott hit one of two to finish the scoring for the evening.

"We played a 25-minute game, and that is not enough to beat a well balanced team like Allegany," said Laker coach Dennis Gibson. "Our defensive intensity in the last five minutes was non-existent, we missed defensive assignments, and Allegany made plays. Plus, on the shot chart, 75 percent of Allegany's scoring came inside the paint in the second half."

with 16 points, including 11 of 14 free throws, but had only two buckets for the game. Rodney Clark recorded five assists to go along with 15 points, and Koonce added 11 with a perfect 7-of-7 from the free-throw line. Lewis had a team-high seven rebounds.

Aaron Brackett led a balanced scoring effort by the Trojans, as he finished with 17 points and seven rebounds. Jeff Early recorded 15 points and seven rebounds. Shepp finished with 14 points, eight assists, and three steals, and Terrence Green reached double figures with 10 points.

The victory was the ninth in a row for the Trojans, who are 19-5 overall and 13-2 in the conference.

"We are close to being a very good basketball team, that can contend for the Region XX title," said Coach Gibson. "We have our shortcomings in the areas of size and consistent outside shooting, but we can make up for that by improving our defense and playing with a greater sense of urgency on each possession."

The Lakers had little trouble getting back on track Monday evening against the St. Mary's junior varsity.

Mo Gunn again led the scoring for the Lakers with 16 points, plus had four rebounds and a pair of steals in just 21 minutes of

Lakers Fall To ACC, Edge HCC For JUCO Win

In JUCO action this past week, the Garrett College Laker women's basketball team was defeated by Allegany 65-56 at Garrett College on Friday, but came back with a 68-54 win over host Howard Community College on Saturday.

Brittany Pendleton paced Garrett with 13 points in Friday's game against Allegany, and Janay Collins followed with 12. Brittany Boyce and Brianna Carter each added 10 points.

Allegany was led by Melissa Ford and Johnnae McCoy's 17 points. Jackie Simon also scored 10 for the Trojans.

Allegany was ahead, 33-25, by halftime.

In Saturday's game against Howard, Carter led the Lakers with 21 points, 11 rebounds, and eight steals. Collins and LaCresha Hankins each finished with 13 points. Collins also added 14 rebounds, and Pendleton had five assists and five blocks.

Anna Grayton scored 14 points for Howard, and teammate Marcia Bond followed with 13.

Garrett was ahead, 34-25, at halftime.

The Lakers are scheduled to travel to Chesapeake Community College on Friday.

Sophomore point forward J.T. Lewis added 13 points, three rebounds, and a team-high five assists, while Terrence Taylor also reached double figures with 10 points.

Up by just four points at the half, 28-24, the Lakers turned up the full-court pressure and ballooned the lead to 56-36 with about eight minutes remaining in the game.

All 11 Lakers got playing time, with 10 of them getting into the scoring column.

Freshman Howard Ferguson hit two of four threes and finished with nine points in leading the reserves.

"I think what our players thought was that a JV team would not be that good, and took them lightly," said Gibson. "They came in with just seven players, but four of them were 6-6 or bigger, and were also juniors and seniors."

Gibson noted that St. Mary's point guard played at DeMatha High School, consistently among the top five high school programs in the nation.

"They played hard and smart," Gibson continued. "It was a good game for us and for our guys to learn from. At this time of year, everyone is prepared and ready to compete."

The Lakers seemed well in control of last night's contest with Montgomery-Rockville, as they were up by as many as 13 points in the first half and held a 10-point, 32-22 lead at intermission.

But the Scarlet Knights rallied for 51 second-half points to sink the Lakers.

After falling behind, Garrett got within four points in the waning minutes of the game, but Rockville got a turnover and connected for a three-point play.

Gunn led Garrett in scoring with 16 points, Reco Siler finished with 12, and Rodney Clark and Brian Koonce each contributed 11.

Hitting a game-high 18 points for Rockville was Kamal Terrence. Terrell Addison and Antoine Brown chipped in with 13 and 11 points, respectively.

this Saturday.

Saturday will be Sophomore Night at Garrett, as it will be the final regular-season game for seven of the Lakers.

"We hope a lot of people come out to see Chris Speicher, Terrence Taylor, Mo Gunn, Reco Siler, Brian Koonce, J.T. Lewis, and Mihail Dimitrov in their final home game," Gibson said.

"This is an exceptional group of young men who are good basketball players," he continued. "There are also some exceptional students in the group, as Siler, Gunn, Koonce, and Speicher are scheduled to graduate. Mihail is a transfer and still needs a summer class, but he is also in the honors program and carries a 3.9 gpa overall."

The first round of the Maryland JUCO Conference Tournament will begin next Tuesday, with locations and opponents yet to be determined pending the final regular-season games throughout the conference this weekend.

A VIEW FROM THE PEW

As we each travel closer to eternity, it terrifies me when I think of those who will spend it outside of heaven, that is, in hell. Why should it worry anyone? First, we know that our earthly life is so very brief (as a vapor) and can end unexpectedly. When it does end, we are forever gone from this world. Can we prove that our final destination is either heaven or hell? Yes, by simply looking at history. We have written history extending back well before the birth of Christ. But going back to His birth is sufficient for us to examine why He came to earth, and what we must do in order to enter His eternal Kingdom, which we surely all want to do.

To understand the meaning of life, we must first understand its purpose. Our purpose is to accept Jesus as the Son of God, to believe that He died for our sin, that He resurrected back to life and then ascended into heaven. To comprehend this is really simpler than you might think; however, it does take a bit of reading...reading of the Bible (which is authentic history). I suggest you begin with reading the Gospel of St. John. You will find much there that should cause you to want to read more. As you read the Bible, you will no doubt encounter verses which you do not completely understand. We all do. However, as you continue reading, you will realize that this history book is truly filled with the answers to life's questions — why God created us and why we are here. You will see that we were created to serve Him, and not ourselves, not to build the biggest house in town or acquire worldly treasures or gain great power. These things can be enticing, but they are also temporary. They quickly vanish when we breathe our last breath.

So, why are we here? To accept Jesus and live for Him, in order to spend eternity in heaven... and to disseminate His Gospel to others and point them to these truths. The choice of where we spend eternity is completely our own. Read the best history book ever written and discover why heaven is the only choice you want to make for your eternal destiny.

Southern Drops To 4-13, 2-9 AMAC After Losses To Allegany, Mtn. Ridge

Ever since the loss to Frankfort last week, the Southern High School varsity boys' basketball team has struggled to pick itself back up, falling 57-33 to Allegany on Friday in Cumberland, and 47-31 to host Mtn. Ridge in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game on Tuesday.

The first half saw few points for Southern in Friday's game against Allegany, with the Rams trailing 14-6, and 30-10 by halftime. Southern remained down, 45-21, to start the fourth.

Dan Shockey scored 11 points as the only player for the Rams to reach double figures.

The Campers were led by Casey Roberts' game-high 24 points, and Jordan Grady added 13. Roberts supplied six steals and five rebounds, while Grady had seven rounds, four assists, and four steals.

Allegany defeated Southern, 66-40, in the junior varsity game. Joe Kisselovich

Treatment for this Muscular Weakness

Muscular dystrophy is a broad term for muscle weakness. Duchenne's muscular dystrophy is the most severe form. This condition occurs primarily in young boys. It is caused by a defect in a gene that normally produces dystrophin, a muscle fiber protein. When an insufficient amount of dystrophin is produced, a breakdown of muscle fibers occurs. Symptoms usually do not begin before 3 to 5 years of age. The muscle weakness that occurs may include frequent falls and difficulty running and jumping. In addition, impairments in intellectual abilities are common. Between 8 to 12 years of age, braces will likely be required to assist with walking, and eventually a wheelchair will be necessary. During the late teenage years, persons affected by the condition are at high risk of developing serious complications, including fatal pulmonary infections.

Persons affected by Duchenne's muscular dystrophy should receive the pneumococcal vaccine and an annual influenza vaccination. Prednisone may be prescribed for boys over 5 years of age. Prednisone works to slow down the progression of this condition. Benefits of treatment with corticosteroids include increases in strength, muscle function, and pulmonary function. Side effects include weight gain and increased fracture risk.

Rams Pln East Fairmont; Scheffel Edged In Battle Of State Champs

Prior to last night's Regional Dual Championships (see separate story), the Southern High School wrestling team concluded its regular season last Thursday evening by handing East Fairmont a 50-24 defeat at Preston High School in Kingwood.

The victory gave the Rams a 13-1 record, and featured a battle between two reigning state champions in the 140-pound class.

Brutus Scheffel, the current Maryland champion, took on defending West Virginia state champ Hunter Jenkins, with Jenkins edging out Scheffel on points, 4-3.

According to Ram head coach Dave Taylor, Jenkins scored the first takedown on a shot so deep there was nothing Scheffel could do to stop it. After a one-point escape, Scheffel scored a takedown of his own on the edge to take a 3-2 lead.

Jenkins escaped to tie it at 3-3 at the end of the first. "Brutus chose 'down,' and could not escape," Taylor said. "He was close a couple times, but Jenkins was able to get a leg in and ride him out. Jenkins chose down in the third and Brutus rode him for about a minute before giving up the escape.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS DIRECTOR HONORED - Matia Vanderbilt, the area director for Special Olympics Garrett County (SOGA), was presented with the Chairman's Award for Director of the Year recently. The award is given annually to the area or county director who has been an ongoing and integral part of the success of his or her program over the past year. Vanderbilt is in her first year as the director for Garrett County. She was successful in recruiting a number of new people to serve in key leadership positions on her management team. She also constructed a transportation plan that eliminated a significant barrier to athlete participation, which is often a problem in the area since the county is so geographically large. The program has doubled in the number of athletes participating, a spokesperson said. Two new sports, basketball and soccer, have been added as well, and partnerships with local businesses have been built. Vanderbilt was instrumental in the organizing of several social events, including a holiday dance and a summer picnic. She is a coach for snowshoeing, bocce, kayaking, cycling, and soccer. She commended Lisa Davis of Garrett County Service Coordination for her efforts in implementing the transportation plan, which helped with the athletes get to practices and events. Karen Broadwater, another local resident, was given the High Five Award for her many years of service as a volunteer, coach, and assistant area director. Pictured in the photo from left to right are Dr. Patricia Fegan, the president and CEO of Special Olympics of Maryland; Roger Uber; Karen Broadwater; and Matia Vanderbilt.

"Brutus had one good chance to score near the end with a lifting double, but on the way down, Jenkins hit a funk and the ref called a quick stalemate," Taylor concluded.

Southern's Josh Arnold wrestled well against another state champ, Hunter Wood, in the 125-pound class. The match was scoreless going into the third period, in which Arnold took a 1-0 lead with an escape. But Wood scored a winning takedown with little time remaining to eke out a 2-1 win.

Mason Bailey, yet another W.Va. Champion, won the 171-pound division by pinning Southern's Kody Lewis.

Garnering pins for the Rams were Davey Stewart in the 112-pound division, Lex Ozias at 130 pounds, J.D. Sweitzer at 145, Bubba Scheffel at 152, Jordan Skipper at 160, and Ryan Bennett at 189.

Nicholas Brant gained an injury default win in the 135-pound division, Ryan Fitzwater won by decision in the 215-pound clash, and Matt Slone was awarded a forfeit in the 119-pound bout.

Other East Preston grapplers gaining pins besides Bailey were Layne Michael (103) and Zach Townsend (285).

The Rams will compete in the state dual tournament this Saturday and host the Bi-County Championships on Saturday, Feb. 21.

Dunk Slated

The fun starts early this year with Friday night's "Honi-Fest" featuring the "Toast Your Buns" Bonfire from 6 to 10 p.m., live music by local band Time Flies beginning at 8 p.m., an outdoor pizza party and carnival games, and drink specials both inside and out. Those who are dunking on Saturday may pre-register anytime between 6 and 9 p.m. Friday evening.

Day-of registration begins at noon on Saturday, and the dunk will take place at 2 p.m. There is no fee for spectators, and dunkers of all ages are welcome, though participants under the age of 18 will need signed parental consent. To register, persons may visit www.dunkmd.com or call 800-541-7544, x503 (Md. only) or 410-789-6677, x503, and register through the 24-hour Dunk hotline.

Dunk-day activities include music by DJ Jonny Rock, food, a wacky costume contest, and a live remote by WKHJ 104.5. Following the main event, the Black Bear Tavern is hosting the official Post-Dunk Party from 6 p.m. to closing, complete with live music by Brothers Short and Poison Whiskey.

A suggested $5 donation to Special Olympics Maryland gets one the official Deep Creek Dunk oval sticker and the chance to win great prizes all evening.

In order to join the event and take a dip into Deep Creek Lake, participants must raise a minimum of $50 in pledges. For that contribution they will receive a complimentary meal from Uno Chicago Bar & Grill, a commemorative event sweatshirt, a group color photo, and "the great feeling of freezing their fur out for a great cause," said a spokesperson. Special prizes will also be awarded for the top three fundraisers, the top law enforcement fundraiser, the best costume, and the top fundraising team.

Last year's 10th Anniversary Dunk included just under 600 participants and raised $125,000, with all proceeds benefiting SOMD and its year-round sports training and competition programs for individuals with intellectual disabilities.

The MSP/NRP Dunk is just the beginning of a full weekend of activities for Special Olympics Maryland, with the annual SOMD Winter Games beginning the following evening, March 1. Winter Games features competition in alpine skiing, modified alpine, cross-country skiing, and the newest addition, snowshoeing.

Approximately 300 athletes from both Maryland and Delaware will travel to Garrett County for this state-level event. TWO MIXERS ARE NEEDED to efficiently produce the thousands of bon-bons Amelia plans to sell for Valentine's Day. Here she is adding confectioner's sugar to the mixers that are whipping up peanut butter dough. Weighing and rolling out the dough for the bon-bons, below, is Amelia's sister, Lois Williams, from Baltimore, who travels up to Garrett County for the many weeks it takes to get the bon-bons and eggs made. Lois owned and ran a candy and cake shop out of her home for more than 20 years, and has played an integral role in Amelia's fundraiser. Photos by Angie Sincell.

Amelia's Bon-Bons Just In Time For Valentine's Day; 12,700 And Counting
by Angie Sincell

When walking into Amelia Wolf's home, it's hard to imagine that her kitchen has been and is the center of an incredible eight year donation project. But unless the name Amelia's Bon-Bons is familiar, there would be no clues that hint towards her efforts.

Just this year, she has produced over 12,700 bon-bons which she has packaged one-by-one to sell. And she isn't finished. She'll continue to mix, weigh, roll, dip, and package these bon-bons until Valentine's Day. Then, she'll switch to chocolate covered eggs for Easter.

REACH IN AND TAKE ONE! After being dipped in chocolate, the bon-bons are left to cool on a cookie sheet. From there, the candies are packaged six to a bag, labeled, and tied ready to sell by the bag or by the box. Last year Amelia put together 2,181 bags of bon-bons and 2,166 bags of Easter eggs. Photos by Angie Sincell.

"We are so thankful for all the donations," she said. "We've had donations from friends and family, from the VFW Men's Auxiliary, and even directly from Cindy's Fund."

These donations aid Amelia in purchasing the supplies needed to make her candy.

Her supply list is long and she has already gone through 40 jars of peanut butter; 232 lbs. of confectioners sugar; 109 lbs. of butter; 4 cans of evaporated milk; 6 lbs. of nuts; 255 lbs. of chocolate; 2 gallons of cherries; 8 bags of coconut; 5 rolls of wax paper; 2 gallons of oil; 2 large packages of paper towels; 1900 plastic bags; and 2 skeins of yarn.

She has enlisted the help of many family members, including her husband, Fredolen, who makes the deliveries and picks up supplies. Her sister, Lois Williams of Baltimore, who ran a cake and candy shop out of her home for 20 years, comes up for the couple of months of cooking to help with every step from mixing, to weighing, to rolling, to dipping, to packaging. Amelia's granddaughter Jordan will spend her days off from school to help her grandmother roll and weigh the bon-bons. Even Amelia's mother-in-law, Edna Wolf, lends a hand when it's time to weigh and roll.

Amelia makes roughly 10 batches a day, managing 14 bags per batch, sometimes starting at 6:30 in the morning and making them all day.

When asked why she chose bon-bons and eggs to sell, she said, "The idea of using chocolate eggs was mine, after having made them for years, and being so familiar with them. My sister came up with the idea of making bon-bons so that we could expand the project and make candies through Spring."

Amelia promotes her project by sending flyers to local businesses and schools in hopes to promote her sales. She has trays ready, containing 25-30 bags of bon-bons to sell for $2 a bag. They come in the flavors of peanut butter, maple nut, cherry nut, and coconut, all dipped in chocolate.

For those interested in making a contribution or perhaps to purchase her candies, persons may call her at 301-334-3077.

Amelia asks that persons who want to donate would give it straight to Cindy's Fund. But if persons who want to donate directly to Amelia, cash donations or supplies are welcome. She does ask that the peanut butter be JIF and the butter be Blue Bonnet.

Biser To Teach At The NMMU School Of Law In South Africa

Elizabeth Biser, director of juvenile justice at Garrett College, is the recipient of the Rotary International Grant for University Teachers. She will be assigned to the Law School of the Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University in Port Elizabeth, South Africa, for a five-month period of teaching and research.

Biser was nominated by the Oakland Rotary and was sponsored by member Dr. Thomas Carr. She is one of approximately 20 applicants nationwide to receive the scholarship and competed against well-qualified applicants from several universities, including Penn State.

"I am very excited by this opportunity to represent Garrett County and Garrett College," Biser said. "We are fortunate in western Maryland to enjoy the benefit of agencies working together, and the college has accomplished some pretty fantastic landmarks for both youth and the students who will eventually become professionals in the juvenile justice field."

The Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University has approximately 25,000 students and 2,500 staff members across seven campuses. Established in 2005, NMMU is the result of the merging of the Port Elizabeth Technikon, the University of Port Elizabeth (UPE), and the Port Elizabeth campus of Vista University (Vista PE). This union came about as the result of the government's country wide restructuring of higher education, intended to deliver a more equitable and efficient system to meet the needs of South Africa in the 21st century. NMMU represents a new wave of educational opportunity in South Africa, itself a relatively new incarnation of democracy.

While in South Africa, Biser will lecture to students of the NMMU School of Law on the American system of juvenile justice and will share how Garrett College developed a cooperative relationship to deliver college courses to delinquent youth. "South Africa faces juvenile delinquency challenges similar to those of the United States, but perhaps for different reasons," said Biser. "A particular research interest of mine is to discover how social institutions either insulate youth from delinquency or contribute to it."

BISER TO TEACH AT SOUTH AFRICAN UNIVERSITY - Elizabeth Biser, director of juvenile justice at Garrett College, was recently nominated for and awarded the Rotary International Grant for University Teachers. She has been assigned to the Law School of the Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University, where she will lecture to students on the American system of juvenile justice. In the above photo, from left, are Bob Stephens, Rotary International Foundation chair, Biser, and Tom Carr, Rotarian and sponsor for Biser. See story for more details.

In addition to classroom lectures, Biser will also conduct research with NMMU faculty in areas related to juvenile delinquency.

The Rotary International Grant for University Teachers scholarship builds international understanding and fosters development while strengthening higher education in low-income countries. It also aims to establish ties between higher-education institutions, leading to the exchange of ideas and information worldwide.

"I hope that this will be the beginning of a long and productive relationship between NMMU and Garrett College," Biser said. "I am looking forward to learning about South Africa and bringing home stories to share with my community. This is the opportunity of a lifetime."

A flagship initiative of Garrett's Juvenile Justice Program is the Backbone College Program, a cooperative learning program between the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services and the college, and is the only program of its kind in the state of Maryland.

Implemented in 2006, the Backbone College Program introduced a selected group of young men at the Backbone Mountain Youth Center in Garrett County to college coursework. Since then, a total of 85 students have earned a collective 522 credits, including four students who have completed a full-time course load based on 12 credits during their placement at Backbone.

The program course, "Inside-Out," is based upon the model developed by Temple University that places program majors and adjudicated youth together in a classroom on-site at a youth facility. Another program course developed by Biser teaches students interdisciplinary goal planning, based upon actual case studies of delinquent youth.

"These are the kinds of experiences one might expect in a four-year institu-

"And we are offering them at the community college level to a unique group of students who will be exceptionally prepared for demanding careers in juvenile justice."

The juvenile justice system in the United States is based upon the belief that youth may not understand as well as adults the seriousness of their offenses and the hope that youth will respond more readily to rehabilitation.

The South African system of justice does not include a separate system for juveniles and is altogether a new system of justice compared to that of the United States or the previous apartheid era of the government of South Africa.

According to a spokesperson, NMMU is interested in learning from Biser more about how the American juvenile justice system works and is particularly interested in the innovative ways in which Garrett College has engaged juvenile justice students with adjuicated youth through the "Inside-Out" course and the Backbone Mountain College Program.

Biser earned a master's degree from Loyola College in Maryland and is a licensed professional counselor. Prior to returning to Garrett County to assume her current position, she directed residential treatment for a program serving several hundred youth in Nevada. A 1987 graduate of Garrett College, Biser returned to join the college faculty in 2002. Since then, the Juvenile Justice Program, the premier juvenile justice program in Maryland and the mid-Atlantic region, has grown to include multiple opportunities for program majors to interact directly with professionals in the field and with adjudicated youth in program placements.

Biser is the daughter of Linn and Joyce Grant and the late Anne Grant. She resides in Oakland with her children.

According to legislation (Annotated Code 14-809), the county collector shall proceed to advertise and sell any real property located in any municipal corporation in the county on which municipal corporation taxes are delinquent. Unpaid amounts for municipalities or other taxing agencies were shown at the bottom of the notices. YG RECOGNIZES GATORS, MATHEMATICIANS, AND GYM STUDENTS – Yough Glades Elementary School recently named its Gators, Mathematicians, and PE Students of the Month for January for displaying fairness. The kindergarten registration program will be held in all elementary schools during April and May. Through the comprehensive registration program, each child registering for school will receive a general health interview and dental screening. Immunizations will also be available for a fee of $12.

Parents must register any child who will be 5 years old by Sept. 1, 2009. The law allows exemptions to the school attendance requirements as follows:

- Permits compliance through the home school instruction regulation.
- Grants a one-year immaturity waiver if the parent or guardian makes a written request to the local school system
- Allows a 5-year-old to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings: a full-time licensed child care center, a full-time registered family day care home, or part-time in a Head Start 5-year-old program.

Parents who choose to use one of the exemptions from the required 5-year-old attendance must request the appropriate exemption form from the Department of Pupil Services by calling 301-334-8939.

State regulations require parents to provide evidence of birth (their child's birth certificate), an official immunization record, and documented proof of current residency. Documents accepted by the state of Maryland as proof of residency include: a deed or mortgage agreement; current property tax bill; current rental lease or agreement; or a current utility bill with applicant's name and address.

Parents must also complete an Affidavit of Disclosure to verify the residency of the student. Social Security cards will be requested at registration as well.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out a registration form that can be picked up at a local elementary school or at the Garrett County Board of Education building, and mail it to the designated address. All parents registering children for school will receive a registration appointment.

Students will not be regis-

ACCELERATED READERS RECOGNIZED AT YG – Yough Glades Elementary School recently recognized numerous students who are "soaring" in their Accelerated Reader Program. The program is designed for students to read particular books and take tests regarding the comprehension of the selection. In return for their work, students accumulate points that they are later able to use to purchase specific items from the accelerated reader store. Student names are then displayed in particular point clubs. In the front row, from left are Cameron Riley (10 pts.), Regan Harvey (5), Regina Roberts (15), Wesley Dixon (5), Jacob Jones (10), and Jordyn Sines (15). Everywhere you look there are hearts...plain, fancy, big, small, paper, candy...could it be Valentine's Day?

There are as many varieties of hearts as there are people.

Some have "big hearts," others are "soft-hearted." There are those who "wear their hearts on their sleeve," and there are "sweethearts."

Why not open your heart this Valentine's Day and have a "heart to heart" with someone you care for? Share your heartfelt sentiments.

As you worship this week, thank God for His love for you as He dwells within your heart.

Feed the Hungry

Worldwide, countless millions go hungry every day, and yet there is seemingly an abundance of food. It might seem odd to most Americans, for whom there is food in abundance and a "dollar menu" on almost every corner, that there are so many hungry people. Part of the problem is in how the food and the money are distributed. Over a billion people on this planet (roughly one-sixth of the world's population) subsist on less than a dollar a day, and roughly 40% lives on less than two dollars a day, according to the United Nations. So, even if they had access to the dollar menu, it wouldn't do them much good. It is easy enough in the wealthy, developed countries of the world to feed ourselves; indeed, many of us suffer from the effects of having too much food. According to the CDC, two-thirds of Americans are overweight. But, in the developing world, food is scarce and poorly distributed. And although it is probably too simplistic of an approach, it would go a long way towards ameliorating poverty and hunger if the two-thirds of us who are overweight would just eat less and use the money saved to help alleviate hunger in the developing nations. In a more practical way, we should study and reflect on the problems of hunger and malnutrition throughout the world, and then do something concrete to help feed the hungry.

Then they also will answer, 'Lord, when did we see thee hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister thee?' Then he will answer them, 'Truly, I say to you, as you did it not to one of the least of these, you did it not to me.'

Grape Seed Extract and Leukemia

Grape seed extract is obtained from the seeds of grapes. The extract has been used for health purposes as a laxative, to improve circulation, heal wounds, and to treat heart and vision problems. It is also being investigated currently for cancer prevention. Grape seed extract contains compounds called proanthocyanidins. These substances neutralize free radicals in the body. Free radicals are responsible for tissue damage and cell death. Proanthocyanidins provide an antioxidant activity.

One recent study of the effects of grape seed extract on leukemia (blood cancer) cells in a test tube showed that the extract activates a protein called JNK. It is thought that this protein causes leukemia cells to die. It is unclear if grape seed extract has the same effect in the human body. The incidence of side effects in patients taking grape seed is low. The most common complaints include dry, itchy scalp; headache; dizziness and nausea. Grape seed extract may increase the risk of bleeding, and should not be used by people who take other blood thinning medications or supplements.

Fox drama will get its final 'Break' soon

By Jay Bobbin

Q: What happened to "Prison Break" on Fox? -Jim Green, Vero Beach, Fla.
A: It'll be back, but not for long. The network has announced that the current season of the drama series will be its last, with the final episodes set to begin April 17. Reportedly, there will be definite resolution for siblings Lincoln and Michael (Dominic Purcell, Wentworth Miller), so viewers won't be left hanging about their ultimate fates. Which, the show's makers have added, isn't to say the body count won't rise before all is said and done.

Q: Could you tell me the name of the young man who presented Anna Paquin's award to her at the recent Golden Globe Awards? I thought he looked like a young Robert Wagner. -Dee Carlier, New Bedford, Mass.
A: The award actually was presented by two actors, Chris Pine and Zachary Quinto, who play Kirk and Spock in the "Star Trek" reboot set to hit movie theaters May 8. With the Wagner-resemblance reference, you must be thinking of Pine; he has appeared in episodes of "ER" and "CSI: Miami," and his other films include "The Princess Diaries 2: Royal Engagement," "Just My Luck," "Smokin' Aces" and "Bottle Shock."

Q: I was wondering if "Jericho" was going to come back on...Beth Summit, Reed-Sport, Ore.

A: In terms of new episodes, no. CBS reversed itself once on canceling the show about a town isolated by a nuclear blast, responding to fans' requests (and a deluge of notes sent to the network) by ordering an abbreviated second season, but the ratings didn't merit keeping the series in production. However, repeats of existing episodes are running Sundays on The CW, which had a need to revise its lineup quickly when its slate on that night - farmed out to an outside agency to handle - went nowhere fast.

Q: Is Roxann Dawson, the sometimes director of shows such as "NCIS," the same person who appeared as B'Elanna Torres on "Star Trek: Voyager"? -Nancy Streeter, Raleigh, N.C.

A: She is. One of her earliest directing jobs, in fact, was guiding a couple of episodes of that sci-fi series - but she hasn't directed "NCIS," at least not yet. Among other shows on which she has called the shots are "Star Trek: Enterprise" (logically enough), "Lost," "Heroes," "The Closer," "The O.C.," "Charmed" and two dramas on which she also was a producer, "Cold Case" and "Crossing Jordan."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- It was Herb Caen, Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle, who made the following sage observation: "Cockroaches and socialites are the only things that can stay up all night and eat anything."
- The oldest man in the United States is George Francis, who was born on June 6, 1896, which means he was already nearly 50 years old when D-Day occurred. In an interesting coincidence, the United Kingdom's oldest man, Henry Allingham, is also 112 years old — and was born on the exact same day of the exact same year.
- Do you suffer from metathesophobia? That's the scientific appellation given to the fear of change.
- In 2007, one of the justices serving on the Virginia Supreme Court ordered a plaintiff to drop her pants in court. The purpose was to look at an injury on her leg that was relevant to the case at hand; however, the order was deemed inappropriate and the offending justice was removed from the bench.
- Every single day, across the globe, there are more than 200 million Internet searches conducted on Google's search engine.
- If you are like the average American man, over the course of your lifetime you will spend a grand total of five years in the simple act of shaving. No word in the record at hand of how long women spend on the same chore, taking into account the fact that the real estate they cover in their shaving duties is, generally speaking, larger than that covered by men.
- If you take into account all the sales in the world, there are approximately 50 Bibles sold every minute.

Thought for the Day: "Not every story has explosions and car chases. That's why they have nudity and espionage." — Bill Barnes and Gene Anshum

- On Feb. 16, 1923, in Thebes, Egypt, English archaeologist Howard Carter enters the sealed burial chamber of the ancient Egyptian ruler King Tutankhamen. King Tut lived around 1400 B.C. and died when he was still a teenager.
- On Feb. 18, 1930, the planet Pluto is discovered by the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz. In August 2006, however, the International Astronomical Union announced that Pluto would no longer be considered a planet as Pluto's oblong orbit overlaps that of Neptune.
- On Feb. 22, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt orders Gen. Douglas MacArthur out of the Philippines, as the American defense of the islands collapses. MacArthur at first balked — he was fully prepared to fight alongside his men to the death if necessary — but finally obeyed the president's order in March.
- On Feb. 21, 1952, Elizabeth Taylor, 20, marries Michael Wilding. It was Taylor's second marriage. At age 18, she had married hotelier Nicky Hilton, less than two weeks before the debut of her 1950 movie "Father of the Bride." She would be married six more times, twice to Richard Burton.
- On Feb. 17, 1979, Garrison Keillor's popular radio variety show "Prairie Home Companion" is first broadcast nationally as part of National Public Radio's Folk Festival America. The show, which had been running locally on Minnesota Public Radio since 1974, is still on the air today.
- On Feb. 20, 1986, France and Britain announce that a tunnel under the English Channel between the two countries would soon become a reality. ## Vacation Home or Kennel?

Q: When I'm staying in a rental home at the coast, where is the best place for my dog, "Riley," to stay: the rental home or a kennel close by? — Todd Y., Nantux, Ore.

A: If you're bringing your dog on vacation with you (which is fantastic, by the way), he should stay with you if at all possible. A kennel tends to be a stressful place for dogs, even if you come to pick him up every day. If you're vacationing in an unfamiliar place, you may not know how well the kennel is run, if the dogs that stay there are kept healthy and happy, and if illnesses like kennel cough are kept to a minimum. Riley will benefit from his owner being with him in an unfamiliar place, particularly at night. So, Riley should stay with you. If you're bringing him on vacation, he should experience the vacation with you.

A caveat, however: always get clearance from the rental home's owner before bringing a pet. Vacation-rental agreements often stipulate that no pets are allowed in the house. This happens, sadly, because not all pet owners control their pets, and damage can be done to the rental property.

Many rentals that allow pets will charge an extra fee, sometimes per pet, to cover any potential damages. The fee is usually nonrefundable — but in my experience it's much cheaper than the cost of keeping your pet in a reputable kennel.

If the vacation rental you're considering does not allow pets, look for another house in the area. Several sites on the Internet list pet-friendly rentals, including Oregon.com (<http://www.oregon.com/lodging/pet-friendly.cfm>); HomeAway.com (<http://www.homeaway.com/index.cfm?mktg/oregon-pet-friendly-vacation-rentals>); and DogFriendly.com (<http://www.dogfriendly.com/server/ravel/guides/us/state/OR.shtml>).

Collecting by Larry Cox

Q: I have three lunchboxes, all from the 1960s. I have been offered $150 for the three and wonder if I should hold out for more. — Susan, Lexington, Ky.

A: What you should do is consult a good price guide. I will share a little story with you that will illustrate my point. Last year, a Rocky and Bullwinkle prototype lunchbox was offered on eBay listed for a mere $185. A lucky collector snapped it up for that price, since it is an extremely rare item and worth at least $3,000. So before offering anything for sale, you should do some research to avoid costly mistakes.

Although there are several excellent guides, I especially like Warman's Lunch Boxes Field Guide: Values and Identification, by Joe Soucy (Krause, $12.99). It documents more than 500 metal lunchboxes and bottles in an easy-to-use format. If you have a lunchbox that was manufactured during the past 45 years, this reference will provide anecdotal information and up-to-date pricing, especially for television, movie and cartoon-character issues.

Write to Larry Cox in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475, or send e-mail to antiquequestions@aol.com. Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox is unable to personally answer all reader questions. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.

MAKE-UP WORK POLICY

Students and parents are reminded of the Garrett County Board of Education policy which states on page 6 of the Student Handbook (under I. Attendance, E. Attendance Procedures, a. 2): "It will be the student's responsibility to obtain and complete work missed due to absence regardless of code. However, work/assignments missed as a result of unlawful absences will not be given credit."

AMENDMENT TO AGENDA BOOK

The administration of Southern High School has instituted a change in the Tardy-to-School Policy that began the start of the spring semester. Any student reporting to first period after 8:25 a.m. must check in with the attendance officer prior to reporting to class. The following tardy codes will be implemented in this case:

- T51 – Death
- T52 – Doctor's Note
- T53 – Parent Note
- T54 – Court Summons
- T57 – Hazardous Weather
- T58 – Work
- T59 – Prior Approval
- T60 – Unexcused

Following the fifth T53 or T59 these codes will result in a T60, which is unexcused. The Consequence Hierarchy for this offense is as follows:

- Third T60 – Warning Issued by Administration
- Fourth T60 – Five Days Lunch Detention (Time Out)
- Fifth T60 – After-School Detention
- Sixth T60 or more – In-School Suspension

Students are reminded that while walking the halls, visiting with classmates, and/or going to lockers is permitted prior to first period, it is not a valid excuse to be tardy to first period. Such actions will be seen as unexcused, thus resulting in the T60 code.

YEARBOOK STAFF REQUESTS

Printed pictures will be returned.

2009 YEARBOOKS ON SALE

The 2009 yearbook Inspired is now on sale. The second of three invoices from Jostens should have been received in the mail. Students and parents can pay Jostens directly or Maria Zumpano at the school. A link on Southern High School's home page will take buyers to Jostens' web site for those who want to pay online, or parents may call 1-866-282-1516. All yearbook payments must be made by May 1.

BENEFITS OF AN OPEN-FIT.

Have you heard about the hearing instrument that is surgically implanted, leaving hearing-impaired consumers? "Open-fit" hearing instruments are similar to traditional behind-the-ear hearing instruments, with amplification components enclosed in a small case that fits behind the ear. However, instead of using an ear mold, open-fit instruments deliver sound to the listener's ear via a very thin translucent tube that is cosmetically appealing and exceedingly comfortable. By leaving the ear canal open, open-fit instruments eliminate the sensation of the wearer hearing the echo of his or her own voice and unwanted feedback squeals that are so commonly associated with ear molds. No wonder people who have resisted wearing hearing instruments in the past are giving open-fit instruments a chance!

At AUDIBEL, one of our most important jobs is to keep you up-to-date on the latest technological advances in hearing instruments. If it has been determined that a hearing aid will be of benefit to you, let us help in the selection of the one that is right for your lifestyle. We carry a full range of hearing aids to ensure the most appropriate match between hearing aid and wearer. Our diagnostic equipment is state-of-the-art, and we welcome you and everyone in your family to come see us for an evaluation.

P.S. Open-fit hearing instruments are particularly well suited to people with high-frequency hearing loss.

Bat Conservation To Be Topic Of Society Meeting

The Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its regular meeting at the Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg next Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Aimee Haskew, faculty research assistant with the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science, Appalachian Lab.

Haskew will give her PowerPoint presentation titled "Bat Conservation in Western Maryland." Her program will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

Haskew will give a brief introduction into the world of bats, including the myths that surround them and the critical ecological role they fill. She will talk about some of the lab's most recent research that focuses on the potential impacts and conflicts of recreational development on local bats, and how the newly emerging disease, white nose syndrome, is a compounding factor in those conservation efforts.

"By the end of this program, gardeners and native plant enthusiasts will understand why bats are truly their allies," stated a spokesperson for the society.

Haskew graduated with a bachelor's degree in 2002 and went on to work as a wildlife biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Arizona. While there, she began working with bats, focusing on their use of abandoned mines. She left the Fish and Wildlife Service in 2006 and moved to Frostburg to pursue a master's degree studying bats in western Maryland with her graduate advisor, Dr. Ed Gates.

The Appalachian Lab is located along Braddock Road in Frostburg, just off Interstate 68. There is parking in front of the building. The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats, leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. Preserving Maryland's natural heritage, increasing knowledge about native plants, and helping to further the society's mission are the organization's goals. MNPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. For more information, persons may visit www.md-flora.org.

The Western Mountains Chapter has formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and Ridge & Valley physiographic provinces of the central Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, near Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of the region are invited to join. For more information, persons may telephone Liz McDowell at 301-895-3686 or visit the chapter web site at www.mdflora.org/chapters.

Marple Named Safety Champ At Luke Mill

Leon Marple, a resident of Bloomington and turbine generator operator in the NewPage Luke mill's Power and Recovery Department, has been named Luke Mill Safety Champion in recognition of his efforts in promoting the company's safety program.

"I can think of no one more deserving of this award than Leon," said Gary Curtis, Luke mill manager, during a luncheon held in Marple's honor. "His outreach in helping other departments organize safety committees and develop safety programs has gone above and beyond the call of duty."

"The core value of our company is safety because we care about each other and we want to keep everyone safe," Curtis continued. "It is obvious by the energy and enthusiasm that Leon puts into helping his fellow employees work safely that he truly cares about people. We are fortunate to have Leon here at the Luke mill."

A note of congratulations was sent to Marple by Rick Willett, NewPage resident and chief operating officer, which read in part, "Leon Marple is a great example of leadership in safety, and it is fitting that he be honored as a Safety Champion for the Luke mill."

A note of congratulations was also sent by Harry Stafford, corporate hourly safety advocate, and another by Pamela Fritz, corporate safety manager, who wrote, "We are very fortunate to have employees such as Leon take on this very challenging, yet very rewarding role of safety leadership."

In responding to the recognition, Marple said, "We have a great mill manager and great leadership here at the Luke mill, and it is obvious that our safety program is being driven from the top down. That's what it takes to have a successful program — everyone has to get involved and take ownership for their safety. I enjoy helping to promote the mill's safety program, and I will do anything I can to help anybody. I am honored to have received this award."

Approximately 35 mill employees, along with Marple's wife Jean and daughter Tammy, attended the luncheon and were on hand to see Marple presented with a plaque, a jacket, and a gift card.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Census Reveals More Diversity In U.S. Farms

According to the recent results of the 2007 Census of Agriculture, the number of farms in the United States has grown by 4 percent, and the operators of those farms have become more diverse in the past five years.

"Through the census, we're able to take the aspects of agriculture that make it most unique — the numbers and the people — and incorporate them into the most accurate profile possible of U.S. agriculture," said Tom Vilsack, secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agriculture Statistics Service (NASS). "The Census of Agriculture is far more than a tally of numbers. It's a reflection of the people, and their livelihoods, behind those numbers...truly the people's department at work. And it's a guide to putting dollars and resources into programs and services that will serve the people well in this century."

The 2007 census counted 2,204,792 farms in the United States, a net increase of 75,810 farms. Nearly 300,000 new farms have begun operation since the last census in 2002.

Compared to all farms nationwide, these new farms tend to have more diversified production, fewer acres, lower sales, and younger operators who also work off-farm.

In the past five years, U.S. farm operators have become more demographically diverse. The 2007 census counted nearly 30 percent more women as principal farm operators. The count of Hispanic operators grew by 10 percent, and the counts of American Indian, Asian, and Black farm operators increased as well.

The latest census figures show a continuation in the trend toward more small and very large farms and fewer mid-sized operations. Between 2002 and 2007, the number of farms with sales of less than $2,500 increased by 74,000. The number of farms with sales of more than $500,000 grew by 46,000 during the same period.

Census results show that the majority of U.S. farms are smaller operations. More than 36 percent are classified as residential/lifestyle farms, with sales of less than $250,000 and operators with a primary occupation other than farming.

Another 21 percent are retirement farms, which have sales of less than $250,000 and operators who reported they are retired.

In addition to looking at farm numbers, operator demographics, and economic aspects of farming, the Census of Agriculture delves into numerous other areas, including organic, value-added, and specialty production, all of which are on the rise.

The 2007 census found that 57 percent of all farmers have Internet access, up from 50 percent in 2002. For the first time in 2007, the census also looked at high-speed Internet access. Of those producers accessing the Internet, 58 percent reported having a high-speed connection. Other "firsts" in the 2007 census include questions about on-farm energy generation, community-supported agriculture arrangements, and historic barns.

The Census of Agriculture, conducted every five years, is a complete count of the nation's farms and ranches and the people who operate them. It provides the only source of uniform, comprehensive agricultural data for every county in the nation. Census results are available online at www.ag-census.usda.gov.

Maryland NRCS Proposals Due By February 25

Up to $58.4 million in financial assistance is available nationwide to agricultural producers and entities through the Agricultural Water Enhancement Program (AWEP), a new conservation program established in the 2008 Farm Bill to promote ground and surface water conservation and water quality improvement, according to Jon Hall, Maryland state conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

USDA is seeking project proposals from potential partners through this program. The AWEP Partner Proposal must be post-marked and submitted to the NRCS Maryland state conservationist by February 25, and a duplicate application must be submitted to the NRCS chief in Washington, D.C. by March 2.

The Request for Proposals and information on the Partner Application can be found at: <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/farmbill/2008/pdfs/awepfp2009.pdf>

Proposals should be submitted by Feb. 25 to NRCS Maryland State Conservationist, Attn: ASCT for Programs, 339 Busch's Frontage Road, Suite 301, Annapolis, MD 21409, or mark.rose@md.usda.gov. A duplicate proposal should be submitted by March 2 to NRCS Chief, Attn: Financial Assistance Programs Division, AWEP Proposals, P.O. Box 2890, Washington, DC 20013, or by going online at www.grants.gov/ apply for instructions on submitting an online proposal.

The 2008 Farm Bill established AWEP as a component of the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), USDA's largest conservation program on working agricultural lands. All EQIP requirements and policies will apply to AWEP.

The new Farm Bill expanded EQIP to include AWEP. AWEP offers financial and technical assistance to help farmers and ranchers carry out water enhancement activities that conserve ground and surface water and improve water quality on agricultural lands such as cropland, pasture, grassland and rangeland.

Agricultural water enhancement activities include:

- water quality or water conservation plan development;
- water conservation restoration or enhancement projects, including conversion to the production of less water-intensive agricultural commodities or dry land farming;
- water quality or quantity restoration or enhancement projects;
- irrigation system improvement or irrigation efficiency enhancement;
- activities designed to reduce drought's impacts; and
- other related activities that will help achieve water

USDA ANNOUNCES CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE FOR WEST VIRGINIA SPRING CROPS

West Virginia farmers are reminded that the final date to apply for crop insurance on most insurable spring-planted crops for this year is March 16, 2009, according to the Raleigh Regional Office, USDA Risk Management Agency. Because the sales closing date of March 15 falls on Sunday this year, the deadline will be the next business day.

Current policyholders also have until March 16 to make any changes to their existing contracts. Crop insurance provides protection against losses due to natural perils such as drought, hail, wind, and excessive moisture.

The March 15 sales closing date applies to the Preston County insurable crops corn and oats. Farmers may also want to inquire about Crop Revenue Coverage, a revenue plan that offers protection against market price declines for crops like corn. In addition, low-cost group plans such as the Group Risk Plan and Group Risk Income Protection are also available in many counties for corn.

Producers are strongly urged to contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible for premium quotes and more details. For a list of crop insurance agents serving Preston County farmers, persons may visit the USDA Farm Service Agency office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

Happy Birthday Timmy

Listen with your heart

Memories are treasures
Time cannot take away.
So may you be surrounded
By happy ones today.
May all the love and tenderness
Of golden years well spent
Come back today to fill your heart
With beauty and content.
And may you walk down memory lane
And meet the child you love.
For while you cannot see him,
He'll be watching from above.
And if you trust you're dreaming
Your faith will make it true.
And if you listen with your heart
He'll come and talk with you.
So for his sake be happy
And show him that his love
Has proven strong and big enough
To reach down from above.
And you will never walk alone
When memory's door swings wide
For you'll find that your beloved child
Is always at your side.

BIRDS AND AIRPLANES

by Thomas P. Sheahan

Q. The Hudson River plane incident was caused by birds hitting the airplane engines. Some have claimed that's another effect of global warming. What is going on? What has changed?

A. Birds, especially large geese, have become a major nuisance in recent years, and the Hudson River incident shows that they are a safety hazard, too. The population of geese has grown enormously, but for reasons unrelated to global warming.

Anyone who has walked out onto a boat dock at Deep Creek Lake in recent years doesn't need to be told that there are way too many geese.

Airlines have experienced many more "bird strikes" in recent years, and losing an engine on take-off is always dangerous. This time, it was a two-engine plane involved, and enough geese were hit to shut down both engines. With no power at all, the plane couldn't make it to another nearby airport. There was no place left but the river for an emergency landing.

The problem of bird strikes is familiar, and sometimes fatal. In 1995, a U.S. Air Force plane taking off struck a flock of Canada geese, and 24 servicemen died in the crash.

The number of reported bird strikes quadrupled between 1990 and 2007, according to the federal Fish and Wildlife Service, from under 2,000 to nearly 8,000. In fact, for the past 26 years, the population of geese has been increasing by an average of 7.3% annually. Like compound interest, it grows quite a bit. This means the population of geese has grown by a factor of six (do the math -  $1.073^{26} = 6.2$ ).

The original species Canada Geese have to migrate over a thousand miles and have a pretty tough life. Their numbers didn't grow much over a very long time. However, they interbreed with local "country club geese" who don't migrate very far at all, and can find food easily. These are the ones who have become so numerous.

Moreover, they tend to nest in marshy grasslands, which are often found in the vacant spaces around airports. Airports at sea level (LaGuardia is a perfect example) have such conditions right off the end of the runways.

The airlines and the government use the term "wildlife mitigation" to describe what they are trying to do about the problem.

One thing to do is plant specific grasses that are distasteful to birds. That's a benign form of "habitat modification." An even better way is to bring in predatory birds like hawks and falcons. (JFK airport in New York does that.) The predators don't kill all that many geese, but they frighten them away. Because those large birds fly solo - not in flocks, they don't pose a risk to airplanes taking off.

More aggressive intervention includes sending people out to do things like firing guns to scare the geese away, finding their nests and destroying the eggs, and directly killing geese. As we have seen locally with crows, poisoning is a long slow process - and there are always plenty more "country club" geese ready to move in.

Moreover, the airport authorities have to be careful about which birds are killed. Some enjoy "endangered species" status and are protected by law. Sorting out such birds from the nuisance geese takes time and care.

One other factor that drives up the risk to airplane passengers is that modern airplanes often have only two engines (instead of four, as a few decades ago). That means there is less "back-up" in case an engine shuts down by running into a flock of geese. Losing two engines has a lower probability than losing one, but when that does happen, it's a major emergency - as we saw in the Hudson River case.

None of this is because of the globe getting warmer. The migratory paths haven't changed significantly, and geese have no special liking for airports. The food supply hasn't changed much either. The reason for the huge increase in population of geese is the interbreeding between Canada geese and local geese.

As air traffic continues to increase, we can expect more events of this type. It was miraculous that everyone's life was saved in this incident. It would be nice if that was taken as sufficient warning that this safety hazard must be solved. Unfortunately, people quickly forget ... until next time.

Oakland Awarded POS Funding For Broadford Park

The Maryland Board of Public Works has approved funding for a Program Open Space project in Garrett County, Gov. Martin O'Malley announced yesterday.

Oakland will receive $63,010 to construct restrooms and a concession stand at the Little League fields at Broadford Park.

"All projects funded through Program Open Space are made possible by a coordinated commitment — to conserve land and improve outdoor recreational opportunities in our local communities, even during tight fiscal times," O'Malley said. "Preserving our natural resources remains one of Maryland's highest priorities and this program allows us to continue to advance the common good, no matter the economic climate."

Program Open Space was established in 1969 to preserve Maryland's natural resources and provide recreational opportunities for its citizens. The majority of funding for the program is provided by a portion (75%) of the state real estate transfer tax.

About half of the funding is allotted for state-side projects that support major land acquisitions across Maryland, and the balance is reserved for park operations and county projects.

Each county's allotment of POS funds is determined by transfer tax contributions and population change as determined by census

Barn, Livestock Destroyed By Sunday Blaze

A barn and 14 head of livestock were destroyed in a fire which was battled Sunday evening in sub-freezing temperatures by personnel from six local fire departments.

According to a report by Deputy State Fire Marshal Mike Mattingly, the cause of the McHenry area fire remains under investigation. Mattingly said that the fire originated in the interior of the livestock area of the 24' x 34' wood-frame structure, located at 7119 Sang Run Road and owned by Michael Fratz.

Volunteers from the Deep Creek, Accident, Friendsville, Bittinger, Oakland, and Deer Park fire departments were called to the scene at 6:19 p.m. and found a "working fire" on their arrival. It took the 40 volunteers approximately 35 minutes to bring the blaze under control, but they spent several hours working to douse hay and various hot spots.

Mattingly estimated the loss of the structure to be $50,000 and loss of contents to be an additional $6,000.

There were no injuries reported.

NRP To Cut Ice On Deep Creek; Warning Issued

The Maryland Natural Resources Police has issued a safety warning advisory to snowmobilers and persons engaged in other recreational activities on Deep Creek Lake in the area of Uno's Chicago Grill.

NRP will begin ice cutting operations in the cove behind the restaurant in preparation for the 11th annual MSP/NRP Deep Creek Dunk. NRP officers will be cutting ice next Wednesday, Feb. 25, through Friday, Feb. 27. During these operations, there will be open water areas and large blocks of ice in that area. NRP is urging individuals to stay away from the cove "for obvious safety reasons."

The 11th annual Deep Creek Dunk is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 28. Registration begins at noon, and dunkers will take a dip in Deep Creek Lake at 2 p.m. to benefit the athletes of Special Olympics Maryland.

Dress Shop Opening In Oakland; Proceeds Will Benefit Dove Center

A unique shop is opening in Oakland that will offer a wide selection of formal gowns and dresses at reasonable prices, especially aimed at the county's teenagers as the proms approach. The Formal Dress Shop Sale has a dual purpose, as the proceeds of the sales will go to the Dove Center, the county's non-profit organization that provides support and services for victims of domestic violence.

The Formal Dress Shop Sale in Oakland will be held over two days, March 13 and 14, from 3 to 7 p.m. on the 13th and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the 14th. It will be located at 119 S. Second Street in downtown Oakland in the store next to Rudy's.

The sale will feature over 100 quality and designer dresses in a variety of sizes and fashions to fit every shape and satisfy every style, a spokesperson said. Dresses have been received from donors throughout the region, including recent graduates and members of several sororities. All dresses are either new or in like-new condition.

"With prices starting at only $25, the Formal Dress Shop will offer something to suit everyone's budget," the spokesperson said. The proceeds from the sale will benefit the capital campaign for the Dove Center.

Additional inventory is needed for the sale, so donors are encouraged to contribute formal wear that is clean and in excellent condition. Donors may receive a charitable contribution tax receipt and/or a discount coupon for purchases at the sale. Items may be dropped off at Curves, located along Garrett Highway in Oakland. WINTERFEST IS ON! Oakland Main Street's second annual WinterFest takes place this weekend, and the large blocks of ice that will soon be carved into sculptures like this snowman have arrived. There will be more than 30 sculptures created by the Frozen Assets Ice Carving Company, and displayed throughout the town on cement pedestals. The festivities will begin tomorrow night, Feb. 20, with a progressive dinner. Saturday's schedule of events is lengthy, beginning with a breakfast to benefit the Dove Center at the Oakland fire hall from 8 to 11 a.m. Ice sculptures will be made throughout the day, and an "ice throne" will also be constructed. The crowning of the Snowflake Toddler Prince and Princess will happen in the afternoon at Marvin's, and the Preston Madrigal Choir will perform. Special vendors will be selling a variety of food and beverages, and downtown restaurants will have WinterFest specials. Snowmobile races are slated for early Saturday at the Oakland Golf Club. The ice sculptures will be on display all day Sunday as well. For more information, persons may contact Arlene Murray, Main Street manager, at 301-616-2411.

SHARING WARMTH WITH THOSE IN NEED — Fifth grade students in Jackie Daniels' class at Grantsville Elementary have been working on knotting quilts during their recess time. The quilts will be distributed by Advancing Native Missions (ANM) in the Middle East or Tanzania. Other groups and individuals are invited to contribute quilts as well. "As we begin another new year, many of us make attempts to organize and reduce clutter in our homes," a spokesperson said. "With this in mind, I would like to challenge you to dig into your fabric stashes and make use of the remnant pieces cluttering your shelves and drawers to create a quilt or blanket for missions. This would be a great winter project for a family, sewing circle, quilt guild, church, or social group." The quilt design can be simplistic or complex, but should be knotted, machine, or hand-quilted. Whole piece cloth, purchased quilted panels, or fleece are also acceptable. Crib or twin-sized blankets are preferred. Completed quilts and blankets should be given to Shady Grove Market or Four Seasons Stitchery by Wednesday, March 18. Questions or comments may be directed to Carol at 301-895-3148. For information regarding ANM, persons may visit www.adnamis.org. Pictured above, front row, from left, are Tiffany Hutzel, Lori Messina, Morgan McKenzie, and Jordan McClintock. In the back row are Aleandra Rozenhroak, Tiffany Warnick, Brian Meas, and Matthew Meas. ## Garrett President Steps Down; Exits McHenry Campus

The Board of Trustees of Garrett College has announced that effective immediately Dr. Paul Dauphinais has taken administrative leave from his position as president of Garrett College.

Dauphinais had already announced that he would not renew his contract, which was to be up in June 2010. The trustees met Tuesday, and after that meeting, the president took his leave.

The trustees said the action has been taken to permit the them to address the issue of searching for the next president in light of Dauphinais's decision not to seek renewal of his contract with the college.

"The board thanks Dr. Dauphinais for his service as president and we convey our best wishes for his future success," said Linda Sherbin, president of the trustees.

In accordance with the institution's line of succession, Dr. Rebecca McBride DiLiddo, dean of academic affairs, will serve as acting president until an interim president is selected.

The board will actively pursue its search for an interim president and is anticipating a timely and orderly transition, the spokesperson said.

Hearings Slated In Annapolis For Local Wind Turbine Bills

The Maryland General Assembly's Department of Legislative Services has scheduled public hearings in Annapolis next week for several bills introduced by Del. Wendell Beitzel and Sen. George Edwards.

The House Economic Matters Committee will hold hearings on Thursday, Feb. 26, beginning at 1 p.m. on four bills introduced by Beitzel that pertain to commercial wind turbines. Those bills are as follows:

• HB 604 would authorize the Garrett County commissioners to enact ordinances regulating the setback of turbines. (Edwards has introduced the same legislation, SB 584, which will be heard by the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday, March 3, at 1 p.m.)

• HB 605 would repeal a provision that exempts certain persons/public utility companies from having to obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity for a generating station that produces electricity from wind under certain circumstances.

• HB 749 would require the Public Service Commission (PSC) to establish a surcharge on wind-powered electric generating facilities, require the comptroller to collect revenue from that surcharge, and authorize a wind-powered electric generating facility to post a bond or other security acceptable to the PSC in lieu of the surcharge.

• HB 750 would require the PSC and the Department of the Environment to develop general performance standards for turbines that are erected in the state. Those standards would cover generating capacity, turbine type or model, tower height, the number and size of blades, rotor diameter, noise, lighting on and near the turbines, and setbacks. Edwards has introduced a companion bill, SB 771, to Beitzel's HB 750, but the Senate Finance Committee has not yet scheduled a hearing date.

The House Economic Matters Committee will review HB 334 on Monday, Feb. 23, at 1 p.m. This proposed legislation pertains to alcoholic beverages.

It would establish an issuing fee of $100 for a wine and beer tasting license, would increase the county's duplicate license fee from $1 to $10, would increase the alcoholic beverage license transfer fee from $20 to $200, and would add new delivery option rules and regulations.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold a hearing for HB 606 on Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 1 p.m. Introduced by Beitzel, this bill would enable the Garrett County commissioners to enact ordinances regulating the height, size, location, and setbacks of outdoor advertising signs along county roadways.

The Environmental Matters Committee will also review HB 748 on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 1 p.m. This bill pertains to the Maryland Dormant Mineral Interests Act. The proposed legislation, in part, would define the term "mineral," would authorize property

Friends Of DCL To Obtain Water Quality Training

The Friends of Deep Creek Lake, a new organization in Garrett County created to preserve and protect the watershed of Deep Creek Lake, is inviting adults and high school students to volunteer in a new "stream waders" program at Deep Creek Lake. Special training for the program will take place next weekend in Clear Spring, and while the organization hopes to recruit several volunteers for this workshop, all volunteers are not required to have the training in order to help.

The Maryland Stream Waders program is a volunteer monitoring program sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. This year they have selected Deep Creek Lake to support volunteers to conduct stream assessments in early April.

The Friends of Deep Creek are looking for volunteers to attend the Stream Waders Training Workshop, which will be from 8:30 to 3:30 on Saturday, Feb. 28, in Clear Spring, just east of Hancock.

Those who receive the training will be able to supervise other volunteers in early April, when participants will conduct stream assessment in as many of the tributaries of Deep Creek Lake as possible.

"We need adults and teenagers to get involved in this project," said Barbara Beelar, director of the new organization. "This is a perfect project for students looking for community service hours. It's also a great way for youth groups to learn about natural resources and environmental stewardship."

Persons who would like to sign up for the training should contact Friends of Deep Creek Lake by e-mail at contact@friendsofdcl.org. The sign-up deadline is Feb. 24. Persons may also e-mail that address to volunteer for the stream assessment event in April.

Those who do not have access to e-mail may send information to Friends of Deep Creek Lake, 779 Chadderton School Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

For more information about the stream waders program, persons may visit the web site: dnr.state.md.us/streams/mbss. More information about Friends of Deep Creek Lake may be obtained at the following site: friendsofdcl.org.

Senate President Wants Place Slots At BWI Airport

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS - Passengers at Maryland's main airport would be able to gamble while munching on crab cakes from Phillips Seafood Restaurant if it was up to Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert.

BWI-Marshall is an "ideal" location for slots, Miller said following Tuesday's Senate session, touting the money that could be generated from out-of-state passengers.

"I think it's an excellent site," Miller said. "It's a way for Maryland to keep money in the state from outsiders."

Delegate Eric Bromwell, D-Baltimore County, has introduced a bill allowing for up to 3,000 slot machines at BWI - more than twice the roughly 1,300 machines installed at Las Vegas' McCarran International Airport. If approved by the legislature, the measure would require passage by statewide referendum because it seeks to amend the state constitution.

Miller downplayed a

TOWSON YOUTH BUILD SNOW CAVE - While building snow caves is not a new endeavor to most Garrett County youngsters, kids from Towson don't often get the opportunity to ply their igloo architecture talents. But these five visitors spent a great deal of time building an elaborate igloo recently near Deep Creek. The ice and snow structure took two days to complete. It was 2 1/2 feet in length and 4 feet high at the highest point. There were two rooms, connected by a tunnel, with two entrances. Perhaps the most unique feature was the eight "skylights" installed by the boys, made of ice slabs cut from the deck. The ice let light in, but kept the structure sealed. The boys said they could use the skylights as emergency exits if there were a cave-in. The 15-year-old boys pictured above were the main engineers. Shown from left are Collin McGrath, Thomas Bruno, and Drew Evensen. In the photo below, peeking out of the tunnel, are 4-year-olds Carl Feibusch and Carson Knoli, who had a great time playing in the cave after the big boys built it. ## Parents, Advocates Seek Expansion Of Funding For Prekindergarten

by Erika Woodward
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS - Parents and advocates urged legislators Monday to pass a bill that would require the Maryland State Board of Education to create a plan for extending publicly funded prekindergarten to all families.

Under the existing Bridge to Excellence in Education Act, those at or below 185 percent of the poverty level are entitled to publicly-funded prekindergarten.

The new legislation seeks to move toward universal prekindergarten by requiring the state board of education to formulate an expansion plan with guidance from school superintendents and county governments. The proposal would be included in the Maryland Pre-school for All Business Plan to be finalized on or before Dec. 1.

Because it has no fiscal note, proponents expect the bill to attract the support of lawmakers, especially those grappling with mounting budget shortfalls. But the bill's biggest draw may be its potential to grab federal stimulus dollars.

"This bill doesn't cost any money this year, but it makes the state department of education finalize their business plan, do a final cost estimate, so we know how much it will cost to get pre-K to every child in Maryland," said Delegate Tom Hucker, D-Montgomery, a sponsor of the bill.

"And it puts us in better position to access the federal dollars that President Obama is making available," he said. "He's committed $10 billion to early education."

Hucker said pre-K is "extremely important" to ensuring that every child in Maryland is prepared to succeed academically. He said it's time we rise to the level of our Virginia and Washington competitors who "passed universal pre-kindergarten programs that they're in the first stages of funding."

Donna Fowler, a mother of five children who testified in front of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the program expansion is desperately needed. Fowler told legislators that her 4-year-old son Wyatt Fowler has been denied social and educational opportunities because she and her husband cannot afford to enroll him in pre-kindergarten.

"It's really heart wrenching for me as a parent who knows how important it is for your child to have those quality education opportunities at a young age to be in a position where I can't afford a private pre-kindergarten for him," she said.

Fowler, who moonlights as a childcare advocate, said she was just at "the cusp" of the income cut-off. The family earns between $50,000 and $60,000 per year.

State Superintendent of Schools Nancy Grasmick agreed that expanding access to prekindergarten would help families and added it would also help the state to continue to be a leader in education.

But she also said it as fiscally responsible.

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND - THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2009 A-3

money in remediation costs then we need to support this bill," she said, pointing to studies that have shown children who are enrolled in prekindergarten are more likely to graduate from high school than their non-enrolled counterparts.

But not everyone is convinced the best things in education are free.

John Woolums, director of government relations for the Maryland Association of Boards of Education, said he supports the bill, but in the end, it all comes down to money.

He said the state does not provide per pupil funding for prekindergarten students and questions how local governments would absorb the cost if the program expansion were enacted.

"We just want to add one item to what the plan includes," he said.

A Bill With Guts...

There are several bills moving forward in the Maryland General Assembly that pertain to the commercial wind turbine industry, some of which are specific to Garrett County and a couple of others that would provide additional statewide regulation.

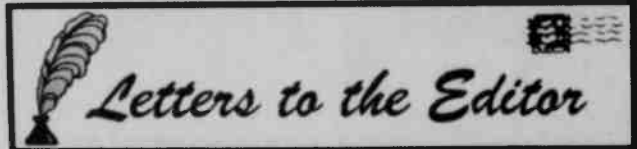

One of the local bills would give the Garrett County commissioners the authority to enact ordinances that regulate the setback of commercial wind turbines in the county. Delegate Wendell Beitzel attempted to amend that bill (as did Senator Edwards with the Senate version) by also giving the commissioners the authority to regulate the "height, size, and location" of those turbines, but the county commissioners, who have always been terrified of the concept of countywide zoning, then refused to support the bill. Commissioner Denny Giotfely said the legislation with the additional authority would "come too close to being zoning, and the consensus of residents does not seem to support countywide zoning."

"Consensus"... Hmm... That seems to be a pretty convenient word, but one that falls grossly short of any kind of an official tally on that question. Zoning can come in many forms, some of which might just be palatable to the majority of Garrett County citizens.

Del. Beitzel then removed the extra words, knowing that the legislation would not have a chance without the county commissioners' blessing. Passage is now more likely, but the bill is once again exceedingly lame.

But legislation that could have a significantly positive impact is Senate Bill 771 introduced by Senator George Edwards – a bill with the very "guts" that were removed from the Garrett County version; a bill that would give the state of Maryland the authority and the obligation to set performance standards for all wind-powered turbines throughout the state, and therefore trump any local or county authority. These standards pertain not only to setbacks, but also to turbine capacity, turbine type, tower height, number and size of blades, rotor diameter, noise level, and lighting on and near the turbines. Once again, there is also a companion bill in the House introduced by Beitzel.

This column has on several occasions strongly questioned the efficiency and reliability of wind turbines. But regardless of whether or not one is an opponent or a supporter of wind turbines for the production of electricity, it seems that the standards delineated in SB 771 are both reasonable and essential, and need to be in place before the monster towers are erected in this state.

To the Editor:

The smell and the mess left behind by the crows in Oakland is disgusting. In response to Maggie Brasted's letter, non-lethal methods have been used. They did not work. It's time to try something else.

I don't know anyone who would want a crow roost on their property. Maybe Maggie Brasted could build one on her property and the crows could be sent there.

The USDA's plan can't start soon enough to get rid of the crows.

Cormth, W. Va.

To the Editor:

I think the Garrett County commissioners are doing a great disservice to their constituents, and they appear, in my view, to be avoiding being held accountable for their actions, or in this case, lack of actions. By not supporting the legislation proposed by the Western Maryland delegation regarding establishing authority for the commissioners to regulate, in limited and specific ways, wind turbines, they are avoiding accountability and eschew the balancing of various needs of their constituents. Interestingly, they did not avoid the same responsibility regarding signage.

Garrett County residents have a vested interest in their environment and need to have their interests protected. To act or not act on these issues is a difficult decision, but one that has to be addressed. To choose not to act is avoidance at its worst.

Commissioner Giotfely is quoted in the Times as stating that the "consensus of residents does not seem to support county-wide zoning."

The population base of the county is changing, and while this statement may have been true once, I believe it not to be true now. However, how do either of us know? There's been no referendum or polling on this question.

Of course, one can easily argue that this is not county wide zoning, but much closer to performance zoning, which is a different ani-braver?

All I can say to our commissioners is, "Shame on you. Grow a backbone or at the least get a brace."

To the Editor:

As we prepare to close our office at the end of March, on behalf of the Mental Health Center staff, I want to take this opportunity to thank those people who supported and guided us during the eight years we served the residents of Garrett County.

In particular, we recognize the excellent efforts of the Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett County Health Department, Harvey House, and many, many others.

While the difficult decision to close our office was financially driven, we will continue to work with the Board of Education serving school-age children and their families with staff based at our Frostburg office. Accordingly, we are thankful for the opportunity to continue service.

Sincerely,

Mills Mall. That proposal is under consideration by the state slots commission.

"I think we can do both," he said.

Passengers often have hours to kill waiting for flights, Miller said, and slots would be a "wonderful opportunity for recreation, for enjoyment."

Plus, many passengers are from out of state, meaning the proceeds going to the state coffers would not come at the expense of Marylanders' wallets, he said.

Miller's feelings are not shared by Gov. Martin O'Malley, a Democrat.

"He's not in favor of it," said O'Malley Spokesman Shaun Adamec.

House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, prefers to "let the current process play out before amending the constitution," said Busch Spokeswoman Alexandra Hughes.

The bill is widely expected to face substantial opposition, Miller acknowledged.

"I doubt if it's going to pass the House this year, but if it does, we'll certainly consider passing it in the Senate," Miller said.

Maryland voters approved slots in a referendum last year, but the state received only four qualified requests for fewer than half of the 15,000 terminals allowed. The state Video Lottery Facility Location Commission isn't expected to vote on the bids for several months.

The tepid response means the state will struggle to deliver the $600 million for public schools it hoped slots would generate by the 2012 fiscal year. In addition, the state received only $39.3 million of the $90 million it expected from the initial licensing fees.

Miller has historically supported installing slot machines at race tracks, but said other options like BWI need to be considered in light of the state's daunting budget shortfall.

"Getting money from people in other states to help pay our bills," Miller said, "that's what it's all about."

sonable... in order to avoid something that probably will not happen for another 500 years."

Sen. Brian Frosh, D-Montgomery, came to Stone's aid in defense of the Calvert, said afterward that he's seen a similar phenomenon firsthand.

"I drive in a golf cart every morning to get the newspaper, race up a quarter-mile driveway, and every time my dog sees a squirrel it jumps off," Miller said. "So I can imagine if they're in the back of a pickup truck, it's something that we need to consider."

Stone said he was disappointed by his colleagues' decision to kill the bill.

"It's a problem for animals and it's a problem for motorists," Stone said. "I thought the bill made good sense, but the majority of the Senate didn't think so."

Kelly expressed his disappointment in a different way.

"I lost my dog," Kelly said. "My dog got hit by a truck on the Senate floor."

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

ACTING ON A BUDGET
(Fourth in a series)
by William Welch

Last week we saw that creating a budget takes a list that includes income and all expenses. We saw that the most effective way to make our list of expenses was in order of necessity with items like food and shelter at the top and movie tickets at the bottom. This is a basic spending budget. It simply shows us where our money goes in a period, whether that is a week or a month.

But it also showed us how to list our spending in order of need, and that takes us to the next step. If we want something more – say, a car – maybe we have to save money for a purchase or maybe for a down payment on a loan. That might mean spending less on stuff that is not necessary for survival. We might, for example, give up going to the movies, and put that money away until we have enough to buy a car.

If the movies cost $25 a week, and we give up movie tickets for a month, and a month is four weeks long, then we can save about $100 a month. In 10 months we'll have a $1,000 saved toward buying a car. If that is not enough, then we should consider giving up something else we don't have to have. If we find another $25 a week from our spending budget, we can save about $200 a month, and in 10 months have $2,000 saved.

That still won't buy many cars. So next week we'll look at credit. Remember, your bank can answer your questions, and information is also available at the library and online. Be careful to get professional advice.

State Parks In Garrett County "Get Greener"

Maryland state parks in Garrett County are making sustainable, green ideas and products a big part of day-to-day park operations, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

"To protect our natural resources for generations to come, we must incorporate sustainable and environmentally friendly building and management techniques into our parks," said Mike Gregory, manager of New Germany State Park. "Saving energy is a top concern for us, so we have installed energy-efficient compact fluorescent light bulbs in all 11 of our cabins. We have also put a highly insulated window covering in the lake house. It is important that we do all we can to reduce energy costs in our offices and facilities."

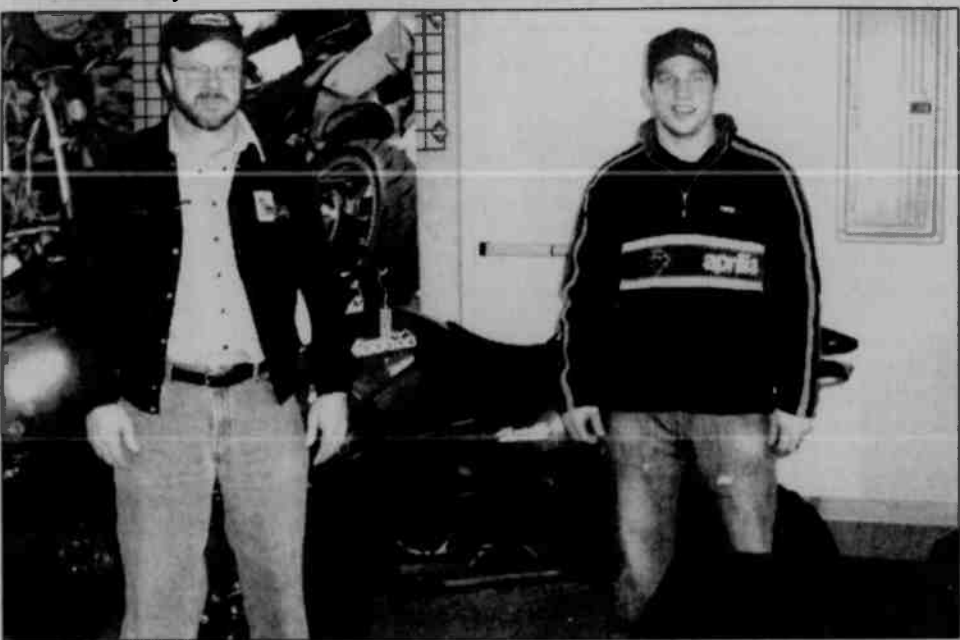

At Deep Creek Lake State Park, the park headquarters building has undergone a complete energy makeover; the ceiling has been re-insulated, a programmable thermostat and motion-sensitive light switches have been installed, and windows and doors have been re-caulked.

"Sustainability tips are posted throughout our Discovery Center to inform visitors of what we are doing to reduce energy consumption," said assistant park manager Mark Spurrier. "We feel it is important to teach by example."

In addition, the park has been "growing, not mowing" for several years, and the gardens and parking lot strips are filled with native flowering plants. According to the DNR, this initiative has saved the park thousands of dollars in fuel costs and mowing hours, and helps filter precipitation slowly into the ground water, rather than have it run directly into the lake.

OVFD TO HOLD MEGA BASH – The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will hold its 2009 Mega Bash on Saturday, March 14, when thousands of dollars in cash and prizes will be awarded to the lucky ticket holders. Among the major prizes are a 2008 Polaris Sportsman 400 four-wheeler provided by Bill's Marine Service and a 2008 Suzuki LTA 400 four-wheeler provided by Xtreme Power Sports. Pictured above left with Denny Murray, mega bash co-chairman, is Phil St. Moritz, owner of Bill's Marine. Murray is pictured below with Chad Montgomery of Xtreme Power Sports. Other major prizes will be a 7-day all-inclusive vacation to the Caribbean, a John Deere mower/snow blower, and a Sears appliance package, plus a grand prize of $10,000 cash. Smaller cash prizes will be awarded in the drawings, which will take place every 2½ minutes for six hours. Ticket holders, who will have the chance to win multiple times, will also be provided free food and beverages throughout the day. Only 1,000 tickets will be sold, and they are available for $100 each at Winner's Circle, JG's Pub, Grotto's Lumber, Little Sandy's Restaurant, Pawn Run Saloon, Mike Frazee Trucking, Bill's Marine Service, Backbone Mtn. Sports Shop, and Mtn. Top Cigo in Thomas, W.Va. Persons may also contact Denny Murray at 301-616-8455 or John Feather at 301-616-3776 for ticket information, or ask any other member of the OVFD.

"To fully adopt the principles of sustainability within our own agency, DNR is constantly engaged in critical self-examination," said Sean McGuire of DNR's Office for a Sustainable Future. "We get input from staff at all levels to help us guide specific units and programs in their sustainability efforts."

For more information on how homeowners can join Maryland state parks and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in making Maryland "smart, green, and growing," persons are invited to visit the Smart, Green & Growing web site.

Introduced by Governor Martin O'Malley in October 2008, Maryland's Smart, Green & Growing initiative was created to strengthen the state's leadership role in fostering smarter, more sustainable growth, and inspire action among all Marylanders to achieve a more sustainable future. The Initiative brings together state agencies, local governments, businesses, and citizens to create more livable communities, improve transportation options, reduce the state's carbon footprint, support resource-based industry, invest in green technologies, preserve valuable resource lands, and restore the health of the Chesapeake Bay.

S. Schwab Joins Staff At GCMH

The Social Work Services Department of Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently welcomed Sue Schwab to its staff.

Schwab received her master's degree from the San Francisco University and a bachelors from the University of Idaho. Her experience prior to joining the staff at GCMH includes extensive work with elderly patients.

"The Social Work Services Department at the hospital serves the patient in many different ways," explained Deb Ward, GCMH Social Work Services Director. "We do an evaluation that helps with the discharge planning needs, and we help the patient transition to a nursing home, the sub-acute care unit, or return to home." The staff can also help to obtain durable medical equipment to use at home when needed.

"Working at Garrett Memorial gives me the opportunity to work with a variety of patients as well as the elderly," noted Schwab. "Good discharge planning and making sure that patients have a good experience are a priority."

Senators Argue Over Canine Passenger Bill

by Erich Wagner
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS - Senators were barking at each other on the Senate floor Tuesday over a bill that would restrict dogs from riding freely in the back of pickup trucks.

The Senate voted 30-17 against the bill, which was introduced by Sen. Norman Stone, Jr., D-Baltimore County, in the Senate and Delegate Kevin Kelly, D-Allegany, in the House.

Kelly said he introduced the bill after an incident where a dog flew out of the pickup truck in front of him, causing him to swerve and narrowly avoid an accident. He said he was surprised, because the bill passed in the House last year almost unanimously, 127-7.

Stone cited a Humane Society of the United States report that 100,000 dogs are killed each year across the country because they jumped out of or were thrown from the bed of a pickup truck.

Sen. E. J. Pipkin, R-Caroline, had concerns that the bill was too overreaching in terms of whether back roads would be included. These questions may seem minor, Pipkin said, "but back home this is serious business."

Sen. J. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset, said he feared farmers would not be able to drive with their dogs on roads, leading to "a lot of unhappy dogs."

"Does this mean Rover is destined to a life of isolation now?" Stoltzfus asked.

The criticism was bipartisan, as Sen. Delores Kelley, D-Baltimore County, questioned whether dogs flying out of trucks were a real problem in the state.

"A single unique incident occurred that involved someone's pet, and because of that we will constrain all dog owners who want to take their dogs for a ride," that you seek seems unrealistic," Kelley said. "And the relief" Continued on Page A-4

UNION SENIORS
Because of inclement weather, the Union District Seniors' January meeting was canceled. A total of 19 attended the February 12 meeting held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. As there was no school in the county because of storm damage and electricity being out, the county nurses were not present. Turkey pot pie was served for dinner with side dishes featuring a Valentine theme, as did some of the attire.

Devotions were presided by Rennie Conrad, who used "Travel Light" and other readings. During the business session, it was determined that there was no local interest in the county belle program. Silver-haired Legislature will meet March 1 through 3 in Charleston. Some of the proposed trips for 2009 are as follows:

• March 25 - Wheeling, $20

• April 26-30 - Atlantic City, $395

• June 1-5 - Nashville, Tenn., $485

• June 19 - Wheeling, $20

• Aug. 12 - The Meadows, $20

A suggestion of making another donation of food to the Terra Alta food pantry in June was agreed upon. Foods and kitchen staples are to be brought to the June meeting. Discussion of shopping trips or visits to Terra Alta for a hot lunch showed no interest during the winter months. Rennie Conrad announced that the Heritage Group has asked the seniors to join them in participating in a yard sale to provide monies for the Relay for Life event in June.

The next meeting is slated for March 12, with a St. Patrick's Day theme. Participants are asked to wear green and provide green foods. Wilma Mae Teets will be responsible for devotions.

UNION LENTEN SERVICES

Union District will begin its services for Lent with a meeting on Feb. 25 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House. Pastor Debbie Strawser will be officiating, and all services begin at 7 p.m. The March 4 services will be at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, with Pastor Wick Myers officiating. The public is invited to attend any or all of the services.

Lakers Edge Montgomery Rockville In Opening Round Of JUCO Tourney

While the regular season ended on a negative note for the Garrett College men's basketball team, the Lakers eked out a 66-64 victory over Montgomery Rockville Tuesday night in a first-round game of the Maryland JUCO Conference tournament.

Coach Dennis Gibson's squad dropped their final regular-season contests, falling to Southern Maryland in LaPlata last Friday, 65-61, and suffering another four-point loss, 70-66, to visiting Montgomery Germantown on Saturday.

A slow start against Southern Maryland on Friday was something that the Lakers could not overcome, despite playing much better in the second half.

Garrett trailed by 13 points, 34-21, at intermission, as the Lakers had trouble maintaining possession of the ball, turning it over 15 times in the first half alone. The score just a few minutes before the break was 30-10.

The Lakers chipped away at the host team's lead in the second half, cutting the margin to just five points on several occasions. A three-point bucket by Reco Siler with just 38 seconds to play pulled the Lakers within three, 64-61.

But the only remaining score of the game was a free throw by Southern Maryland's Leron Mann.

Mo Gunn led Garrett's scoring effort with 15 points, J.T. Lewis contributed 11, and Terrance Taylor netted 10.

Saquan Brown led double figures with 16 points. Chris Brown finished with 14, Byron Morgan netted 12, and Thomas Young added 11. It was only the 10th win in 25 games for Southern Maryland, ranked last in the Maryland JUCO standings with a 4-12 conference mark.

"We are in a scoring slump, and it is mostly due to our poor handling of the ball," said Coach Gibson. "In the first eight possessions of the game we had three baskets, a missed shot, and four turnovers. You cannot win on the road if players do not value the ball."

"Our bench and post play has not been what it was earlier in the year either," he continued. "But I do have to credit this team with battling back, and we are learning how to put ourselves in a position to win these games."

The game against Germantown the following night was the opposite case for the Lakers, who held a 35-29 advantage at intermission, but let it slip away in the second half.

After falling behind midway through the second half, Rodney Clark hit a long-range bucket at the 2:43 mark to cut Germantown's lead to 64-61, but an inside shot by Jon Taylor made it 66-61 with 1:40 to play.

There was no scoring by either team for the next minute, then with 39 seconds left, Garrett's Taylor scored off an offensive rebound to make it 66-63. Germantown followed with three straight foul shots, two by Brandon Sims, as the Lakers were forced to foul in the final seconds.

A three-pointer by Clark with seven seconds left cut the lead to 69-66, but it was too little, too late. Sims was fouled on the ensuing inbounds play and hit one of two foul shots to conclude the scoring and ice the win for his team.

"We quit playing defense with our feet and allowed them penetration," said Coach Gibson. "It was a good game, but it came down to their making free throws in the end."

Gunn again led the Lakers in scoring with 17 points, while Clark finished with 12.

Doma Ibrahim grabbed nine rebounds for the Lakers, who out-boarded Germantown by a 44-30 margin. Chris Speicher recorded four steals.

Taylor paced Germantown with 16 points and five rebounds, Brandon Riley connected for 14 points, and Desmin Wade added 10.

The Lakers wilted their way to the 66-64 win over host Rockville on Tuesday. Six days earlier they had lost to the same team, 73-65, blowing a 13-point second-half lead and sending the winners to the foul line 25 times in the second half alone.

Held to two points in the first game, Terrance Taylor scored 14, and Mo Gunn got on track and finished with 13 after only two free throws to show by intermission. Freshman point guard Rodney Clark led the way with 15 points and 5 assists, and J.T. Lewis added 10 points, including two tremendous finishes attacking the basket that resulted in three-point plays late in the game.

"In this type of possession game, which was a great defensive effort by our team, you cannot point out one or two plays that are the most important," said Gibson. "All of our guys scored when they had to, but Doma Ibrahim got the biggest rebound of the year in Rockville's next to the last possession of the game. He was fouled and missed the free throws, but we had to have a stop there. I knew he would attack the glass and get the ball, and he did just that."

While Reco Siler scored only one point, Gibson said he was "relentless" as a defender.

"His man did not score the entire game, and he had 18 in the last meeting," he said.

"Rockville is always a tough out, so I am very proud of these guys to come back after three losses and win this game," Gibson added.

The Lakers built a nine-point lead, 66-57, on two free throws by Chris Speicher with just 58 seconds remaining, but a bucket by Rockville's Randall Scott, a turnover on the inbound play, and a quick three by Rockville cut the lead to 66-62 with 28 seconds on the clock.

The Lakers called timeout, but again turned the ball over, and Rockville hit two free throws to cut the lead to 66-64. Rockville fouled, but Brian Koonce missed both free throws and the Lakers had to defend again with 18 seconds remaining.

Ibrahim came into the game, pulled the carom, and was fouled with only seven seconds remaining. Both free throws came up short, giving Rockville one last chance for a buzzer beater, which hit the back of the rim and gave the win to Garrett.

Maryland Deer Hunters Set A New Record

Deer hunters in the state of Maryland harvested over 100,000 deer in a single season for the first time since modern deer management began in the early 1900s. The record 100,437 deer taken during the 2008-2009 deer season eclipsed the previous record of 94,114 deer set in 2002-2003 and is 9% higher than last year's harvest of 92,208 deer. Reaching this numerical milestone is consistent with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) goal to reduce or stabilize deer numbers in most of the state.

This year's antlered harvest increased 8% from 32,221 deer (898 sika deer) in 2007-2008 to 34,725 deer (1,076 sika deer). The antlerless harvest increased 10% from 59,987 deer (956 sika deer) last year to 65,712 deer (1,103 sika deer) this year.

The harvest in Garrett County totaled 5,235 deer, a 10% increase over last year's total of 4,759. The kill in Allegany County was 4,641, a 9.3% increase over last year's total of 4,245.

Washington County led the state, reporting a harvest of 9,227, a jump of 4.6% over the 2007-08 season total of 8,820. "Hunting license sales increased slightly this year, but we believe the major factor for the record harvest was that hunters increased their efforts to put more venison in the freezer during these lean economic times," said DNR Deer Project leader Brian Eyster. "The 10% increase in the antlerless harvest is great news, and will aid us in managing deer numbers across the state."

In Deer Management Region A (Garrett and Allegany counties), the antlered harvest of 5,367 deer this year was slightly higher than the 2007-2008 harvest of 5,208 deer, while the antlerless harvest of 4,509 deer was a 19% increase over last year's harvest of 3,796 deer. The large increase in the Region A antlerless harvest can be partially attributed to an additional day of antlerless firearm hunting on private lands beginning with the 2008-2009 season. The extra day for antlerless deer hunting was provided at the request of landowners in the region who wanted more opportunities to effectively manage deer numbers on their land.

The reported deer harvest in the remainder of the state (Region B) increased in most counties. Hunters in Region B reported taking 90,561 deer for the year. The antlered harvest of 29,358 deer was 9% higher than the 27,013 antlered deer taken last year, while the antlerless harvest also increased 9% from 56,191 deer last year to 61,203 deer this year.

The deer harvest in Maryland's suburban counties (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Howard, Montgomery, and Prince George's) also increased in 2008-2009. Hunters in these counties took an average of 15% more antlerless deer this year than in 2007-2008. In recent years, DNR has liberalized antlerless harvest regulations in these counties in an effort to address the impacts that high deer populations have had on

Brock Glotfelty Ups Collegiate Record To 32-1

Former Northern High School standout athlete Brock Glotfelty, Grantsville, who is a member of the McDaniel College wrestling team, topped his personal season record to 32-1 this past week by going 3-0 in a Centennial Conference quad meet that was hosted by the Green Terror.

Glotfelty recorded pins in his first two bouts, downing Fernando Jones of Ursinus College in 2:08 before taking down Nicholas Pallotta of Muhlenberg College at the 1:12 mark.

Against Washington and Lee College's John Christopher, Glotfelty recorded a 10-0 major decision.

As a team, the Green Terror defeated Washington and Lee, 25-12, and lost to Ursinus, 25-13, and to Muhlenberg, 27-20.

Glotfelty has a perfect 7-0 mark in conference dual competition, and will enter this weekend's Centennial Conference tournament as the nation's eighth-ranked Division III collegiate wrestler in his weight division.

Ram Wrestlers Rally To Win First-Ever State Dual Title

After capturing the Region 11A/2A Dual Championship last week, the Southern High School wrestling team rallied in both their state dual semifinal match and the title match on Saturday at Marriotts Ridge to win the school's first-ever Maryland Class 1A/2A state title.

Coach Dave Taylor's Rams first rallied to defeat River Hill, 41-30, in the semifinal, and then came back from a 24-0 deficit to whip defending state dual champion Owings Mills, 48-24.

The win over Owings Mills of Baltimore County snapped a 35-match winning streak, including the Eagles' 40-38 victory over Rising Sun of Cecil County in Saturday's other semifinal. The Eagles, who were 17-0 this season, had already won four state dual meet titles, and have also captured seven regular Class 1A/2A championships.

In the semifinal against River Hill, Southern's Ryan Fitzwater gave the Rams an early 3-0 lead when he recorded a 7-5 decision over favored Jake Pace in the 215-pound division.

But the Hawks answered with four straight pins to take what seemed to be a commanding 24-3 lead. Recording those pins were Jacob Benedict in the heavyweight division, Isa Mohammad in the 103-pound bout, two-time state champion Scott Mantua in the 112-pound clash, and state runner-up Cameron Kirby in the 119-pound class.

But the Rams would go

RAMS RALLY TWICE FOR DUAL CHAMPIONSHIP — After trailing River Hill 24-3 and previously undefeated Owings Mills 24-0 in the Maryland 1A/2A Dual Wrestling Championships held Saturday at Marriotts Ridge High School, the Southern High Rams rallied for victories over both to capture their first-ever state dual title. Coach Dave Taylor's team topped River Hill, 41-30, in the semifinal and then rolled over Owings Mills in the title match, 48-24. The match began with the heavyweight battle between Southern's J.B. Gnegy and Julio Trujillo, a third-place finisher in the state tournament last year. Trujillo won via a pin to make it 6-0.

Kevin Dufour then doubled Owings Mills' total by pinning Southern's Nick Stewart in the 103-pound bout, current state champion Avi Friedman followed with a pin of Southern's David Stewart in the 112-pound division to make it 18-0.

Brandon Millman then recorded a 4-1 decision over Ram Matt Slone in the 119-pound bout to give the Eagles a 21-0 advantage, and Brian Richardson followed with an 8-4 point victory over Southern's Josh Arnold to up the score to 24-0.

But those would be the final points of the day for Owings Mills, as the Rams erupted for nine victories in the final nine matches, seven of which were via pinfalls.

Initiating the comeback was Ozias, who pinned Za Za Tausivilli in the 130-pound division.

Brant cut the Eagles' lead to 24-12 with a pin of Dan Marcus in the 135-pound clash.

Sweitzer followed with a decision over Jordan Trujillo in the 140-pound contest to make the score 24-15.

The Scheffel brothers were up next, and with a pin by each of them the Rams took the lead for good at 27-24. Brutus, who swapped weight divisions with his brother, first took down Gregg Barker in the 145-pound division, and Bubba followed with a pin of Taryn Carr in just 45 seconds in the 152-pound clash.

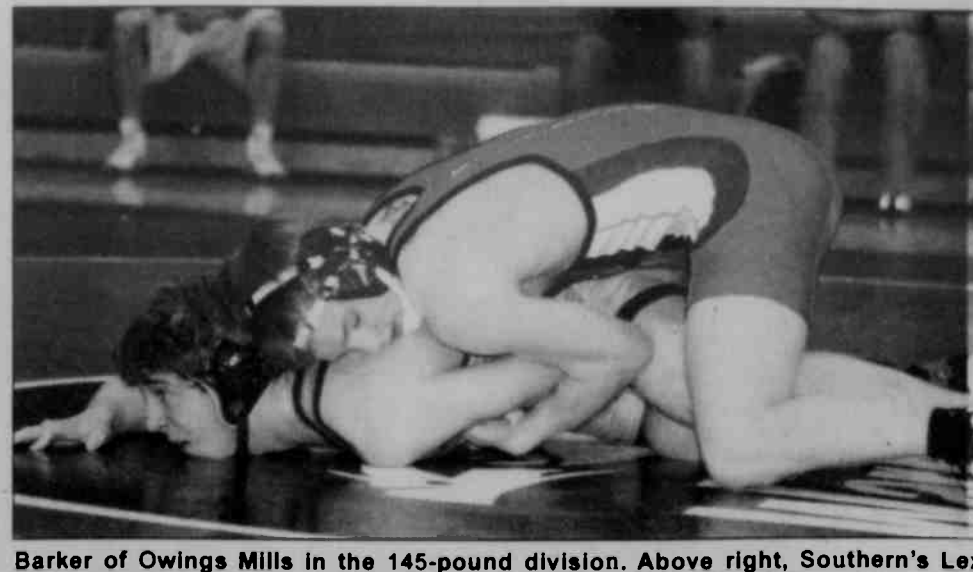

Skipper then pinned Andrew Taylor in the 160-pound class to put the Rams up 33-24. Kody Lewis pinned Muhammad Ali in the 171-pound division to make it 39-24, and Bennett recorded a pinfall in 1:21 over Ross Gotthelf to win the 189-pound division and give the Rams a commanding 45-24 lead.

The final three points of the Rams' total were added by Fitzwater in the heavyweight division, as he held on for a 1-0 decision over Abe Tadross.

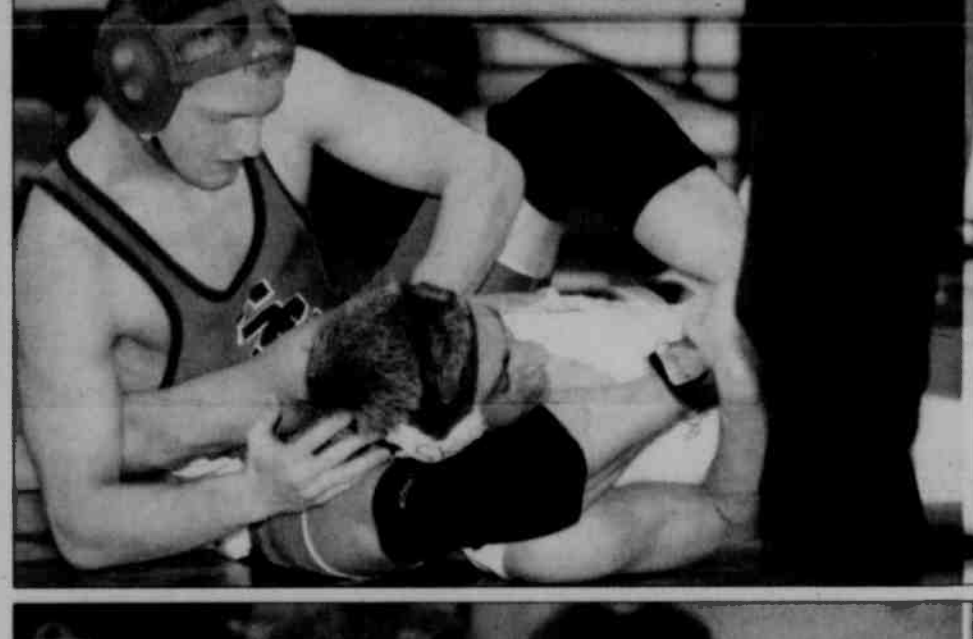

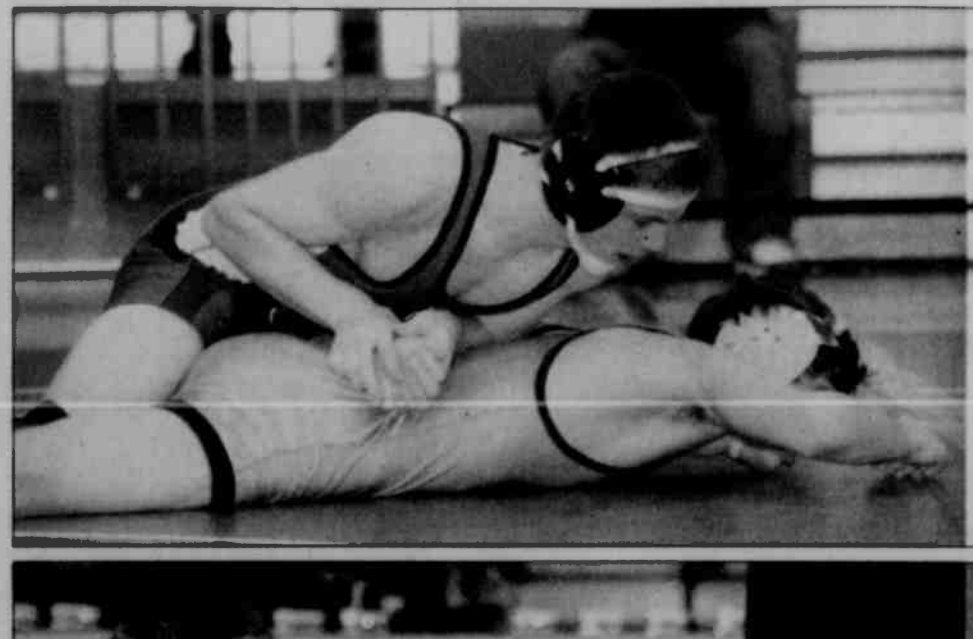

The Rams just missed getting into the dual finals last year, as they won the West Region title, but were nipped by Glenelg, 34-33, in the state semifinal. Glenelg went on to win the state dual championship.

The Rams will be looking to also win their first-ever Class 1A/2A state tournament, an event in which they have finished sixth, second, and second, respectively, over the past three years.

Frank Vitez took the team members through the daily operations of the Phenix facility. Phenix Technologies is a leading manufacturer of high-voltage, high-current, and high-power test systems and components. From left are Nathan Tichnell, Bryan Rippeon, Kendrick Bender, Derrick Maust, Vitez, Aaron Lantz, and Kevin Haenftling. Not pictured is team member Perrine. Pictured below are several team members who demonstrated their robot at the recent FIRST LEGO League (FLL) Maryland State Tournament at the University of Maryland, Baltimore campus. "The crowd enjoyed watching the boys run their robot," stated a spokesperson for the group. Another team with a similar looking robot said they had seen the G-Force robot online and it looked like it worked, so they used their ideas.

Education Tours. Travelers' payments are secured in an escrow account and protected by fidelity bonds, according to Galloway.

The tours begin in Washington, D.C. Airfare, full-time professional guides, lodging, full breakfasts, most admissions, and some dinners are included.

Those interested in joining either group may contact Galloway at 301-334-5188 or at gegalloway@excite.com.

Have You Heard?

WHEN SMOKE GETS IN YOUR EARS

One of the largest studies ever to look into the effects of smoking shows that smoking is a risk factor in the development of age-related hearing loss. Among the findings of the study is the fact that people who smoke for one year had worse hearing than people who never smoked. In addition, researchers found that the more a person smokes, the worse he or she can expect his or her hearing to be. That is, the effects of smoking upon hearing are cumulative. Interestingly, the study also found that being overweight contributes to adult onset hearing loss. When the findings are combined, the recommendation emerges that age-related hearing loss can be minimized by eliminating tobacco and eating a low-calorie diet.

The first step toward better hearing is recognizing that a hearing problem exists. Having a hearing test is the second step. If the signs are there—frequently misunderstanding what is being said, asking people to repeat themselves, or turning up the volume on the TV or radio—please call us at AUDIBEL. We have the answers to many of the questions you'll probably have regarding your hearing impairment. From sound, knowledgeable advice to custom fittings to follow-up care from a hearing specialist, you can rely on us.

P.S. As the population ages, age-related hearing loss (nerve deafness) is sure to garner increasing interest and publicity.

Shaffer Ford First Body Shop In State To "Go Green" With Paint Conversion

Shaffer Ford Sales Inc. in Oakland has "gone green" in its body shop. PPG Automotive Refinishers chose Shaffer's Body Shop for the first waterborne paint conversion in the state of Maryland. All of Canada and the majority of California have already made the change, which will be mandatory in 2012.

"This is without a doubt the single biggest change in automotive coating technology, and to have our shop chosen the first one in the state to implement it is very special," said Gary Hardesty, body shop manager. "This finally gives us the products to duplicate the finish that the car manufacturers have been using for years."

A PPG spokesperson said Shaffer's was chosen because of owner Kathy Shaffer's "concern for the environment, and her commitment to training, with equipment upgrades that had to be done in order to use the products."

Spray booth upgrades, paint guns, cleaning equipment, and painter protection were all included in the transition.

"We needed a shop with high quality painters and a major commitment from the owner," said Kriss Ebile, PPG account representative. "We found both at Shaffer. The shop's seamless transition over to waterborne is a testament to both PPG and Shaffer Ford."

The company completed PPG's Convert with Confidence program, which included training at PPG's North American headquarters in Pittsburgh, as well as in-house dealership training. The local company has been using the waterborne product for about three months.

Solvent-based paint that is currently in use in other body shops has been identified as a major greenhouse gas contributor, a PPG spokesperson said. Every gallon of color that Shaffer uses now reduces VOC (volatile organic compounds) levels in an amount equal to taking 1,100 cars off the road for a year, the spokesperson said.

Shaffer said her company is actively involved in recycling as well, in keeping with the "green" effort. She said the staff recycles automotive liquids, cardboard, and printing paper.

"We are also using proven ways of reducing our energy consumption, like making sure computers, printers, and chargers are turned off and unplugged," Shaffer said. "This is just the first phase of changes that Shaffer Ford Sales will be making to stay as environmentally conscious as possible."

ACS Announces Last Week Of Daffodil Days

The American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days program is offering one more week to order flowers in support of the organization. It is the American Cancer Society's mission to eliminate cancer as a life-threatening disease by offering daffodils to donors in appreciation of their contributions.

For a donation of $10, local residents will receive a bouquet of fresh-cut daffodils. The Society has appointed Sue Evans as chairperson of Garrett County's Daffodil Days campaign. Evans hopes to raise more than last year's $7,000.

"I encourage everyone to help paint our community yellow with daffodils this spring to show our support of the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days and help prevent cancer, save lives, and diminish suffering from the disease," stated Evans. "By giving daffodils, we are also giving hope."

In addition to the daffodil bouquets, pots of mini daffodils are also available. This year also marks the addition of Carrie N. Hope, a special Boyds™ Bear, designed exclusively for the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days Bear and a Bunch™ that can be ordered for a donation of $25. The last day to place an advanced order is Tuesday, Feb. 24.

What one person thinks is worthless might be a masterpiece to another.

People also hold different their values; one may prize honor above all other virtues, another may think loyalty is more important. Values are strongly conditioned by upbringing; your house of worship can play a vital role in shaping these values. Just as an education about art can help one appreciate art, so can a religious education prepare one to make moral choices.

Good morals are priceless. Provide your children with a religious education. Attend the house of worship of your choice this and every week.

Science in Defense of Religion

Most of the time when we hear about science and religion, we expect it to be science versus religion, or science and religion in some way attacking each other. But this need not be the case, as we see in a recent book by the Harvard psychologist George Vaillant, entitled "Spiritual Evolution: A Scientific Defense of Faith." Vaillant argues that we are hardwired to be religious. That is, our brains are structured to make us spiritual beings. Positive emotions like joy, compassion and empathy, which are advocated by all of the major religions, are adaptive, whereas the negative emotions like envy, resentment, anger and fear, which all the major religions war against, tend to be maladaptive. Prayer has a positive, calming effect on the brain and the person praying. Whether or not prayer changes the world, it can hardly be doubted that it changes the person who prays, either by calming fears or uplifting the spirit. Vaillant has been criticized by some for "biologizing" religion, but his response to this is that philosophers and theologians have not done a complete job of examining religion, and that brain research is simply another way which to examine religion. And since we are a profoundly religious, yet a profoundly unscientific nation, it is nice to occasionally see the two come together in a way that enhances both.

I have seen the business that God has given to the sons of men to be busy with. He has made everything beautiful in its time; also he has put eternity into man's mind, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end.

Perfectly 'Legal': where to see Denny Crane now
By Jay Bobbin
© 2/24/09

Q: When will "Boston Legal" go into reruns? I came upon the series late, and I would like to see it from beginning to end. —Flo Clowes, Vero Beach, Fla.

A: Repeats of the award-winning "Practice" spinoff currently can be seen Mondays and Tuesdays on the ION network. If you want to make sure you see it from the start — though James Spader and William Shatner's Alan Shore and Denny Crane characters actually were introduced during the final year of "The Practice" — the first four of its five seasons currently are available on DVD on the Fox Home Entertainment label.

Q: Andy Griffith has been such a staple of the entertainment industry, has he ever been honored with a lifetime achievement award? —Debra Lipkowitz, Columbus, Ohio

A: In a sense, he has, though not as literally as you probably mean it. The veteran actor-producer was given the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 2005, and in his hometown — Mount Airy, N.C. — there is an Andy Griffith Parkway (part of U.S. Highway 52) and a statue of Griffith and Ron Howard in their "Andy Griffith Show" roles, a similar statue stands in Raleigh, N.C. And for all who were involved in it, "The Andy Griffith Show" was given the Legend Award at the 2004 TV Land Awards.

Q: I live in a rural area that doesn't have The CW on digital cable, and I was wondering if "90210" would be coming to SoapNet anytime soon. —Candice Keith, Anderson, Mo.

A: That's an interesting thought, since the soap-oriented channel does repeat the original "Beverly Hills, 90210." We know of no such deal in the works now for the updated version, especially since the CW gives each new "90210" episode multiple runs within the same week, and giving it more — especially on another network, since the show is one of the brighter CW spots ratings-wise — would risk serious overexposure. Farther down the line, though, we wouldn't rule out the possibility.

Q: In a recent column, you answered a question about William Peteren. I remember him being in a movie about a carpenter who built a staircase without nails, but I cannot remember the name of the movie. Is it on DVD? —Carol Grube, Milwaukee

A: It was titled "The Staircase," and Barbara Hershey also starred in the drama that CBS first aired in 1998. It was released on disc in 2006, do an Internet search on the title and "DVD," and you should have no problem finding copies for sale.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• According to the Crayola Company, you can eat 3,500 of its crayons a day and still not reach the level of toxicity found in an ordinary glass of drinking water. The company didn't mention how — or why — anyone would consume that many crayons in a lifetime. Let alone a single day.

• It was 19th-century British author Elizabeth Charles who made the following observation: "To know how to say what others only know how to think is what makes men poets or sages; and to dare to say what others only dare to think makes men martyrs or reformers — or both."

• Good news for junk-food lovers: Beginning in 1996, the United States Department of Agriculture started putting frozen French fries in the "fresh vegetables" category.

• Back in 1935, the owner of the Chicago Cubs baseball team predicted that night games were "just a fad." He wasn't much of a prognosticator, it seems.

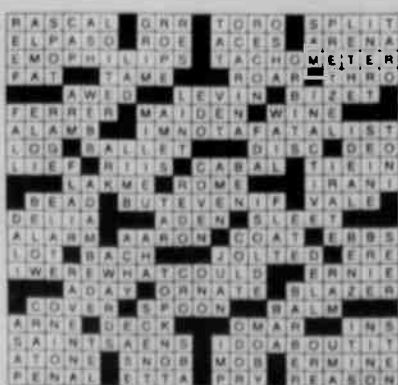

• Some people claim that rubbing the nose of any statue of Abraham Lincoln is good luck. It's not really known why, though, some speculate that it's because Lincoln's children used to pull on his nose for luck. However, only one of his four children survived to adulthood, so it's questionable whether his nose was ever lucky for anyone.

• The ubiquitous summertime flip-flop sandals are known in Australia as "pluggers," in South Africa and "slippers" in Hawaii, and New Zealanders call them "jandals."

• It's been reported that on the morning of Friday, Nov. 22, 1963, an American psychic named Jean Dixon predicted, "Something dreadful is going to happen to the president today." At 12:30 p.m. that day in Dallas, President Kennedy was assassinated.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I read your column about the Shih Tzu and its problem with ear infections, and wanted to pass on something I learned many years ago from an old-time eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. This also works for children who are prone to swimmer's ear.

I had two hunting breed dogs with long ears, and we lived right on the shores of Lake Michigan, so they were constantly having ear problems. What the doctor told me is as follows: Have the patient lie with the bad ear up. Using a plastic eyedropper filled with hydrogen peroxide (dilute peroxide with water before use), gently squirt the contents into the ear. Allow this to bubble for at least a minute. Thoroughly dry the ear, and use Q-tips carefully to clean out the debris. After the ear is as dry as possible, tap Desenex powder down into the ear with the patient lying on his or her side again so the powder gets down into the ear.

This may have to be done every other day for a week, but it worked for me — both with my dogs and my children. I hope this treatment helps "Sandy." — Bernie W. in Ormond Beach, Fla.

DEAR BERNIE: This type of treatment is available (for humans) in a kit at drugstores featuring a diluted solution of hydrogen peroxide. I would exercise caution in using this treatment with small dogs, however.

I also strongly recommend that owners whose pets are experiencing an ear infection, either for the first time or recurring, go to their veterinarian first to have the ears examined. The vet should test for evidence of ear mites, a yeast infection or other cause. Ear mites can be quickly treated, but recurring ear infections can be trickier — topical medicines often only treat the symptoms, and the cause, such as allergies, can take longer to diagnose.

My mom gave me three old cookie jars that are from the 1950s. I wonder if they have any value. — Sue, Arkadelphia, Ark.

Before I answer your question, let me share a personal story. During the early 1950s, I raced home from school each afternoon so that I wouldn't miss a single minute of "The Howdy Doody Show." The broadcast featured a boy marionette with 48 freckles — a freckle for each state of the union — and an assortment of other characters that included the host, Buffalo Bob Smith. Just before my birthday in 1953, I spotted a Howdy Doody cookie jar in a catalog and coaxed my mother to fork out the $3.98 cents for it. She did, and the cookie jar occupied a place in our kitchen well into the next decade. Eventually, I left home, and mother donated "Howdy" to a thrift shop. Imagine my chagrin when I recently discovered that Howdy Doody cookie jars now routinely sell for well above $500.

Although the feeding frenzy has cooled with collectors in recent years and prices have softened, cookie jars are still popular. Even common jars from good manufacturers often sell in the $50 to $100 range. Some of the better companies include American Bisque, Brush, McCoy, Metlox, Regal, Shawnee and Treasure Craft.

Collectors should be cautious when buying cookie jars. Reproductions have flooded the marketplace, and the Mammy Cookie Jar marked McCoy might be a knock-off. Do your homework, examine the jars carefully for chips, cracks and other flaws, and learn as much as you can about current values. A quick check of eBay revealed several interesting examples, including Mother Goose by McCoy, $90; Dopey from Snow White by Treasure Craft, $150; Frog Prince by Metlox, $60; Dutch Girl by Shawnee, $220; and Betty Boon by Clay Art, $40.

MARCH SUN – In early March, the sun rises in Oakland about 6:50 a.m. and sets about 6:10 p.m. (Both previous times are Standard Time.) On March 8, we set our clocks ahead one hour (Daylight Time), shifting sunrise on that date to 7:40 a.m. and sunset to 7:15 p.m. On March 11 the sun moves out of Aquarius in the late afternoon, entering Pisces (where it stays until April 13). As March draws to a close, Oakland and surroundings will have sunrises about 7 a.m. and sunsets about 7:40 p.m. So our daily ration of sunlight in March grows from 11.3 to 12.3 hours.

MARCH MOON – As March opens, the moon appears as a crescent low in the western dusk. Below and to the right of the moon is the brilliant planet Venus. The moon appears half full on March 3, showing half of its daylight side and half of its night side. Along the moon's straight edge, the sun is rising, lighting up the crater rims and mountain peaks. There you can see the larger craters and mountain ranges through binoculars held steadily. On March 6, the gibbous (moon between half and full phase) appears near the stars Pollux and Castor of Gemini. The moon is full on the evening of March 10, appearing near the bright planet Saturn (in Leo). Binoculars will give you a better look at the moon's giant lava fields which form the Man, Woman, or Rabbit on the moon. The craters don't show well at full moon as there is little shadow. The main craters then seen are the bright, recently formed craters which have bright rays around them.

After full, the moon rises about an hour later each night, so by mid-March, the moon shines mainly in the morning sky. Dawn observers on March 22 and 23 will see the crescent moon near the bright planet Jupiter in the southeastern sky. The moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun on March 26. As March ends, the moon is again seen as a slender crescent low in the western dusk.

MARCH PLANETS – In March, there is a change seen in the evening planets. March opens with the brilliant planet Venus setting three hours after sunset. But Venus steadily gains on Earth with its faster motion around the sun. By mid-March, Venus is quite a bit lower in the western dusk and setting only 90 minutes after sunset. Venus then appears as a very slender crescent that may be glimpsed through good binoculars held steadily. In only a week, Venus drops into the western twilight. On March 27, Venus swings from the evening to the morning side of the sun. By the end of March, observers with a flat eastern horizon may see Venus 20 minutes before sunrise.

The planet Saturn becomes more prominent on March evenings, being closest to Earth and brightest on March 8. Saturn then rises as the sun sets and hangs in the sky all through the night. The best viewing of Saturn's rings with a telescope will be late in the evening when it appears high in the sky. To find Saturn, look late in the evening (9-11 p.m.) for three bright (twinkling) stars in the eastern sky that form a large triangle that points to the right. On the left side of the triangle are very bright golden Arcturus and white-blue Spica. At the right tip of the triangle is the white-blue star Regulus of Leo. Saturn appears as a steadily shining bright point to the left of Regulus. Saturn is brighter than Spica and Regulus, but slightly dimmer than Arcturus. A telescope magnifying 50 times will allow you to view Saturn's rings, now nearly edgewise to Earth.

During March, the bright planet Jupiter becomes prominent in the southeastern dawn sky as its rising time goes from about 5:30 a.m. (early March) to 4 a.m. (late March).

MARCH STARS – The brightest stars on March evenings are in the southwest. The brightest star group there is Orion, with his three-star belt (three stars equally bright and equally spaced). Above the belt is the bright pink star Betelgeuse, and below the belt is white-blue Rigel, Orion's brightest star. Orion's belt points left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. Orion's belt points right to Aldebaran, the bright orange star marking the eye of Taurus, the Bull. High in the northwest is Capella, a bright golden star. The Big Dipper's handle can be extended outward to the bright golden star Arcturus, low in the east. Farther to the right is the white-blue star Spica. High in the southern evening sky is the sickle of Leo. The sickle also resembles a backwards question mark. At the bottom of the sickle is the star Regulus marking the heart of Leo.

CUPLER VISITS SENIOR CENTER – The Grantsville Senior Center was recently visited by Rosie Cuper, owner of the Herb Barn in Grantsville, where she spoke to participants about aromatherapy. "We were amazed to learn about the natural products available that could help with so many health problems," an agency spokesperson said. "It was really a treat to have Rosie make a presentation at the center." Rosie was trained as a coronary care nurse and worked in intensive coronary care for three years. She became interested in using herbs and vitamins therapeutically in 1984, and has continued to educate herself and become certified in many areas. Rosie is knowledgeable in the therapeutic use of herbs, vitamins, minerals, flower essences, and essential oils. In her shop she offers nutritional consultations, muscle response testing, iridology, reflexology, massage, and Rain Drop Technique. For more information about the Herb Barn, persons may call 1-877-216-7706, or visit the web site www.theherbbarn.com.

MARCH PROGRAMS – The March public program at the Frostburg State University is "Earth from Distant Stars," with free Sunday presentations on March 1, 8, 22 and 29 at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. (There are no programs on March 15 because of spring break at Frostburg State.) The Planetarium is in Tawes 302, just off the front lobby and facing the Compton Science Center. To get a free Planetarium bookmark (includes a map showing parking and planetarium), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and leave name and mailing address, or send an e-mail to rdoyl@frostburg.edu.

Bark'n Bites Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

The Garrett Forestry Board held its regular meeting February 9, with chairman Charles Hoffeditz presiding.

Natural Resources Careers Conference

Board member Joe Winters volunteered to be the board's liaison with Northern High School and Southern High School to help recruit students for this conservation training held annually in July at Hickory Environmental Education Center.

Arbor Day Activities

All county third graders will receive seedlings, and all county fifth graders will be encouraged to participate in a nationwide poster contest.

Gypsy Moth Spraying

There might be some spraying in the county in selected areas, but the decision has not been made yet. Forest landowners should keep their eyes open for egg masses on their trees.

County Forest Invasive Species Committee

Discussion was held to possibly form such a county committee to report annually to the county commissioners on what forest pests and diseases have invaded the county and what needs to be done to prevent an epidemic.

For example, the emerald ash borer is moving toward the county. Forest landowners should locate any ash trees on their property, check on their health, and report any unhealthy characteristics, plus signs of any other pests or diseases, to the DNR (301-334-3296).

Western Maryland Forest Pest Conference

This annual meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. on March 4 at the New Germany State Park Lake House.

Sustainable Forestry Act of 2009

Somewhere within the General Assembly this act is being discussed for passage during this session. Persons are advised to contact their legislators to find out what is happening to this act. Its main emphasis is "Trees are the answer." Much is at stake for forestry in this act.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Second Degree Escape Charge

In recent Garrett County District Court hearings, David Wayne Welch, 46, Oakland, was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for second degree escape, and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, with all fines suspended.

He was sentenced in October 2008 when he failed to report to the Garrett County jail as ordered by the court, and was considered to be an escapee from confinement. The length of the sentence was court ordered to be for a period of 30 weekends commencing in October.

In a separate case involving Welch, he was found not guilty for charges of second degree assault and false imprisonment. The charges stemmed from October 2008 after an altercation with an adult victim.

In an unrelated case, Melvin Lee Minnick, 30, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a CDS possession not marijuana and was sentenced to six months, with five months 24 days suspended, supervised probation for one year, and $157.50 in fines.

He was charged in September 2008 after the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search and seizure warrant at Minnick's residence. The search revealed a smoking pipe with burnt marijuana residue and a bag containing an Adderall capsule, a schedule II CDS. He was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of marijuana. In a separate case involving Minnick, he was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of marijuana stemming from a traffic stop in October 2008.

In another court hearing, Teddy Lee Kitzmiller, 53, Grantsville, was handed a guilty verdict for a charge of maintaining a junkyard without obtaining the required junkyard license, and was sentenced to one year of supervised probation and $307.50 in fines.

The defendant was charged in June 2008 after a complaint was received about the amount of scrap and debris located on his property. In August and September 2008, an inspection of the property revealed no cleanup effort made by Kitzmiller, nor had he applied for a junkyard license. He was charged for failure to comply with a county ordinance.

William Everett Sines, 36, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was placed on set for charges of

INDUCTED INTO LEADERSHIP SOCIETY - Garrett College recently inducted 21 students into the National Society of Leadership and Success, an organization that "helps people discover their goals, offers life-changing lectures from the nation's leading presenters, and serves as community where individuals come together to help one another succeed." "The National Society of Leadership and Success provides many wonderful opportunities to Garrett college's future leaders," said advisor Connie Meyers. Students and their families participated in an induction ceremony. The event featured a dinner, inductee speeches, and keynote speaker Joshua S. Tetrick. Tetrick recently led a landmark global citizenship initiative with a Fortune 500 company and recently returned from Monrovia, Liberia, where he worked for the Liberian president on a clean-energy investment. Tetrick has also been asked to speak at schools about how some of world's biggest needs - global poverty and climate change - align with career opportunities for young people to engage their strengths, find meaning, and make money. Meyers said that Tetrick was "very hands on and engaged with the audience." Pictured, left to right, in the front row are inductees Stephanie Weaver, Ashley Branthover, Carolyn Maxim, and Ashley Riggelman. ### February is American Heart Month

(A release from the Garrett County Health Department)

High cholesterol, high blood pressure, obesity, diabetes, tobacco, and secondhand smoke are risk factors associated with heart disease. Coronary heart disease is the #1 cause of death in the United States, while stroke is the #3 cause of death and a leading cause of serious disability. Doctors use measurements of your blood glucose, blood pressure, blood cholesterol, body mass, waist size, and weight to assess the quality of your health.

Do you know your numbers? In order to know your risk for heart disease you need to know your numbers.

Last week's article in this series was about high cholesterol and how a blood test is the only way to check your cholesterol levels.

High blood pressure is another major risk factor for heart disease, stroke, congestive heart failure, and kidney disease. It is estimated that 1 in 3 American adults has high blood pressure or hypertension. High blood pressure is sometimes called the "silent killer" because it usually has no noticeable warning signs or symptoms until other serious health problems arise. Therefore, many people do not know that they have it. All persons, including children, can develop high blood pressure. However, high blood pressure is easily detectable and usually can be controlled. Maintaining a healthy blood pressure is an important health strategy. Therefore, it is important for you to know your blood pressure level and to check it regularly.

Blood pressure is often written as two numbers. The top (systolic) number represents the pressure when the heart is beating. The bottom (diastolic) number represents the pressure when the heart is resting between beats. High blood pressure for adults is defined as a systolic blood pressure of 140 mmHg or higher, or a diastolic blood pressure of 90 mmHg or higher. Normal blood pressure is a systolic of less than 120 mmHg and a diastolic blood pressure of less than 80 mmHg. "Prehypertension" is defined as a systolic blood pressure of 120-139 mmHg or a diastolic blood pressure of 80-89 mmHg. Persons with prehypertension are at increased risk to progress to hypertension.

There are several things that you can do to keep your blood pressure and blood cholesterol at healthy levels. These actions should become part of your regular lifestyle, and you should discuss with your health care provider the best ways for you to address these issues. Some of these actions include maintaining a healthy weight, reducing salt in your diet, and increasing physical activities.

Check back next week for more information about how to keep your blood pressure and blood cholesterol healthy.

This is the second in a series of three articles about heart health.

salad, Texas garlic toast, dessert, and beverages. All are invited to join in the food and fellowship. Donations received support the food pantry, which helps families in need during financial hardships.

Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries is sponsoring a trip to Lancaster, Pa., to see Behold the Lamb on Thursday, April 16. A bus will leave from the Hoes Chapel at 6 a.m. and travel to the Pennsylvania Welcome Station on I-81, north of Hagerstown, where a continental breakfast will be served.

The group will then travel to the Willow Valley Resort for a buffet luncheon. The bus will then take the group to the Millennium Theatre for the 1 p.m. showing of Behold the Lamb. The return trip will have the bus stopping in Chambersburg, Pa., for a quick dinner to be paid for by each guest. The bus should arrive back at Hoes Chapel around 9 p.m.

The cost for the trip is $110 for adults, $85 for teenagers, and $75 for children under age 12. Seats are available, and reservations are due by Sunday, March 1. For more information,

THERE ARE FEWER TREES in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia and Pennsylvania, as hundreds of them were brought down last Wednesday night by gale-force winds in a weather system from the west. While there were no injuries reported, a ton counties, with some having to go without electricity for several days. Three head of cattle belonging to Richard Gibson, Cranesville, were electrocuted when a tree caused the power line to fall on the electric fence surrounding his pasture.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

A council meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, March 3. All scheduled meetings are conducted at the town hall.

Financial Focus Here's a "Checklist" for Surviving a Financial Crisis

Over the past few months, the news has been almost incomprehensible. It's hard for many of us to make sense of the failure of major Wall Street firms and large banks and the $700 billion bailout of the financial sector. And it's hard for investors to be calm when stocks have fallen more than 40 percent between October 2007 and Inauguration Day in 2009. What can you do to cope? Consider the following "checklist" for surviving a financial crisis:

Close your ears, but open your eyes. These days, you may hear some so-called "experts" talking about end-of-capitalism scenarios. Try not to listen to these doom-mongers. We still have the most powerful economy in the history of the world and we will recover from these setbacks. However, even if you close your ears, you should keep your eyes wide open. Specifically, look for opportunities. Stock prices are down now, but they won't always be and, all else being equal, investors who buy into the stock market at lower prices are likely to earn higher returns than those who buy stocks when prices are higher.

Focus on things you can control. During a financial crisis, your success at weathering the storm depends on your ability to stay calm and concentrate on the things you can control. For example, you can control your emotions so that you aren't panicked into making unwise, short-term decisions, such as putting all your money under your mattress. And, to a certain extent, you can even control your portfolio's ability to withstand volatility. How? By diversifying your holdings as broadly as possible. The wider your range of investments, the less you'll be hurt by downturns that primarily affect one asset class. (Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee profits or protect against losses.)

Review and rebalance your portfolio. During this market decline, some of your holdings have probably fallen more than others. As a result, you may now own a lower percentage of a specific asset class than you had originally intended when you built your portfolio. Consequently, you may want to meet with your financial advisor to determine if you should rebalance your portfolio by adding more money to those asset classes that have fallen the most. You may also want to rebalance if your risk tolerance or long-term goals have changed.

Look for quality investments. In this economic environment, it's more important than ever to focus on on quality investments. When you buy stocks, look for those companies with strong balance sheets. If you're purchasing bonds, stick with those that receive high credit ratings. If we are entering a prolonged economic downturn, these types of investments will, in all likelihood, fare better than low-quality stocks and bonds.

Be patient. No one can predict when a bear market will end, but history has shown that turnarounds can happen quickly and unexpectedly. So be patient. The most successful investors have the courage to stay the course and take advantage of opportunities while others are "bailing out" of the financial markets.

We may still have some rough roads ahead of us. But if you can check off every item on this list, you can smooth out some of the bumps you'll encounter on your journey toward achieving your long-term goals.

The deadline for voter registration is Monday, March 2. The town council must appoint a board of supervisors of elections on or before Monday, Feb. 23.

A primary election will be held on Monday, March 23, only if there are more than four nominations filed for council member or more than two nominations filed for mayor.

Many Maryland Taxpayers Filing Returns Online

On the heels of a much talked about YouTube ad aimed at encouraging Marylanders to file their taxes electronically, Comptroller Peter Franchot announced this week that his office has already received more than a half million returns electronically.

The comptroller is urging Marylanders to file electronically this year to ensure they get their refunds within days as opposed to weeks, and it appears that many people have already taken his advice. In addition to the YouTube ad, which has garnered more than 20,000 hits already, the agency is using a variety of public relations techniques aimed at alerting taxpayers to the benefits of electronic filing.

"I am delighted to know that the agency's marketing efforts are paying off," said Franchot. "It shows that taxpayers are listening and are taking us up on our advice, especially in these tough economic times. Filing electronically is the best way to go to ensure quick refunds while also saving the state money. It's easy, safe, convenient, and fast."

Franchot's office has received 559,250 tax year 2008 returns electronically to date, with more than $557 million in refund payments issued. This compares to 497,875 downloaded by this same time last year.

The agency has received returns that reflect nearly $12.6 million in due tax payments.

Franchot said that electronic filing saves the state significant money, noting that paper returns cost the state $1.98 each to process, compared to 38 cents for an e-filed return.

Since its inception in the early 1990s, electronic filing has saved the state approximately $14 million.

With the comptroller's increased public outreach over the past two years, the number of electronic returns has gone up. For tax year 2007, the comptroller's office processed more than 1.5 million returns electronically, up almost 200,000 from the 1.3 million received for tax year 2006.

For more information on electronic filing or to file free of charge, persons should go to the comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com or telephone 1-800-MD-TAXES (1-800-638-2937).

AS PART OF NATIONAL FFA WEEK, officers from the North Garrett FFA Chapter presented FFA pens to members of their school administration. Activities have been planned for the week, which is set for Feb. 21 through 28. ### Nat'l FFA Week Scheduled, Local Activities Slated

Both local FFA chapters will celebrate National FFA Week, which has been scheduled for Feb. 21 through 28. The theme for this year is "Step Up, Stand Out," and more than half a million members around the nation will participate in National FFA Week activities at the local and state levels.

"Stepping up and standing out is not only a way of life for FFA members, but it's also a call to action for others," a spokesperson said. "FFA members set a positive example with their leadership, work ethic, and community service activities."

The focus of National FFA Week is to tell America about the opportunities available for youth in agriculture. From its beginnings in 1928 as the Future Farmers of America, the National FFA Organization today reaches out to all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. From urban to rural schools, FFA is committed to developing character and leadership skills and preparing members for a lifetime of success in one of the 300 careers in agriculture.

As part of National FFA Week, the Southern Garrett FFA Chapter members will

FOOD DRIVE SET – Members of the Southern Garrett FFA Chapter will celebrate National FFA Week next week. They will host a food drive for the House of Hope. hold a food drive for the House of Hope. Persons may drop off nonperishable food items in the front lobby of the school. For more information, persons may call 301-334-1580.

North Garrett FFA members have decorated their school with posters and themed bulletin boards. They also plan to give each Northern High School student an ice cream sandwich with their lunch, surprise each teacher with a cookie, and participate in the Oakland WinterFest this weekend by helping with children's activities.

"Through classroom instruction and hands-on learning, agricultural education and FFA are making a positive difference for members every day," the spokesperson said.

FFA members have opportunities to attend national leadership conferences, develop a supervised agricultural experience project, learn life skills, and serve their communities with civic engagement.

For example, in 2008, the North Garrett group worked with the leaders of the town of Grantsville on a stream restoration project, and this year plan to establish an upland wildlife habitat.

National FFA Week is sponsored by Tractor Supply Co. and Carhartt as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Drugs for this Metabolic Condition

Porphyria is an inherited or acquired metabolic condition due to a deficiency of an enzyme required for the production of heme. Heme is the oxygen-carrying component of hemoglobin, a part of red blood cells. Normally, the body uses enzymes to convert substances called porphyrins to heme. When the normal process of heme production is disrupted, the body may produce excessive amounts of porphyrins, which leads to porphyria. Signs and symptoms of acute porphyria include muscle weakness, abdominal pain, and seizures.

Medication may be used for preventing future attacks or treating an acute attack. For acute porphyria, treatment may consist of a variety of medications to control symptoms of the attack. Hospitalization may be required. For acute pain, narcotic analgesics may be administered. To alleviate nausea and vomiting, phenothiazines may be administered. Chloral hydrate may be administered to alleviate insomnia. Glucose may be administered intravenously to maintain an adequate intake of carbohydrates. Hemin for injection may be recommended for severe attacks, and milder attacks that are unresponsive to intravenous glucose administration.

Bill & Dottie Sines Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

The children of Bill and Dottie Sines, McHenry, recently hosted a surprise dinner celebration in honor of the couple's 40th wedding anniversary.

Bill and Dottie were married on Jan. 4, 1969, at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, McHenry, with Pastor Donald Matthews officiating.

The couple were taken to the Bittmer Mennonite Hall, where they were surprised by their family with dinner and an evening of events. Over 130 family members, friends, and out-of-town guests gathered to share and witness the couple renew their vows, again officiated by Pastor Matthews.

After dinner, the couple cut the anniversary cake made by their daughter Jill. After cake was served, the couple and the guests were entertained with a PowerPoint presentation put together by their granddaughter Jackie. Their daughter Kim and granddaughters Jackie and Kaitlyn accompanied the presentation with love songs.

Photography was provided by Sandy Vincent, and a video was recorded by Fayann Saturday.

Including their daughters, Jill Rodeheaver and Kim Yommer, the couple's family includes a son-in-law, Jamie Rodeheaver, and

Loar Auxiliary Names Volunteer Of The Month

The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital has named Jarlath Fitzwater-Hight its Volunteer of the Month for February.

"The phrase 'in charge' certainly describes Jarlath," said Denise Shay, Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop manager. "She always stays calm and in control. No matter what situation or calamity happens in the shop, Jarlath takes it in stride."

Fitzwater-Hight began her volunteer service with the Loar Auxiliary in 2005, but her service to the hospital is more extensive. She was an employee at GCMH for 23 years and was the head nurse on the third floor medical/surgical unit. Individuals interested in volunteering in the shop may call 301-533-4041 for an application.

TRACKING INFLUENZA OUTBREAKS

by Thomas P. Sheahan

Q. I heard that Google, of all things, has a new way to track the flu virus. The Google folks seem to have their hand in everything! How can they do that?

A. This is one more demonstration of the power of the Internet. By now the term "googling" has come into common parlance. Google is used so widely as a search engine that the system contains a huge amount of data, and that can be examined to pick out trends in what people are inquiring about.

The countless jillions of bits of information going back and forth all the time make it impractical for Google to care whether you personally have the flu, but the statistical pattern of a great number of people looking for flu information sends the message that there is probably something going on. When a high number of "hits" come from one state on a single topic like influenza, chances are there is an outbreak of flu beginning.

Google's system of detecting flu trends is no more complicated than that — just see what people are inquiring about, aggregate a gigantic amount of data, and decide that it's a signal. It can do the same thing in allergy season or sunburn season.

A prediction from Google runs about two weeks ahead of more accurate data flowing into the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) from doctors' offices all over the country. The medical-office information is better, of course, it involves throat swabs and lab reports, and can discern if there is a new strain of the virus. What Google provides is an early warning, and two weeks' lead time is often very valuable.

The CDC and Google worked together to test this idea in the 2007-2008 flu season, and it proved remarkably accurate. The results were published in Nature magazine, and the system was announced to the public in late 2008. If you go to the web site (google flu trends), you can watch a graphic display of the data showing the Google prediction running ahead of the CDC data. One outcome is that CDC considers this a fine surveillance tool, and hopes to collaborate further.

The entire concept relies on having a large number of people doing approximately the same thing (making inquiries of Google about influenza). It works best in large metropolitan regions with populations in the millions. The data are aggregated by state, and for much of America, that's very helpful. However, given that Maryland has such an unusual shape, a trend showing an influenza outbreak "in Maryland" doesn't tell you much about what's happening in Mountain Maryland. A prediction about West Virginia might be more useful. If Google tried to break it down by ZIP codes, it wouldn't have a large enough sample of people to compute statistically meaningful results.

Sometimes people are concerned about invasion of their privacy by snoopers on the Internet. Google personnel assure users that they don't do such a thing. Mathematical reality backs that up. Information about a single individual is useless for predicting a trend in the population, and so it just isn't worth it to bother keeping track of you or me.

THE MOVE OF A LIFETIME

If you're in your fifties, sixties or beyond, you may be facing your first move in decades. The process may seem overwhelming, and you may be anxious about the future and the big changes coming up. However, a trusted real estate agent can help with all the steps along the way, especially with selling your home quickly in a competitive market.

If you've occupied your home for ten, twenty or more years, you'll want to enlist family members to get your home market-ready, and prepare for your move. Beyond the cooperation of friends and family, you might also consider a professional "move manager" to help you settle in to your new home.

These experts are well versed in the complexities associated with moving from a "lifetime home" - the preparation involved in staging your home for showings as well as the organization needed to get you moved with a minimum of hassle and confusion. You are in complete control, while they unclutter the house, pack and organize boxes, make the home sparkle, and arrange for moving, shipping, or donating belongings as you direct.

By showing your home in the best possible light, buyers will be able to picture their own families there. Combined with the real estate agent's marketing tools, this formula can provide a quick and profitable sale while you settle into your new residence! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT Notice of Intent to Establish Total Maximum Daily Loads of Fecal Bacteria for the Little Youghiogheny River Basin in Garrett County, Maryland

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act requires Maryland to: (1) identify waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSs), where technology-based effluent limitations and other required controls cannot achieve water quality standards; (2) for each listed water, establish Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for pollutants preventing the attainment of water quality standards; and (3) offer an opportunity for public review and comment on the proposed TMDLs.

The Little Youghiogheny River (basin code 05020202) was identified on the state's list of water quality limited segments (WQLSs) as impaired by nutrients and sediment (1996 listings), fecal bacteria (2002 listing), and impacts to biological communities (2002 and 2006 listings). The nutrients and sediment listing have been addressed by TMDLs approved in 2001 and 2007, respectively. The listing for impacts to biological communities will be addressed at a later date. Broadford Lake, located within the Little Youghiogheny watershed, was listed as impaired by nutrients (1998) and methylmercury (2002). The nutrients impairment was addressed by a TMDL, approved in 2001; the methylmercury listing was addressed by a water quality analysis (WQA), approved in 2004.

The TMDL sets the maximum load limit for the impairing substance. The TMDL also reflects potential load allocations to point sources, nonpoint sources, and a margin of safety that accounts for uncertainty in the procedures used to estimate the TMDLs. Once established by the State, the TMDL will be subject to approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The established TMDL will support measures needed to attain water quality standards in the Little Youghiogheny River watershed.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER

Town of Oakland Has Levels of Disinfection Byproducts Above Drinking Water Standards
Our water system recently violated a drinking water standard. Although this is not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened, what you should do, and what we are doing to correct this situation.

We routinely monitor for the presence of drinking water contaminants. Disinfection byproducts are formed by a chemical reaction of chlorine with the organic material in the water, such as leaves and algae. Testing results show that our system exceeds the standards, or maximum contaminant levels (MCL), for Total Trihalomethanes and Haloacetic Acids. The standard for Total Trihalomethanes is 80 parts per billion (ppb), and Haloacetic Acids is 60 ppb.

The average level of Disinfection Byproducts over the last year (January 2008 to December 2008) was:

Total Trihalomethanes 84 ppb
Haloacetic Acids 85 ppb

What should you do? You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply. However, if you have specific health concerns, consult your doctor.

What does this mean? This is not an immediate risk. If it had been, you would have been notified immediately. However, some people who drink water containing total trihalomethanes and haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

What happened? What is being done? Recently, the State of Maryland, Department of the Environment, has made the byproducts limitations more stringent. Oakland has been working to lower the levels of total trihalomethanes and haloacetic acids over the past couple years in anticipation of the new requirements. Unfortunately, we have not been able to bring the levels down to meet the new guidelines. As a result, we are planning to advertise for a consultant to study our water system and design the changes or improvements necessary to bring our system into compliance. It is the Town of Oakland's goal and expectation that this should be completed by the end of 2010.

For more information, please contact Randy Sharpless, Oakland Water Superintendent, by phone at 301-334-3836, or his mailing address is: Oakland Water Department, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

NOTE: Please feel free to share this information with all other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

TALENT SHOW

The NHS band will host its annual talent show tonight, Thursday, Feb. 19, at 7 p.m. on the stage in the cafeteria. Awards will be given to the top three acts, and the proceeds from the show will benefit the band and the newly formed NHS drama club. Admission is $5 per person, with children under the age of 6 admitted for free. There will be a concession stand/food booth, which will open at 6 p.m. and will be operated by the Northern Garrett Music Boosters. There will be approximately 12 acts featuring vocal and instrumental solos, group numbers, and duets. Band director Duane Salisbury will be the host, along with special masters of ceremony Dylan Gallagher and Ryan Moreland. Judges for the competition are being provided by the music department at Frostburg State University.

FFA

•The FFA ham dinner will be held on Friday, March 27, from 4 to 7 p.m. More details will be included in upcoming Husky Notes.

•The North Garrett FFA Chapter will celebrate National FFA Week Feb. 21 through 28. "Step Up, Stand Out" is the theme this year, and more than half a million members around the nation will participate in National FFA Week activities at the local and state levels. "Stepping up and standing out is not only a way of life for FFA members," noted a spokesperson, "but it's also a call to action for others. FFA members set a positive example with their leadership, work ethic and community service activities." The focus of National FFA Week is to tell America about opportunities available for youth in agriculture. From its beginnings in 1928 as the Future Farmers of America, the National FFA Organization today reaches out to all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. From urban to rural schools, FFA is committed to developing character and leadership.

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH TO TURN 100 YEARS OLD - Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, will celebrate its 100th anniversary with a joint service of the three churches of the Bittering Lutheran Parish this Sunday, Feb. 22, at 10 a.m. The public is invited. The congregation was organized on Feb. 28, 1909, with 17 charter members. The church was constructed on a building site purchased from J. Louis Durst for $5. Built of molded concrete blocks, the church was constructed to seat 100 members. Twenty pastors have served the church over the years. Rev. Randolph Richardson is the current pastor.

Notes From Bittering

by Joan Glatfely Sussman

I am glad to have some leftover pizza in the fridge tonight. I became a big fan of Ledo's Pizza when I was a student in College Park, where Ledo's flagship restaurant was located. It was a favorite for most students.

One of my fondest memories was one late night on the stage of the university theatre, after a long work session, the set designer, my favorite professor, got a Ledo's pizza. That pizza was the best I'd ever eaten. So naturally I was delighted to hear that a Ledo's pizza shop opened in McHenry Plaza. I am not fully happy without a Le-do's pizza in my fridge.

Wednesday night's wind storm was nothing compared to Oklahoma's. Can you imagine baseball-sized hail? Even ping-pong-ball-size is too big. The biggest hail I remember in Bittering was about dime-sized, but even that did considerable damage.

We had a considerable number of downstate guests who took shelter in our barn that Fourth of July. The din of those hail stones was almost unbelievable, as the lightning bolts and the thunder crashed around us.

I don't think Bittering was ever hit by a real tornado, but last year we were so close to the ones that went through Accident and Jennings. That's the downside of spring and early summer, which is peak tornado season.

St. Valentine's Day: Like most holidays it is very good for the economy. Average spending on gifts and dining out is probably $50 to $100. The next holiday is Easter. Don't forget about this Sunday's joint worship service at Zion in Jennings, as that congregation is celebrating its 100th anniversary since joining the Bittering Lutheran Parish.

Pastor Randy and his wife Cindy were very helpful to me this week. The three of us rack up about 20 years of post-graduate education, and it took every bit of our brain power to make my new TV remote work.

I can't believe all the things my daughters can do with their cell phones. The only thing I can do is dial a number. Although I do not like computers, they are an essential tool in modern days, especially for a writer.

Lottie Brennenman, one of 11 children, lost the last living sibling she had. Her oldest brother, William Hardesty of Kitzmiller, died recently. Lottie is nursing a stress-fracture in her foot. Even with the pain, she still keeps moving.

House Guttled By Fire; Coal Furnace Blamed

An overheated coal furnace, that apparently ignited nearby combustibles, was the cause of a fire that destroyed a house at 133 Maffett Lane, off Hutton Road, last Thursday evening.

Volunteers from the Oakland, Terra Alta, Deer Park, Aurora, and Gorman fire departments were summoned to the residence of Stephanie Growden at 6:39 p.m. Heavy smoke and flames were coming from the two-story wood-frame structure upon the arrival of the first units.

Ms. Growden and an unidentified male companion were able to escape without injuries. The house was owned by Don Nemith, Oakland.

According to an Oakland VFD report, the loss was estimated to be $150,000 to the house and another $10,000 to contents.

Some two dozen firefighters responded to the scene and remained there for approximately four hours.

Also responding was the county air cascade unit from the Deep Creek VFC and the Southern Rescue Squad.

IRS Approves Mt. Beulah Group's Non-Profit Status

The Mt. Beulah Restoration Association Inc. received official notice from the Internal Revenue Service last week that it has been designated a non-profit organization, a group spokesperson announced yesterday.

"Any donations made in 2008 will be regarded as tax exempt by the IRS," she said. "The effective date of exemption of our organization is Dec. 19, 2007."

The group began in September of that year and started exploring ways to restore the Mt. Beulah New Germany Methodist Church. Located along Twin Churches Road, the 126-year-old church has not been used by a congregation in more than 30 years.

Several fundraisers were held last year that enabled the association to repair the church's roof and bell tower.

"We are making progress in our effort to save the Mt. Beulah Church," the spokesperson said.

The association's next repair project will most likely be the church's stone

Saturday's high temperature is expected to be a "balmy" 33 degrees, with a chance of snow showers.

Garrett College To Host Women's Workshop Mar. 7

Garrett College will host a workshop titled Second Chances for Women on Saturday, March 7, in the GC Learning Resource Center. The program is designed for area women who may be thinking about returning to college.

According to a spokesperson for the event, Second Chances is designed to help women realize their career dreams even though their education might have been interrupted by work or family responsibilities. The Garrett County Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), along with the Business and Professional Women's Club, Garrett College, and the Women's Civic Club, sponsor the annual program.

"Women attending the workshop will have an opportunity to speak with other women who have resumed their college education later in life," said Marilyn Moors, AAUW president.

The opening panelists for the workshop will be Amy Chesla and Katie Steyer.

Chesla is in her final semester at Garrett College after resuming her college career in her early 40s. She maintains a 4.0 grade point average while pastoring two Methodist churches in the county and managing her

Grantsville Seniors Partner With Warm Up America Found.

Several members of the Grantsville Senior Center worked all fall and winter to knit and crochet the rectangles needed to assemble afghans in partnership with Warm Up America! (WUA!), an organization made up of volunteers who create handmade afghan blankets, clothing, and accessories to help those in need. These items are intended to provide warmth and comfort to people who have lost their homes, fled abusive relationships, or are being cared for in hospices, shelters, hospitals, and nursing homes.

The rectangles were eventually collected and taken to Crafts and Things at the Country Club Mall, Cumberland. There, the rectangles were connected and made into four separate afghans. The afghans were recently presented by the seniors to Regina Bender of the Dove Center.

The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center, aids victims of domestic violence and sexual assault crimes. Bender commended the seniors for their work, and assured them that the center could benefit from the afghans, as many of the children coming to the center have few possessions.

"The senior center is so

Stewart Funeral Home Owner Arrested, Charged With Multiple Counts Of Theft

The owner of Stewart Funeral Home, Bradley Allen Stewart, 60, Oakland, was arrested and charged yesterday with multiple counts each of felony theft, felony theft-scheme, and embezzlement.

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch filed the charges, with an accompanying affidavit that includes details of the crimes. "Specifically, it is alleged that, at various times from November 2005 to September 2008, Stewart entered into pre-need funeral agreements and accepted monies from 27 specified customers," Welch said.

The law authorizing/creating pre-need agreements requires monies to be placed in trust until the customer dies, the funds are returned, or the funds are transferred to another funeral home. In those cases for which Stewart is currently charged, it is alleged that he withdrew cash from the initial deposit of each customer's funds and later depleted in its entirety the account into which all of the customer payments were deposited. The funds paid by the customers named in the criminal information total almost $170,000, according to the state's attorney.

Stewart turned himself in at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and was taken to the Garrett County Jail.

Garrett Chamber Releases Data From Tourism Survey

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently received the first report of the data collected from a yearlong four-season tourism survey of visitors to the county.

"This report covers the fall season, featuring our Autumn Glory Festival," noted Charlie Ross, chamber president/CEO. "With the remaining three reports, we will have the next complete picture and the best marketing infrastructure of any community I know."

Along with providing definitive demographic and seasonal guest information to market more effectively, the information collected from the surveys will be used by the chamber's member businesses to better serve the area's guests.

The chamber hired West Virginia University professors Dr. Steve Selin and Dr. Jinyang Deng and their team of graduate students in the summer of 2008 to create the four-season survey, with help from the chamber's tourism survey committee. The comprehensive survey asks visitors to the county about their vacation habits, including trip planning, trip spending, accommodation types, activities completed, relocation interest, second home usage, and guest comments, among others.

Since last August, the WVU team has conducted the surveys at various high-traffic locations throughout the county with a minimum of 600 surveys conducted per season – a minimum total of 2,400 surveys were completed over the course of one year.

Results show 58.8% of Garrett County visitors were female and 41.2% were male during the months of September through November 2008. A total of 72.1% were adult visitors traveling with at least another adult, while 27.9% traveled with at least one child age 17 or below. The majority of visitors (41.2%) were between the ages of 40 and 54 years old and were married (74.9%). Results showed that 61.1% did not have children in the household, 76.3% had either an undergraduate (41.1%) or graduate degree (35.2%), and were affluent, with 38.1% having a family income over $100,000.

Over half of the fall respondents have visited the

Study Group Says, "No Pay Increase" For Commissioners, Sheriff, Others

The Garrett County Salary Study Commission has recommended that certain local officials not receive pay increases when they take office after the next general election in 2010. The Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved that request during a meeting with the commission this week.

According to a local ordinance established in 1997, a study commission must review the salaries of the county commissioners, judges of the Orphans Court, county sheriff, elected Board of Education members, Board of Election supervisors, and Liquor Control Board members once every four years.

The commission must then present a report to the county commissioners, who have 45 days to consider its recommendations. The commissioners can either accept them as presented or reduce the suggested salaries. The commissioners, however, cannot increase the salary recommendations.

Current Salary Study Commission chair Brooks Hamilton told the commissioners on Tuesday that "no increase in salary is recommended" for any of the officials.

His group did recommended, however, that the Board of Election supervisors receive a $50 per day canvas compensation. Hamilton indicated that given continual changes in the state's election system, the volunteer supervisors would need the compensation.

The county commissioners approved the recommended increase.

Hamilton's group also recommended that the 2013 Salary Study Commission consider increasing the supervisors' current $50 per day stipend for logic and accuracy testing to $100 per day.

Additionally, the commission suggested that the 2013 group consider increasing the sheriff's pay, "based on the opinion that law enforcement administrative and management responsibilities may be comparable to other county government department head compensation."

Hamilton said his commission talked to all the officials for about 30 minutes, except the Board of Education members, who sent a letter in lieu of the interview.

"Some requested [salary] increases, some did not request increases," Hamilton said about the officials.

Vol. #131, Issue #52

He noted that the commission members deliberated the requests immediately after the interviews "while everything was still fresh in our minds."

Hamilton commended his fellow commission members for their service.

"We had active participation from each of the members," he said. "This was a knowledgeable group that was interested in how our county operates."

In addition to Hamilton, the other members of the 2009 Salary Study Commission are Bob Browning, Chamber of Commerce; Henrietta Lease, League of Women Voters; James Stanton, Democratic Committee; Sheila O'Neil, Republican Committee; Todd Dyche, teacher/volunteer firefighter; and Gene Flinn, parent/education representative. Hamilton is a member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Every four years, the county commissioners select a group of local residents, generally from a wide range of backgrounds, to sit on the study commission. All the members are unpaid volunteers.

In the past, the commission also reviewed the pay of the Garrett County state's attorney. But the 2005 Salary Study Commission recommended that the state's attorney salary be based on 80 percent of the sitting district court judge's salary.

"This assignment of a salary is consistent with a number of other counties, and it makes sense," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

Del. Wendell Beitzel and Sen. George Edwards introduced legislation in this year's General Assembly session, that pertains to the state's attorney salary and the local ordinance.

Pagenhardt said the pro-

WINTERFEST OFFERS UP A GOOD TIME – The Oakland Main Street WinterFest event last weekend was deemed quite a success, according to Arlene Murray, Main Street manager, who reported an estimated 2,500 people came into town for the mid-winter event. The weather was pleasant for the events Saturday, which included multiple ice-carving demonstrations by the Frozen Assets Ice Carving Company, as well as games and activities, such as this unique slide made of ice. Children stood in line to slide down the frozen incline, and seemed to enjoy it entirely. They also stood in line for a long time to have their names carved into blocks of ice, pictured at right. There was frozen bowling behind the gazebo (see more pictures on page A-18), and food vendors were on hand all day. Sleigh rides were given free of charge by the Pleasant Valley Dream Rides, and children could have their picture taken on a frozen throne located along Second Street. Murray said the increase of participation and crowds this year bodes well for next year. "We think it will just grow and grow," she said. THIS HISTORIC ROADSIDE MARKER can be found about one mile off U.S. Rt. 219 at Maryland's highest point, Hoyer Crest. The peak was named in honor of the Garrett County Historical Society's "founding father," Capt. Charles E. Hoyer. The Sang Run native served in the Philippines during the Spanish American War and WWI, and taught school in Maryland, the Philippines, and California. Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel have introduced legislation in this year's Maryland General Assembly session to "officially designate" Hoyer Crest as the state's highest peak. See story. Pictured at right is Hoyer in Manila, Philippines, 1901. Photos courtesy of the GC Historical Society.

Hoyer Crest May Finally Become Maryland's Official Highest Point

by Renee Shreve
Hoyer Crest may soon get Maryland's "seal of approval." For nearly 60 years, maps have shown the local landmark as being the state's highest peak. But, apparently, that's not an official opinion.

So, Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel have introduced legislation in this year's Maryland General Assembly session that would "officially designate" the 3,360-foot peak as the highest point.

"Maryland has a lot of symbols," Edwards said, "and this [legislation] puts Hoyer Crest into that category."

He added, however, that most people don't know about the site.

"Most just think of Backbone Mountain as being the highest point in Maryland, but that's not correct," the senator said.

Hoyer Crest is actually located on the Backbone Mountain ridge about 15 miles south of Oakland near the West Virginia border. Thousands of acres in that area, including the crest, are owned by Western Pocahontas Properties of Huntington, W.Va., according to the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Western Pocahontas is a subsidiary of Natural Resource Partners, a Texas-based company that leases its land to coal mining operations. According to the national organization Friends of the Mountains, Natural Resource Partners has "engaged in mountaintop coal mining removal."

"The Garrett County Historical Society would like to see Hoyer Crest preserved and protected," said president Bob Boal.

Several years ago, he said, the Historical Society sent a letter to Western Pocahontas, requesting it donate Hoyer Crest after the company's coal leases expire.

"They sent back a very positive reply, saying they would take our request under consideration," Boal said. But he hasn't heard anything from the company since then.

Garrett County commissioner/society member Ernie Gregg said he would like to see the crest conveyed to a public entity, such as the county government, which could then lease the site to the Historical Society.

Edwards said Garrett County would not get anything specific out of his bill. But it may lead to something that would make the crest more accessible to visitors. He noted that only a few peaks are located on private property. For example, Kentucky's high point is owned by the Penn Valley Coal Company and requires that visitors sign a liability waiver.

To respect homeowners on the Maryland side of Backbone, it's recommended that visitors access Hoyer Crest from West Virginia's Monongahela National Forest. Persons can park along Rt. 219 and hike to the site via a one-mile-plus trail that's been blazed by the Hikepointers Club.

This national nonprofit group is "dedicated to education, support, and conservation of the highest point in each of the 50 states."

Jason B. Rush Among "Green Bag" Nominees

A local resident is among Gov. Martin O'Malley's list of 167 "green bag" nominations for appointment and reappointment to state boards and commissions. The governor submitted his list to the Maryland Senate last Friday.

Jason B. Rush, McHenry, has been nominated for appointment as a member of the Garrett College board of trustees. He is director of financial services for First United Bank & Trust Inc. and is treasurer of Rush Services Inc.

Rush is also active in the community, serving on several county boards, including the Garrett County Agriculture Fair Inc., the Garrett County Community Action Committee, and the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation.

He received a bachelor of science degree from Frostburg State University. "I am especially proud to make a number of appointments to fill key leadership positions in our State Board of Education, the University System Board of Regents, and the community colleges' boards of trustees to continue the progress we have made in building the No. 1 ranked school system in America, and making college more affordable for our families," O'Malley said.

The term "green bag" derives from the historical green satchel that is used

Hoye Crest

Crest 32nd in height and 22nd in climbing difficulty among the nation's 50 peaks. The Highpointers held their 15th annual convention in Garrett County in July 2001 and visited Hoye Crest.

The site is named in honor of Capt. Charles E. Hoye, "founding father" of the Garrett County Historical Society.

"[Hoye] was a teacher, student, soldier, historian, and humanitarian," The Glades Star (Dec. 31, 1951) reported.

A descendant of Garrett County pioneers, Hoye was born on Oct. 21, 1876, in Sang Run. He graduated from the Maryland State Normal School (now called Towson University) in 1896 and taught school before joining the Army during the Spanish-American War.

Hoye was deployed to the Philippines in 1898 as a sergeant in the 27th U.S. Volunteer Infantry. He was discharged in 1901, but decided to stay in Manila to teach school. He later became the Philippine Bureau of Education's superintendent of schools and retired in 1925.

Hoye broke his tenure for a period of time during WWI, however, when he served with the 7th Regiment, Philippine Guard. He was promoted to the rank of captain.

After returning stateside, Hoye taught school in Los Angeles County, Calif., for five years before moving back home.

"Almost immediately after he got here, he began to research the history of the Hoye family," The Glades Star (March 2003) reported. "When this project was completed, he began on the history of other families in Garrett County, publishing the results of his research in local newspapers."

Hoye's enthusiasm for history and genealogy eventually led to the official formation of the Garrett County Historical Society on Jan. 27, 1941.

"Fired by some of Captain Hoye's keen interest,

Sen. Neil Fraley read a document from Maryland governor Theodore McKel-den, proclaiming the spot Hoye Crest, the highest point in the state.

Ruth Hoye unveiled a small wooden plaque tacked to a tree that read "Hoye Crest." Paul Hinebaugh, a relative of the captain, had made the temporary sign.

The dedication ceremony included remarks from R. Bowen Hardesty, county superintendent of schools; George Radcliffe, president of the Maryland Historical Trust; and Robert Garrett, president of the Society for the Preservation of Antiquities.

"Color movies of the group were taken to preserve the event for the society's historical records," The Glades Star reported.

Nearly eight years later, the Maryland Historical Society furnished a permanent roadside marker. On June 1, 1960, Upole, Naylor, Dennis Rasche, Philip Ferguson, and George Moon loaded the sign, a nine-foot iron pole, bags of concrete, cans of water, and tools into a Jeep.

"The approach to the peak in Mr. Upole's heavily laden Jeep was difficult," The Glades Star stated. "Long abandoned logging trails were overgrown with saplings, some being two inches in diameter. These the Jeep bore down easily, except on a few stretches where the ascent was very steep and the trail crooked."

But a winch and steel cable on the front of the Jeep were used and the vehicle was brought within 300 feet of the crest. The men unloaded their supplies and erected the marker, which stands today.

The Highpointers have also furnished a picnic table, a camera stand, and a mailbox, where visitors can find a guest book to sign and certificates to take with them to prove they made it to the summit.

The Senate Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee will hold a public hearing for Edwards' bill, SB 294, on Tuesday, March 3, at 1 p.m. Edwards said he does not anticipate any opposition to the Hoye Crest legislation. But one never knows when it comes to politics.

Beitzel's companion bill, HB 335, has been assigned to the House Health and Government Operations Committee. A hearing hasn't been scheduled yet.

Should the local lawmakers' bills be approved by the General Assembly and governor, it will finally be official on Oct. 1: Hoye Crest is the highest point in Maryland.

OB Subsidy A Must...

It was two years ago that the Maryland legislature enacted a subsidy bill which helped make the purchase of medical malpractice coverage by Garrett County's four family practitioners who provide obstetrics services somewhat affordable. This bill was sparked when the insurance company Med Mutual decided that family physicians who deliver babies should have to pay the same premium that ob/gyn docs must pay, which is an unaffordable amount for our local physicians.

Even after the subsidy, these physicians still pay about three times the med-mal premium they would pay if they did not provide obstetrics, but they do so because they recognize this as a true public health issue and essential community service. It would be an absolute tragedy if Garrett County Memorial Hospital were forced to abandon its obstetric services — endangering the lives of every expectant mother and newborn in the county and surrounding areas of West Virginia — which is precisely what would have happened without this subsidy. The bill passed in 2007 with a unanimous vote in both houses; however, the law has a sunset provision which will essentially end the subsidy in December of this year.

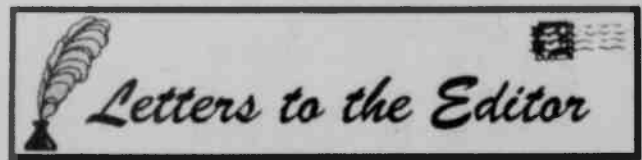

To put this in real numbers, the current Med Mutual malpractice insurance premium for a family physician not providing obstetrics is $12,268 per year. The rate for physicians who do provide obstetrics is a staggering $100,598 per year. The subsidy drops that figure to about $35,000.

Senator George Edwards and Delegate Wendell Beitzel have introduced legislation in the current session (SB 774 and HB 815) which would make the previous bill's subsidy a permanent one. While it seems unfathomable that the legislature would turn its back on Garrett County by rejecting the bill, the state's poor financial health definitely raises some concerns, as the subsidy will be more difficult to fund.

Dr. Sotiere Savopoulos, representing the four local family physician/ob docs, and GCMH president Don Battista testified at a hearing on the senate bill yesterday in Annapolis. Others pushing to see the measure passed are the Garrett County commissioners, Garrett County health officer Rodney Glatfelter, and the Maryland Hospital Association. We can all do our part, however, by going online and voicing our own strong support of this measure. Noted sways elected officials any more than voluminous input from constituents.

While we are cautiously confident about the passage of this legislation, Battista noted that there are groups aligned against this sort of "special" or unique subsidy and/or have principle issues with the state paying insurance companies for rates they believe are too high in the first place. So we strongly urge our readers to go online right now and send an e-mail. They should be directed to the following House and Senate committee chairpersons' addresses: Dereck.Davis@house.state.md.us, Peter.Hammen@house.state.md.us, and ThomasMcLain.Middleton@senate.state.md.us. All one needs to type is something like: "Please, please support HB 815 and SB 774!"

This will take only a few minutes, and it could make such a positive difference in the future of maternity health care in Garrett County.

To the Editor:

I would like to take a moment to talk about the Family-Centered Maternity Suite at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Over the past several years we have been fighting to continue to maintain this service for our community and service area. The malpractice issue for our delivering physicians has remained a difficult and elusive problem to solve. Because of the rapidly inflating medical malpractice fees, without the malpractice subsidy, passed during the 2007 legislative session, our physicians will not be able to continue to practice obstetrics at GCMH.

The OB family practice physicians in our area sacrifice a great deal of their personal time for our community. Each of the two practices provide around-the-clock care to assure that we have two physicians available at all times. Without the support of their families they would not be here. We also have a dedicated hospital staff that provides individualized, quality care to each family who enters our unit. We would not be able to provide that level of quality care at GCMH without the dedicated and well-trained physicians and staff.

I cannot imagine our families traveling one hour or more to obtain obstetrical care. I remember a mother telling me, "If you were not here, I would not have my baby alive today," and this is the thing that makes it difficult. When we hear our patients make these types of comments it makes the thought of ever losing OB all the more difficult. I know that the added distance often coupled with adverse weather conditions make the trip to other hospitals difficult and dangerous for both mother and baby. It could very well make the difference between life and death.

I hope that those with the ability to make Senate Bill 774 and House Bill 815 pass do so. We believe the ability to provide obstetric service is essential to our community. Without the permanent subsidy, Garrett County and surrounding areas will no longer have to worry about access to obstetrical services close to home.

Thank you,
Charlene Bennett
Director, GCMH Family-Centered Maternity Suite

To the Editor:

I wanted to report an act above and beyond by a member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Last weekend, my 17-year-old son got caught in an ice storm on the top of the mountain after snowboarding at Wisp. He could not get down from the mountain the way he went up. He tried another route and got lost. It was extremely treacherous. He was scared to death and we were worried to death.

He had the good fortune of ending up at Streams and Dreams. The Hershfelds took him in for the night, assured us he was in a safe spot, and fed him breakfast in the morning.

I can't say enough about what this meant to us. It is wonderful to know there are folks in Garrett County who will look out for a stranger. We were drawn to Garrett County because of the lake and ski resort and because we have a 17-year-old with those interests, but our long-term interest is because of the diversity offered by the areas of quiet nature and the small-town feel. This is what will keep us coming back after our son grows up and moves on, and this is what we found when the Hershfelds helped our son. I hope that Streams and Dreams thrives and continues to provide the diversity offered by the area as Garrett County grows.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Senator George Edwards and Delegate Wendell Beitzel requested that it appear in this column.

Senator Edwards and Delegate Beitzel:

As you probably know, the Garrett County commissioners will not support the repeal bills, while the Allegany County commissioners will give their support. So, here we are right back where we started two years ago, with the Garrett County commissioners refusing to do anything at the local level, and not supporting a return to PSC and state oversight and comprehensive review.

And I might add, both of you capitulating to the commissioners by amending HB 604 and SB 584 in their behalf. Why give in to their parochial interests and amend the bill? Once again, absolutely no leadership at the local level in Garrett County to protect the citizens, and if your reasonable package of legislative proposals are unsuccessful, then nothing has changed at all.

The Allegany County commissioners and their planning and zoning commission, while slow in getting started, decided to do the right thing and look out for their citizens, while the Garrett County commissioners again turned their backs and offer no protection whatsoever. We've all been had — again.

Nevertheless, I will be in Annapolis on Thursday to support your efforts.

Regards,
John Bambacus

To the Editor:

A few days ago, a real estate appraiser in Texas maintained that properties hosting massive wind projects are likely to be devalued 37%; properties a quarter to a half mile away from them will typically experience a value reduction of 26%. Those within 1.8 miles would see a 25% drop.

Unless something is done soon to protect people and their property, Garrett County, much of Allegany County, and a large portion of Mineral County in West Virginia will be festooned with hundreds of wind turbines, each larger than any building in Baltimore, since the federal government seems hell-bent on providing wind LLCs with billions in tax dollars to do just this.

The county's commissioners, who are claiming, falsely, they can do nothing about this sort of development without the legal force of countywide zoning, are playing a game of footsie with our elected state representatives on this issue. They have sought to amend two good bills introduced by Senator Edwards and Delegate Beitzel that would restore to the PSC oversight review and provide county government with authority to regulate wind development. Such amendment, however, amounts to watering down the legislation so that nothing changes.

In effect, Garrett's commissioners continue to posture, pretending they're concerned about conserving our natural beauty and protecting people and property from this mess, when in reality, they're giving away the store to the forces of ignorance and greed — in ways that will transform the visual character of the region for generations. And drop property values even further.

In truth, our commissioners know the cost of very little and the value of nothing, seeking profit from scraps of the world even at the loss of the county's soul.

To the Editor:

The Maryland State Police (MSP) Aviation Command's helicopter program is a statewide multi-mission service performed by troopers and civilian employees working for the citizens of Maryland. The medevac mission has made the program a worldwide model and has supported the state's EMS program (also a worldwide model) since its inception in 1970.

However, other missions performed by the MSP helicopter program (search and rescue, law enforcement, homeland security) are just as important, as was recently illustrated by the rescue basket hoisting of a mother and daughter from a car flooded by raging waters in Bethesda. These essential, and often life-saving, missions are too diverse to fully discuss in this letter. But the multi-mission role of MSP helicopters in Maryland's public safety efforts is, without question, critically important! Maryland citizens are well served by this "full package" of services offered by the MSP helicopters.

So there you have it! Maryland has some of the very finest hospitals and doctors in the world. The MSP helicopter program enables access to that care and can rescue victims from a variety of predicaments on both land and water. In addition, the helicopters perform an endless variety of missions in support to law enforcement and fire/rescue departments throughout the state.

Some state political leaders want to "privatize" or fragment the helicopter program by eliminating the multi-mission capabilities of state police helicopters. What state legislator can tell his or her constituents that this program is a waste? Or, that their local helicopter base is going to be closed or only able to offer limited services? What state official can say a helicopter operated by a private corporation will be able to provide the comprehensive emergency services currently available to the citizens of Maryland from the MSP helicopters?

The Maryland State Police helicopter program is waiting for a rescue. State Senators E.J. Pipkin and John Astle have sponsored legislation to destroy the multi-mission capabilities of the state police helicopters. The legislation would split the law enforcement and rescue abilities from the MSP medevac helicopters and would be the end of Maryland's multi-mission public safety helicopter program.

Your readers may voice support for the program by telling their legislators to "rescue the state police helicopter program!" Their telephone number is 1-800-492-7122.

Additionally, 19.1% and 9.0% reported having visited the county two to five times and six to 10 times, respectively. The majority of visitors (73.3%) stayed at least one night in the county, while the remaining (26.67%) made day trips or passed through the county en route to other places.

Of those who stayed overnight, 17.1% stayed at their second home, 12.6% stayed at a vacation rental home, 15.8% stayed with friends/family, 14.5% stayed in a hotel/motel, 5.4% stayed in a cabin, and 4.1% stayed in a bed and breakfast. The most popular activities were dining out (60.7%), hiking (35.7%), cooking in (31.1%), photography (26.6%), and visiting Swallow Falls State Park (24%).

The average group size was 3.9 people. An average of eight people stayed at vacation rental homes, the largest group size for all accommodation types, — 4.6 people stayed at a cabin, 3.7 stayed with friends/family, and 3.6 stayed with a second home owner. Bed and breakfasts had the smallest group size at 2.3 people and day-trippers had an average of 2.8 people.

Visitors staying in vacation rental homes planned their trips to Garrett County 92 days in advance, followed by cabins (83 days in advance), short-term RV/camping ground (52 days in advance), staying with friends/family (38.8 days), bed and breakfast (38.7 days), hotel/motel (35.2 days), and 30.9 days ahead of time for day-trippers; 44.3% of visitors planned their trips less than two weeks ahead of time, and 7.7% of respondents made their plans to travel to the county the same day.

The WVU graduate students began the surveys in August 2008. The information collected during that time will be combined with the survey data to be collected in June and July 2009. The winter surveys began in December 2008 and will continue throughout February at various high-traffic locations around Garrett County. The spring surveys will be conducted March 2009 through May 2009.

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

CREDIT WORTHINESS
(Fifth in a series)
by William Welch

In week four we looked at acting on basic budget. A basic budget is listing your income sources in a period, and then listing what you spend in order of need, then subtracting your total expenses from your total income. What is left is your bottom line, and your bottom line tells you how well you are managing your money. Last week we also looked at giving something up to save for something more important.

Some important purchases, like cars, can be made using credit. Credit is not free. Credit has a number of costs including transaction fees, interest, and sometimes penalties. You want to see a financial professional before using credit, but for general purposes you need to know that credit isn't free and that your ability to get credit depends on your "credit worthiness," which is most determined by your "credit score."

The most common credit score is the FICO score. Scores run between 300 (bad credit) and 850 (excellent credit). What goes into your credit score are payment history (35%), debts owed compared to credit limits (30%), length of credit history (15%), recent credit transactions (10%), and types of credit used (10%). You can see that missing a payment hurts your score (35%) and owing amounts close to your limits (30%) adds up to 65% of your score. People who pay late and carry large credit card balances are poor risks and will have low credit scores.

You can get your credit score free once a year from each credit-reporting agency by going online to AnnualCreditReport.com. Be careful of other sources, as most of the "free" promises have strings.

Next week we will look at credit some more. Meanwhile, your bank has more information on credit, as does the library, and there are online resources for learning about credit. As always, be careful online.

Rev. Matthews Honored For Service

The members of the chaplaincy program at Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently honored Donald Matthews for his nearly 50 years of service to the facility. The honoree is pictured above, at right, with Father Don Parson, who presented Matthews with a certificate of appreciation. He is holding the plaque that will soon be hung at GCMH to honor all the Chaplains of the Year.

Matthews became involved with the chaplaincy program in its infancy around 1960. The Mountain Top Ministerium had just been organized, and members agreed to back a hospital chaplaincy program. At that time there were eight to 10 ministers who would take turns preaching at the hospital. Matthews said the program is better accepted now than in the early years.

Matthews, who is a member of the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, is the fourth hospital chaplain to be honored at an annual recognition reception. The plaque noted above will be placed near the hospital chapel, located on the third floor.

"Don Matthews has been a faithful chaplain and pastor to many patients since the beginning of the hospital's ministry program," said Rev. Randy Nairn, who heads up the program. "I am thankful for all of the hospital chaplains at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, as well as the support of the hospital staff for our ministry to the sick."

The program now involves nearly 30 members representing most local denominations, and continues to be backed by the Mountain Top Ministerium.

The births of two babies were announced this week, both boys.

A son, Bryan Jesse, was born to Mark and Karen (Peachey) Swartzentruber, Oakland, on Feb. 11 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A son was born to Chad and Tammy (Cropp) Fridley, Mt. Storm, W. Va., on Feb. 20 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Bad Behavior Could Lead To Tax Credit Denial

By Erika Woodward
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS - Parents better hope Rover doesn't eat Johnny's homework, because they could lose little Johnny's tax credit if a bill heard in the House Tuesday becomes law.

Advocates and teachers frustrated by unruly classroom behavior championed the bill, which would prevent parents from claiming their child as a dependent for Maryland income tax purposes if the child failed to meet minimum homework requirements, was unlawfully absent for 20 percent of the year or was suspended for disrespect, insubordination or classroom disruption.

Maryland's child tax credit is worth up to $325 a year, depending on income.

Teachers who've ducked flying trash cans, dodged students' spit, and been cut by curse words told the Ways and Means Committee it's time parents took a hit in their wallets for their children who refuse to follow rules.

"I've been called a bald-headed 'B' this year," said Theresa Mitchell Dudley, a middle school teacher in Prince George's County, before volunteering to describe for any confused committee member what four letters followed the 'B'.

The name-caller was suspended for five days. But Dudley said suspension is not a harsh enough punishment, especially if the assailant is a repeat offender.

Michelle Cormier, a teacher at an alternative school in Howard County, said she was physically assaulted by a 17-year-old student.

"If she had done this in the 7-Eleven in June, she would have been in jail," said Cormier.

Her assailant was not suspended, but if the bill were enacted, at least the assailant's parents might have been arrested by the loss of a tax write-off.

Still Delegate Gerron Levi, D-Prince George's, a sponsor of the bill, said it's not about the money. In fact, she hopes every parent in the state can continue to claim their children as dependents as long as they continue to live off their parents' money - or as long as the law allows - which ever comes first.

WHERE IS GARRETT COUNTY'S "BIG TREE?" Manager John Bennett, Maryland Big Tree Program (MBTP), is seeking nominations for Garrett County's biggest tree. "We have a $500 grant from the Chesapeake Bay Trust to produce a county-specific big tree brochure for each of Maryland's 24 subdivisions," Bennett said. "Most of the brochures are completed, but we are having trouble finding a volunteer and/or suitable tree for several counties, including Garrett." Pictured is Washington County's "Antietam Kentucky Coffeetree." Managed by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards, MBTP is an effort to measure and catalog the largest trees of each species within the state. Nomination forms, qualification information, and measurement guidelines are available through the Cecil County Forestry Board web site: ccclfb.sailorsite.net. For electronic nomination forms or further information, persons may contact Bennett at 410-287-5980 or mdbigtreeprogram@aol.com. Forms are to be mailed to Maryland Big Tree Program, P.O. Box 328, North East, MD 21901. "We need a photo of a 'big tree,' as photogenic as possible, and some information about that tree so we can write the text for the [brochure]," Bennett added. "If the tree is privately owned, we also need written permission from the owner."

"The goal is not for the bill to collect any money ... it's to bring the families and communities in and engage them early," she said, saying that parents would keep the tax credit if they attended a conference at the school, completed a community resource program, or won in appeal to the county or state board.

While many committee members expressed their

Millions In NRCS Conservation Funds Now Available For Maryland Farmers

Maryland received approximately $29 million in financial assistance funds through the 2008 Farm Bill to help the state's farmers and non-industrial private forest lands owners install conservation practices on their land. Although the final program rules for the conservation programs in the 2008 Farm Bill are still being developed at the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) national headquarters, now is the time for farmers to come into their local USDA Service Center to seek technical and financial assistance, according to a spokesperson for the agency. Maryland's farmers should submit applications now for participation in conservation programs this year.

Farmers are advised to contact the NRCS or Soil Conservation District staff to begin the process of identifying natural resource concerns on their land and targeting conservation practices to resolve those concerns. There are a variety of USDA conservation programs that focus on different natural resource areas of concern. Farmers should be ready to discuss their operation and resource concerns with field office staff, and then NRCS staff can determine which Farm Bill conservation program can be used to best meet the resource needs.

Natural resource concerns can be addressed by implementing conservation practices that include nutrient management, irrigation water management, animal waste storage facility, heavy use area protection, water control structure, wetland creation and restoration, invasive species control, and creation and management of upland wildlife habitat and pollinator habitat.

NRCS Maryland continuously accepts enrollment applications for all of its conservation programs. The service is planning four funding cycles to evaluate applications for fiscal year 2009 funds. Program applications are ranked to match funds to applications that carry the highest environmental benefits. NRCS will continue to evaluate program applications on a monthly basis to determine program eligibility until fiscal year 2009 funds are exhausted.

The end of the application period in the first funding cycle is April 24. All applications received by this date will be ranked and considered for funding. Additional funding cycles are planned with applications being ranked on May 22, June 26, and July 31.

Conservation programs funded and available now through the 2008 Farm Bill include the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP), the Agricultural Management Assistance Program (AMA), the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Initiative (CBWI), the Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP), and the Grasslands Reserve Program (GRP).

The spokesperson said that farmers should begin the planning and application process now, so that when the program rules are finalized, they will have their application materials ready for evaluation and if approved, the applications can be quickly funded. Once the conservation practices have been implemented and bills submitted to NRCS, farmers can expect direct deposit payment of the financial assistance funds in a prompt manner. This quick reimbursement will make it easier for farmers to pay for the cost of installation of conservation practices.

The location of USDA Service Centers and information on conservation programs and application requirements is available on the NRCS Maryland home page at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov.

Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
425 E. Main St., Suite 420, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793

USDA EXTENDS COMMENT PERIOD FOR REGULATION ON PAYMENT LIMITATIONS, PAYMENT ELIGIBILITY

Eric McCartney, executive director for the USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Preston County, announced that following Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack's announcement that the comment period for the regulation defining actively engaged participation in a farming operation has been extended for an additional 60 days, FSA is seeking a diverse range of comments from different areas of the United States and farming communities.

With this extension, the public may continue to submit comments until April 6. The extension document is available at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/FSA/federalNotices?are=home&subject=la&topic=frd-i>.

The regulation, published December 29, invited comments on the interim rule for implementation of key eligibility requirements for many FSA and Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) programs. The regulations were revised as mandated by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (2008 Farm Bill) to make changes in payment eligibility, payment attribution, maximum income limits, and maximum dollar benefit amounts for participants in CCC-funded programs. In addition, certain provisions were incorporated that are discretionary.

The actively engaged provision requires that individuals and entities must be "actively engaged in farming" with respect to a farming operation in order to be eligible for specified payments and benefits. To be "actively engaged in farming," the individual or entity must make significant contributions to the farming operation of (1) capital, equipment, land, or a combination; and (2) personal labor or active personal management, or a combination.

Under rules in effect since 1988, not every member of an entity is required to contribute active personal labor or management. The interim rule requires each partner, stockholder, or member with an ownership interest to make a contribution of active personal labor or active personal management. The contribution must be regular and substantial, and documented as well as separate and distinct from any other member's contribution. The rule limits the ability of passive stockholders to continue to realize benefits from the entity.

The substantive rule changes make the requirement for adding new persons to a farming operation more restrictive. The addition of a person to an existing farming operation can be met through an increase of 20 percent of base acres to the operation; previously the requirement was an increase of 20 percent in cropland.

DAIRY PRICES TO TRIGGER MILC PAYMENTS
McCartney also announced today that because of low milk prices FSA will be making payments in April to producers through the FSA's Milk Income Loss Contract, or MILC, program. The 2008 Farm Bill made changes to the MILC program, most notably the addition of a dairy feed ration cost adjustment, in addition to changes to the payment rate and modifications to the per-operation poundage limit, depending on when the milk is produced.

"We will be making MILC payments as a result of the low prices, but because of the changes to the program ordered in the 2008 Farm Bill, the payments may be higher but will take a bit longer to gather the required data before payments can be made," McCartney explained.

FSA makes MILC payments on a monthly basis when the Boston Class I milk price falls below $16.94 per hundredweight (cwt) as adjusted for feed costs. The monthly Boston price is posted online at: http://www.fmmone.com/Northeast\_Order\_Prices/NE\_Prices\_mainnew.htm#Advance. FSA determines the per hundredweight payment rate for the applicable month by subtracting the Boston Class I price for that month from the $16.94 MILC payment trigger price as adjusted for feed costs, and multiplying the difference by 45 percent. The payment factor of 45 percent will decline to 34 percent on September 1, 2012.

The MILC payment trigger price of $16.94 is adjusted upward when the National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost for a month is greater than $7.35 per cwt. This rate will change to $9.50 on September 1, 2012.

The dairy feed ration cost is calculated each month from the price of feed ingredients used to create a 16 percent protein dairy feed as reported by the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

"While the dairy feed ration cost adjustment benefits producers when feed costs are high, it also means we must wait until that month's National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost is known before the MILC payment rate can be calculated," explained McCartney. "For example, while the Boston Class I price for February is $13.97 and below $16.94, we still won't know the actual MILC payment rate until late March when we receive final figures from NASS for determining the National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost. That means the MILC payment for February cannot be made until April."

FSA issues payments not later than 60 calendar days after FSA receives production evidence for the applicable month or the entire month's National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost is posted for the applicable month, whichever is later.

FSA makes payments on up to the maximum eligible pounds of milk produced and marketed by each operation per fiscal year. The annual maximum eligible pound limit per dairy operation is 2,985,000 pounds per fiscal year. The amount drops to 2.4 million pounds per fiscal year on September 1, 2012.

MILC participants must select a month for which FSA will begin issuing payments for each fiscal year. Starting with the dairy operation's selected month, FSA will issue MILC payments based on that month's milk production and each consecutive month's production until the operation reaches the production cap or the fiscal year ends.

When dairy producers sign up for the MILC program they may select the current month as their start month. For subsequent years or if they wish to change a previously selected start month, the producer must select a start month prior to the 14th of the month for which he wants to receive payments and before the selected month's Boston Class I milk price is announced to the public. Producers may contact their local FSA office to sign up for the MILC program.

The 2008 Farm Bill also excludes producers whose non-farm average adjusted gross income (AGI) exceeds $500,000 from receiving MILC payments. Producers will have to sign an AGI statement when signing up for the program. More information about the MILC program can be found on the FSA website <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>.

KEEP THE HORSE BEFORE THE CART

While many buyers are aware that a mortgage pre-approval letter increases their buying confidence and power, most may not understand exactly why pre-approval is so important. Why should you jump through the application hoops before even beginning your home search?

First, you'll know exactly how much loan you can afford, making your initial home search much easier. Why waste your time looking at homes either out of your reach or well below your financial grasp?

Second, pre-approved buyers stand on solid negotiating ground with sellers. Sellers working with well-qualified buyers are more likely to accept the offer and less likely to stall on terms and conditions.

Notice that the topic of this column is "pre-approval," and not "pre-qualification." What's the difference? Pre-qualification is easy - you provide basic information to a lender, and in a few short minutes, you have an answer. Pre-approval requires strict verification of documentation relating to your employment, credit history, sources of income, etc. It takes more time, but is more accurate and carries more weight.

Understand that pre-approval is not binding, and is still subject to a satisfactory appraisal on the prospective purchase. If your financial situation changes, interest rates rise or fall, or the deadline passes, a recalculation will be necessary, but a little legwork now will pay off handsomely as you approach the finish line on your contract. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Grantsville Center To Host Watercolor Painting Course

Garrett College will offer a watercolor painting course on Fridays, March 27 and April 3, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center.

For the first-time watercolor painter, including experienced painters new to watercolor, there will be a discussion of materials and tips on how to use them most effectively.

For more experienced watercolor painter, there will be information about using different materials, "loosening up through relaxation," developing an individual style, gathering sources for new paintings, building a painting with solid design, and taking personal art public.

For the very experienced watercolor painter, there will be opportunities to share ideas, points of view, creative approaches, and more.

Some painting time will be focused on a single subject but with the interpretation and content left to the individual painter.

"This is one of the more important phases of the workshop, as individual approaches are exposed and shared as a learning experience," said a college spokesperson.

For all, there will be opportunities for painting as a group but with individual choice of subject matter and tips for improvement.

Robert Yonke will instruct the course. Yonke works out of his home studios, one in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the other in Garrett County.

"His watercolors reflect his love of music, the mountains, and the outdoors," said the spokesperson. "Bob's award winning paintings have been shown in many galleries throughout the region."

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may call the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

W.Va. Artist Concludes Trip To Middle East

Irene Evans, an artist from Thomas, W.Va., recently completed a tour of the Middle East, sponsored by the United States Department of State, and hosted by various U.S. embassies and consulates.

Evans toured Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, and Kuwait, giving performances of African American folk tales, poetry, and a one-woman show about the life of Harriett Tubman as part of the celebrations for Black History Month.

"It was an honor to be selected by the State Department to represent the voices of black America in a part of the world that is so keen to hear the stories and understand the culture and history of our great nation," said Evans. "I was able to perform for school groups and university students, and they were very receptive to the shows, which were each followed by question and answer sessions. The people who hosted me were gracious and opened their hearts to the stories that I was able to share with them."

The tour took Evans to the cities of Jeddah, Riyadh, Dammam, Bahrain City, and Kuwait City, and provided opportunities for Middle Eastern audiences to experience her performances. She has performed for local schools and communities in Tucker and Preston counties, touring across West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, and the Appalachian Mountain region.

Evans will travel to Columbia in March, hosted by the U.S. Embassy, as a part of celebrations for Women's History Month. The tour will take her to Bogota, Medellin, and Cali, where she will give performances as well as workshops to local schools, teachers, and theater groups.

For more information about the tours or to arrange an interview with Evans, persons may e-mail duke@bronitskyandassociates.com. For more information about Evans and her performances, persons may visit the web sites <http://www.bronitskyandassociates.com/evans.htm> or www.vfte.org.

BARBIE AND RUTH: THE STORY OF THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS DOLL AND THE WOMAN WHO CREATED HER

by Robin Gerber

C. 2009, Collins Business, $24.95, 278 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

When you were a kid, danger lurked everywhere. It seemed like there was always another bad guy waiting to create chaos, and only you could save the world from complete destruction by using your cap gun or chemistry set. Being a spy, cowboy, or playground warrior was tough work for a kid.

And if world violence weren't imminent, the danger was in not having enough clothes for baby or Barbie. Being a grade-school "mom" and fashionista wasn't easy, either.

So what was your favorite toy when you were a kid? For millions of boomers, no home was complete without a bevy of Barbies. But if her creator had listened to advisors, Barbie Millicent Roberts might never have existed. Read more in the new book Barbie and Ruth by Robin Gerber.

Ruthie Mosko was a go-getter, maybe because she was the tenth child of immigrants who came from Poland in the early 1900s to hammer out a new life for themselves in America. Maybe it was because Ruth was raised by an elder sister who doted on her and set high expectations. Either way, Ruth was assertive and self-assured by the time she met Elliot Handler at a carnival dance.

Elliot was a quiet, introspective artist known for his vision, creativity, and skillful hands. Soon after they were wed in 1938, Ruth offered to sell Elliot's products. It was a good marriage in both senses: Ruth and Elliot were deeply in love, and Ruth's aggressive, fearless sales tactics offset Elliot's reluctance to step into the limelight.

By the end of World War II, Mattel (named because an early partner's name, Matt, fit nicely with Elliot's) had a popular line of musical toys, including a jack-in-the-box and a crank-music ukulele. Later, the company was a pioneer in advertising to children - a market that nobody thought viable - on a burgeoning medium called television. And that advertising included Barbie.

Nobody except Ruth Handler thought there was a market for a little girl's toy that looked like a big girl. Everybody said the toy would flop, but research was conducted, consultants gave advice, and the doll was pushed through. Now, 50 years later, a Barbie doll is purchased every three seconds.

Part biography, part business, part history, part pop-culture, Barbie and Ruth is one of those books you just don't want to put down. It's a story of American culture, particularly of the type that we baby boomers made and thrived upon, and of a corporation born, nurtured, and lost by those who created it.

Author Robin Gerber doggedly researched the life of Ruth Handler, an unconventional, "bawdy and outrageous," ambitious woman who ignored social mores to become successful at a time when women were largely subservient to men. In the process, as Gerber relates, Handler set various marketing precedents and broke through a "concrete ceiling." Sadly, at the same time, her children paid the price.

If you remember your first Barbie (or second or third or tenth), pick up this don't-miss book. Enjoying Barbie and Ruth is child's play.

happy to be able to give back to the community through projects like this," said Lois Ford, site manager of the Grantsville Senior Center.

Warm Up America was founded by Evie Rosen, a former yarn retailer and nationally known knitting teacher who resides in Wausau, Wis. Rosen was inspired to form the foundation because she wanted to do something to help the homeless. Her simple concept of asking customers, friends, and the community to knit and crochet 7" x 9" sections that would be joined into afghans grew into a nationwide program that has produced more than 250,000 afghans. These afghans have been donated to victims of natural disasters, battered women's shelters, and the homeless, as well as others in need.

WUA! Includes many volunteers across the country, including seniors at the Grantsville Senior Center. Thousands of knitted and crocheted afghans and accessories are distributed to various charities each year. Local seniors interested in partnering with a Warm Up America Project can contact the Grantsville Senior Center to inquire about future afghan projects. Persons may call Ford at 301-895-5818.

Decorating Dilemma? Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:
I've had a home up there for years. When my parents had it it was very formal. Our lifestyle is much more casual. I would like to get rid of all the heavy bedding and draperies and go to something I can throw in the washer and dryer. Everything I find here is dry clean only. I do not want to spend a lot of money but I want it to look nice. Any ideas?

Lakers Ousted From JUCO Tourney By Hawks; To Face Them Again Sat.

The Garrett College men's basketball team, seeded 11th in the Maryland JUCO tournament, was ousted from the tourney Friday afternoon at Prince George's Community College in Largo by third-seeded Hagerstown.

In a close quarterfinal from start to finish, and one which featured many lead changes, the Lakers (19-9) came up just short, 84-80.

The Hawks held a one-point edge at intermission, 33-32, and the score remained close the rest of the way. The biggest lead of the contest was seven points when Hagerstown's Jeremy Myers drained a three-point shot with less than 40 seconds to play.

The Lakers came right back, as Rodney Clark scored on a bucket, was fouled, and hit the free Garrett then stole the inbounds pass, was fouled, and cut the lead to three by hitting one of two free throws.

The Lakers stole the inbounds pass again with less than 10 seconds to play, but the three-point attempt was no good. The Hawks then put the game away with a final foul shot.

The Lakers placed four players in double figures, with J.T. Lewis leading the way with 17 points, and Mo Gunn right behind with 16 points and a team high eight rebounds.

West Virginia

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

AURORA/EGLON

BUCKWHEAT CAKES AND SAUSAGE
Maple Spring Church of the Brethren will host a buckwheat and sausage dinner at the church on Saturday, March 7. Serving hours will be from 3 to 8 p.m. Adult dinners are $7, children's 10 years and under are $4, and preschoolers may eat for free. The Family Life Building Committee will provide sausage, sausage gravy, buckwheat or pancakes, and a choice of a beverage.

WILES BIRTHDAY
Edna Wiles, Lantz Ridge, will be honored by her family on the occasion of her 90th birthday. There will be an open house at the Amboy United Methodist Church fellowship hall this Sunday, March 1, from 3 to 5 p.m. The family requests that no gifts be given, but cards are appreciated. Cards may also be sent to her home at HC 82 Box 32, Aurora, WV 26705. All are welcome.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS AND PHONE NUMBERS

Along with the change in television operation, Preston County is in the process of changing to street and number physical addresses. This change also requires residents to notify all agencies including the DMV of a change in address. As all areas are not receiving notices at the same time, residents will have up to a year to notify all agencies; however, the DMV is requiring this within 20 days of the change.

This requires filling out a form and providing proof of change. Ordinarily residents would be able to use cards from the post office for the change in address, but this is not allowed for this type of change. Further information can be found by calling the DMV at 304-329-1855 or 1-800-642-9066.

Residents are also reminded that all 10 digits will be required to make phone calls, including cell phones.

AURORA CEOS

Seven ladies recently met at Melanie's for lunch, which preceded the February CEOS meeting, which was originally planned to be held at the Opal Myers home, but her power was off.

President Myers called the meeting to order at 1 p.m., and Pat Stemple led the devotions with a reading from "Satan's Garage Sale."

Dean Sisler led the discussion on Appalachian cultural awareness and community development. Some of the questions included: "What do you feel that Appalachian culture is, and what does it mean to you?" Of the 13 states that compose Appalachia, West Virginia is the only one of which the whole state is included. "What do you feel has been the result of that immersion, and how has it made us who we are?" members were asked.

This year's community project will be an effort for each member to become more involved in community activities. Each member is asked to bring an item that was made from a recyclable product to the March meeting.

Achievement night for Preston CEOS members will be held April 2 in Kingwood. February is Heart Month, and Ressie Conrad, vice president, used an article on exercise and heart disease as her special feature.

The March 17 meeting is planned for the home of Opal Myers. Those attending are asked to wear something green for the St. Patrick's Day celebration. Dorothy Spaid will lead the lessons, and Martha Bellard will be responsible for devotions.

UNGER DEATH
Carl William Unger, 62, Bridgeport, died Thursday, Feb. 12, 2009, at his home.

He was a son of the late John W. and Carolyn Sturm Unger, who lived in Aurora for several years while Unger was employed by the Preston County BOE as Vo-Ag teacher at Aurora High School.

He was a graduate of Bridgeport High School, class of 1964, and of Fairmont State College with a B.S. degree in business accounting.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanne Gross Unger, two daughters, Staci, Bridgeport, and Shauna, Brooklyn Heights, N.Y.; one sister, Betty Crane and husband Jay, Livingston, Texas; and one brother, Raymond Unger and wife Debra, Tucson, Ariz.

His body was given for medical research. A memorial service will be held at a later date.

PERSONAL
Barbara Evans, Leadmine, has been moved to a rehab facility to recover from a recent stroke.

Gary Evans, Gormanias, is recuperating from four-way bypass surgery and is reportedly doing well.

Ellis Fint, Aurora, has been moved from Ruby Memorial Hospital to a rehab facility in Latrobe, Pa.

Chronic Kidney Failure Treatment
Chronic kidney failure causes a reduction in the ability of our kidneys to filter fluids and wastes out of the body. The kidneys normally remove excess fluid and waste from the blood, which is then excreted in the urine. Symptoms of kidney failure may include high blood pressure, decreased urine output, dark colored urine, and/or swollen ankles. These symptoms usually do not start until kidney function has decreased to less than 25% of their normal functioning capacity. Kidney stones or an enlarged prostate also may lead to kidney failure, by causing increased pressure on the kidneys due to blocked urine flow. Kidney failure may result from high blood pressure or diabetes.

Treatments are available to slow the progression of kidney failure and alleviate symptoms. Angiotensin-converting enzyme (ACE) inhibitors such as benazepril and enalapril are commonly prescribed to lower blood pressure and preserve kidney function. Angiotensin II receptor blockers (ARBs) such as candesartan and losartan are also commonly prescribed for kidney failure. They lower blood pressure and preserve renal function. Individuals with progressive kidney disease require dialysis to maintain sufficient kidney function.

BOWLING WITH CANTALOUPE - Frozen cantaloupe, that is. The crowds that gathered in Oakland Saturday for WinterFest found much to do, including bowling. The frozen lane made for some smooth play, and the frozen fruit was great for knocking down the pins. Players stood in line for a while to get a chance to play the game, making it a very popular feature of the day. Photo by John McEwen.

AN ARTIST AT WORK, WITH A CHAIN SAW - Crowds gathered on Saturday in Oakland to watch the artists of the Frozen Assets ice-carving company do their thing. The snow-pants-wearing artisans all started with enormous blocks of ice. The design was quickly "drawn" on the cube, and then the sculpting began. First with a chain saw, the artist cut exact, large pieces, and knocked them off with apparent ease. Then the artist would switch to a smaller sanding device to make the finer details. The process was intriguing to watch, despite the chilly temps of the day. The bystanders absorbed in this process, which took place along Third Street in front of Oak'tiques, can be seen reflected in the window. The blocky became a stage coach. In the end, sponsored by Oak'tiques and the Long Branch Saloon. Another nondescript block of ice was transformed into a flower vase, below, sponsored by Jan Florist, which owner Jim Tong then adorned with an arrangement. As of this morning, the vase was still standing. Photos by John McEwen.

Record Crowd Attends Business After Hours Event

A record crowd of 141 guests attended the Business After Hours event last Wednesday at the Mountain State Brewing Company, according to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, providing a relaxed, social setting for chamber members to mingle and network with other members.

They also sampled Mountain State Brewing Company's signature flatbread pizzas and handcrafted ales, and viewed chamber member exhibits from Rocktops, Jesse's Signs and Designs, Debbie Beitzel of Long & Foster Realtors, and Ridgeview Valley LLC.

Door prize winners were Chad Ward of Rodeheaver & Associates and Kristen Fischetti, of Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, who both won a cutting board with knife; and Terah Crawford of Will O' the Wisp Lounge, who won a gift card from Mountain State Brewing Company.

"We are thrilled with the record turnout for this Business After Hours event," said Charlie Ross, chamber president/CEO. "The board and the staff of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce would like to thank not only Mountain State Brewing Company and our exhibiting McHenry businesses, but also everyone who came out to support the event."

In December, the chamber announced that, in an effort to allow smaller chamber-member businesses an opportunity for additional participation, the 2009 Business After Hours events would be held at a central location in different communities throughout Garrett County.

Following the motto that "people do business with people they know" - whether

While there was some snow on the ground, the Smith family brought some from home, too.

er they own a small office, are home-based, or work out of a business vehicle - chamber members will now be able to join in as hosts for a Business After Hours, just as those with storefronts or meeting rooms have done in the past.

"We look forward to continuing to spotlight the communities of Garrett County at future Business After Hours events," Ross said.

The next event will be held in Accident in March. The remainder of the 2009 schedule is Deer Park in April, McHenry in May, Friendsville in June, Oakland in July, Grantsville in August, McHenry in September, Loch Lynn Heights in October, and Kitzmiller in November. Dates and exact locations will be determined.

For more information about the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce or future Business After Hours events, persons may call 301-387-4386 or visit online at garrettcchamber.com.

G-Force Team Earns Top Honors At State Tourney

Garrett County's FIRST Tech Challenge (FTC) G-Force Team 2818, sponsored by GEARS Inc. and Garrett County 4-H, recently earned the top honor at the Maryland State FTC Championship Tournament.

The tournament was held at the College of Southern Maryland in La Plata. The team that receives the Inspire award is chosen by the judges as having best represented a role model FIRST Tech Challenge Team.

"They are a top contender for all other judging categories and are a strong competitor on the field," said a spokesperson for the group. "The Inspire award winner is to be an inspiration to other teams, acting with gracious professionalism both on and off the playing field. This team understands how to communicate their experiences and knowledge to other teams, sponsors, and the judges."

Each of the 39 teams competed in five different qualifying matches throughout the day. In addition to the robot matches, each team also had a 15-minute judging session to share with the judges the skills and accomplishments the team had gained throughout the building season. The judges continued to talk with the team members throughout the afternoon matches to make their final award decisions.

After winning five qualifying matches, G-Force was in third place. The top eight teams selected two partner alliances, and the 24 teams played the best two of three games in the quarter finals to advance to the semi-finals.

"It was an exciting afternoon as parents, coaches, and spectators cheered on the G-Force team as they proceeded to the finals to face the undefeated team of the day," noted Arlene Lantz, team mentor and spokesperson for the group. When all was finished, the G-FORCE team earned the runner-up trophy.

mentor Stephen Lilly. The team is shown displaying the $500 check awarded from the BAE company to pay for half the team's registration fee to attend the FTC World Championships in Atlanta, Ga., in April. Above right, the team rallies around after a gear came loose from the bucket in a match. They gathered around to quickly repair "Philbot" before their next round. Below, the G-Force team members discuss strategy for their final match. They lost in first round, came back and beat the undefeated robot of the day in the second round. They are pictured waiting to start the third and final round for the day for the champion title. Kevin Haentfling was the student coach and Nathan Tichnell and Aaron Lantz were the drivers for this match. The team medaled and received the finalist trophy for second place.

Naylor Trust Fund Provides FSU Scholarship

Frostburg State University recently received funding through the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust to prepare more graduate students with the tools they need to work with special needs children in the Appalachian region.

The FSU Foundation Inc. received a sizable contribution from the Trust in December 2008, establishing the Howard and Audrey Naylor Scholarship. Beginning this fall, the new scholarship will be awarded annually to promising graduate students in FSU's College of Education.

Naylor scholars will receive paid tuition and associated fees, books and in-state enrollment for one year and one summer at FSU. They will be selected based on their interest in teaching and working with children who have special needs. The scholarship also includes preferences for candidates who intend to teach in the Appalachian region, preferably close to western Maryland, and who are able to conduct practical research related to facilitating students with special needs placed in traditional classrooms.

Howard and Audrey Naylor died in 2006. The scholarship's specifications reflect the Naylor family's personal experiences with special needs children and their lifelong commitment to education. Both Howard and Audrey were school teachers and advocates in the education community.

Audrey served as a teacher in classrooms with special needs students well into her 80s. Additionally, one Naylor family member had both a daughter and a grandson with special education needs.

In addition to Naylor's Ace Hardware store, Howard, an Oakland native, also filled a variety of important roles in the Garrett County community, including serving on the town council and as president of the Oakland Lions Club. He also bought the ski tow equipment that led to the successful establishment of Wisp Ski Resort. Howard and Audrey also reared their five children in Oakland.

The decision to fund a scholarship at FSU supports the Naylor Family Trust's mission: The trust is dedicated to organizations and institutions located in Appalachia that are education-focused.

"Howard and Audrey Naylor believed Frostburg serves a valuable role in generating first-class students, and many graduates of Garrett County high schools attend FSU," a spokesperson said. "We believe the need to train special needs teachers is clear, given the challenges and our evolving understanding of how to best address these unique students. We hope this scholarship will generate many innovative teachers for years to come."

The FSU Foundation has embarked on a $15 million comprehensive campaign, Staking Our Claim. The campaign for Frostburg is aimed at raising badly needed funding for higher education in western Maryland. Donations to the Foundation support student scholarships and programs, academic programs, faculty development, and other critical university needs.

For more information about supporting FSU, persons may visit www.frostburg.edu/admin/foundation or call 301-687-4161.

Heart Month

February is American Heart Month

(A release from the Garrett County Health Department)

There are several things that you can do to keep your blood pressure and blood cholesterol healthy. These actions should become part of your regular lifestyle, and you should discuss with your health care provider the best ways for you to address these issues.

*Maintain a Healthy Weight

Being overweight or obese can raise your blood pressure, and losing weight can help you lower your blood pressure. Being overweight tends to increase LDL levels (bad cholesterol), lower HDL levels (good cholesterol), and increases total cholesterol level.

*Diet

High salt and sodium intake and a low potassium intake because of not eating enough fruits and vegetables can increase blood pressure. You need to watch the sodium that is already included in processed food and avoid adding sodium or salt in cooking or at the table. Choosing foods low in saturated fat and cholesterol is also important for an overall healthy diet. Certain foods have types of fat that raise your cholesterol level. These types of fat include saturated fat, trans fatty acids or trans fats, and dietary cholesterol. Saturated fats come mainly from animal fat in your diet, but may also come from certain vegetable oils such as palm oil. Dietary cholesterol is found in foods that come from animal sources, such as egg yolks, meat, and dairy products.

*Be Active

Being physically inactive is related to high blood pressure, and physical activity can help to lower blood pressure. Lack of regular physical activity can lead to weight gain, which could raise your LDL cholesterol level. The surgeon general recommends that adults should engage in moderate-level physical activities for at least 30 minutes on most days of the week, while children should be exercising for 60 minutes on most days of the week.

*Prevent and Control Diabetes

People with diabetes have a higher risk of high blood pressure and are more prone to having heart disease.

*No Tobacco

Smoking is a major risk factor for heart disease and stroke. Smoking injures blood vessels and speeds up the process of hardening of the arteries.

*Genetic Factors

Genes can play a role in high blood pressure and high cholesterol. Very high blood cholesterol levels can be related to a condition known as familial hypercholesterolemia. It is also possible that an increased risk of high blood pressure and high cholesterol within a family is because of factors such as a common sedentary lifestyle or poor eating habits.

What can you do?

A healthy diet and lifestyle are the best weapons you have to fight heart disease. It is important to remember that it is the overall pattern of the choices you make that counts. As you make daily food choices, base your eating pattern on these American Heart Association recommendations:

- Choose lean meats and poultry without skin, and prepare them without added saturated and trans fat.
- Select fat-free, 1% fat, and low-fat dairy products.
- Cut back on foods containing partially hydrogenated vegetable oils to reduce trans fat in your diet.
- Cut back on foods high in dietary cholesterol. Aim to eat less than 300 mg of cholesterol each day.
- Cut back on beverages and foods with added sugars.
- Choose and prepare foods with little or no salt. Aim to eat less than 2,300 mg of sodium per day (or 1,500 mg if you are in a higher risk group for high blood pressure).
- If you drink alcohol, drink in moderation. That means no more than one drink per day if you are a woman and two drinks per day if you are a man.
- Keep an eye on your portion sizes.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glatfely Sussman

Our first thunderstorm of the year rolled in last week and with it hail, several more inches of snow and ice, and biting high winds. I am not surprised, because when there is a thunderstorm in the winter it always means a decent amount of snowfall.

My brother Rodney is celebrating his birthday today, Feb. 26. My dear friend Linda Bowman Nuberger will also be having a birthday this Friday, Feb. 27. Cindy Stanton celebrated her birthday on February 21. "Happy Birthday" to all!

Sally and Lenny Pohl-sky with Scott and Mary

Ellen Presgrave went on a cruise to the South Caribbean in January. They visited 10 islands. They visited Ken and Alice Sisler and with them they went on a side visit to Key West. According to Sally the weather was perfect and she got a great tan. Sally's brother and his wife, Davy and Nancy, spent most of the winter in Fort Myers, Fla.

All of Ruth DiPaolo's children visited her this past weekend. All present watched and enjoyed a basketball game between University of Maryland and the University of North Carolina (ranked third in the country going into the game). Maryland got the upset win, giving the Terps a chance to make it into the NCAA Tournament.

Cindy Richardson took a road trip last week to pick up their son in Wheeling, W.Va. It was a rough and long trip home. She said by far the worst stretch was between McHenry and Bittinger. The blowing snow made it almost impossible to see anything.

The 100th anniversary of Zion was a big success. Zion was just about filled up with kindred worshipers from all three parish churches.

I am not too fond of the Republican Party, as many of you have guessed. The misguided believe GOP means cozy, old-fashioned values. The crowds in Fort Myers, Fla., and in Indiana had as many Republicans as Democrats, probably more. They cheered President Obama when he explained his Economic Stimulus Plan, and cheered, "Yes, we can."

America is where citizens deserve to create a decent life for themselves and their families. All Americans should have access to a decent-paying job, health care, and education. I don't believe that most Republicans agree with Rush Limbaugh when he said he hopes our president fails. Obama wants to cut the deficit in half by the end of his first term. I don't know what else he can cut.

Of course, big bank Citigroup is in trouble. Is there more for the banks? The new buzz is "financial responsibility." Responsibility involves living up to commitments. Obama says, "Our country needs to go on a diet."

Va. Man Pleads Guilty To CDS Possession Chg.

In recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, Justin Ray Woodward, 24, Alexandria, Va., pleaded guilty to a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana charge and received a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict from Judge Leonard J. Eiswert. He was sentenced to 60 days with 60 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $357.50 in fines.

Woodward's charge stems from a traffic stop in July 2008. Garrett County sheriff's officers and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force conducted the stop and a canine exterior search of the vehicle, which presented a positive alert for the presence of drugs. A search of the vehicle revealed four bags of marijuana; two marijuana bongs; a bag of psilocybin mushrooms; a bag of opium; a glassine bag with cocaine; three capsules of heroin; aluminum foil with LSD (acid); and a Xanax pill.

Woodward was not prosecuted on five other charges of CDS possession not marijuana, one charge of CDS possession of marijuana, and one charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

In an unrelated case, Nathan Edward Pusey, 25, Frostburg, received a PBJ after pleading guilty to a DUI per se charge, and was sentenced to unsupervised probation for seven days and $357.50 in fines. He was placed under arrest for driving under the influence of alcohol in January after a traffic stop by Maryland State Police. Officers performed tests and a Breathalyzer test which registered a .22 level. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center.

A search of Pusey at the detention center revealed a

David Wayne Welch, 46,

Mtn. Lake Park, was found not guilty for two charges of second degree assault. His charges stemmed from an altercation with an adult in September 2008.

Roger Leroy Stumbaugh Jr., 43, Oakland, was charged in November 2008 for theft valued at $500-plus. The charges were placed on stet with conditions being to not return to the business of theft.

Geoffrey Allen Reams, 26, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, and CDS prescription with a removed label. He was charged in April 2008.

Benjamin Edward Nicol, 31, Accident, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge. His charge stemmed from an altercation with an adult in November 2008.

Libraries Are Seen As Crucial In Times Of Economic Downturn

by Bonetta Winters
The Ruth Enlow Library, along with libraries across the nation, offers resources that can aid patrons in navigating the current financial downturn.

"During tough economic times, people turn to libraries for their incredible array of free resources, from computers to books, DVDs and CDs, for help with a job hunt or health information," notes Jim Rettig, president of the American Library Association (ALA). "The average annual cost to the taxpayer for access to this wide range of resources is about $31, the cost of one hardcover book. In good times or bad, libraries are a great value."

Indeed, circulation figures for the Ruth Enlow Library during the recent months of November, December, and January show the highest on record.

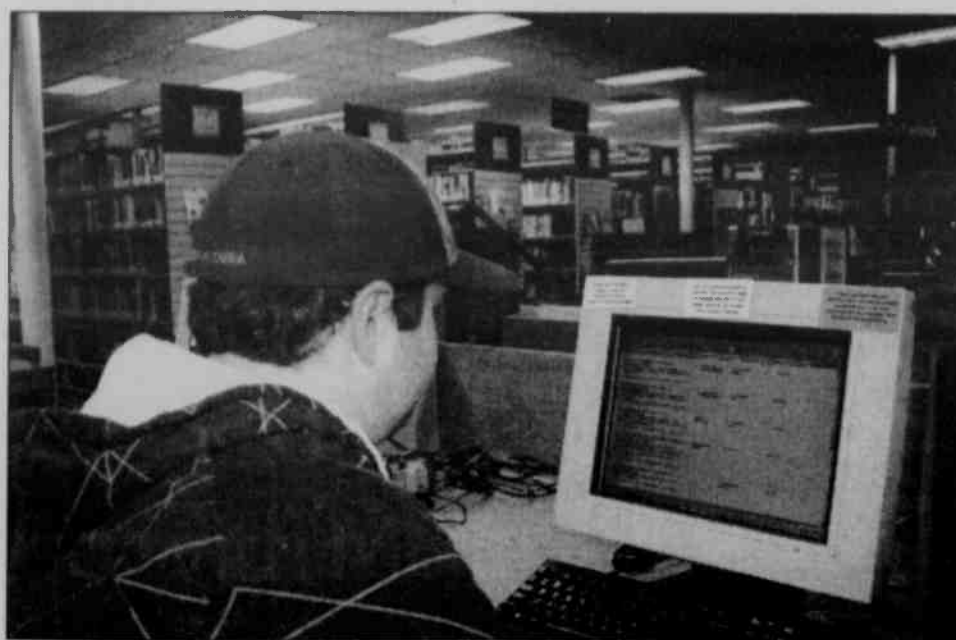

"More specifically, during that three-month period in the previous fiscal year, the circulation totaled 62,350 items," says Peggy

Ryan, Oakland library circulation supervisor. "This year's figure of 67,663 is an 8.5 percent increase. In addition, usage statistics for the public computers increased by 7.4 percent during that same time period."

Libraries across the country report that many patrons are turning to the public computers and Internet access to find work, apply for jobs online, type resumes and cover letters, and open e-mail accounts.

As more and more Americans look for employment, libraries are helping to level the playing field for job seekers. The ALA web site notes that only 44 percent of the top 100 U.S. retailers accepted in-store paper applications in 2006—down from 68 percent in 2004.

Tim McDaniel, a recent graduate of Frostburg State University, frequents both the Oakland and Accident libraries to search for jobs, take online tests, and check e-mail for responses from online job applications.

A WEALTH OF INFORMATION can be found at the Ruth Enlow Library. Tim McDaniel, a recent graduate of Frostburg State University, uses the Internet at the Oakland library. He searches for jobs, takes online tests, checks e-mail for responses from online job applications, and much more. Libraries across the U.S. are reporting that many patrons are using public library resources during this economic downturn. See story for details.

"I do not have Internet access at home. I need the library for these services," he stresses.

He uses careerbuilder.com, a web site that allows users to handle a number of job-related activities, including creating profiles, writing and posting resumes, and searching for jobs. Through the Maryland Department of Labor web site, he was able to file online for unemployment compensation.

McDaniel makes good use of the library's Thomas Gale and Learning Express databases, both of which have links to the ASVAB (Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery). He has been taking the online ASVAB practice tests as essential preparation for doing well on the actual test.

He also practices the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test (AFOQT) and Flight Aptitude tests. And he has chatted online with an Air Force recruiter.

"I have to research job possibilities everywhere through the Internet," McDaniel says. And he is grateful that he can use the library for these services.

The library's online databases provide valuable, authoritative, and timely information in such areas as health and wellness, antiques, auto repair, biographies, testing and education, financial aid, legal issues, facts on file, and magazine, journal, and news sources.

Patrons can access these databases on the library's web site at www.relib.net from home or within the library. Most databases are accessible remotely even when the library is closed. During normal operating hours, the library staff is available for assistance.

In addition to the databases and public computers, the local libraries offer many services to the community. WiFi is available within the library to anyone with a laptop; books and movies provide entertainment at no cost; children's programs bring enjoyment and provide opportunities for outings; and research assistance from a librarian is always available. Also, patrons can use the public computers to file taxes online.

Although increased numbers of people nationwide are using libraries for necessary services, the libraries themselves might well see budget cuts. In a recent interview on the Diane Rehm show (WAMU 88.5FM, American University Radio), Carla Hayden, executive director of the Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore, emphasized that library usage goes up in economic downturns, at a time when library budgets as well are being cut.

"Keeping up with the demand with shrinking budgets," she said, is the number one challenge.

"Libraries throughout the state have lost over $7 million in funding in the last two state budgets," notes Cathy Ashby, director of the Ruth Enlow Library, "and the governor's plan for the next fiscal year would cut $3.6 million from the mandated funding for county libraries and $1.7 million in funding to the state's central and regional libraries, which serve libraries across the state."

"Locally," she said, "we have flat-lined the budget for books and other materials for the past two years."

The ALA web site emphasizes the importance of our public libraries: "Libraries are part of the American Dream. They offer free access to all. They bring opportunity to all."

For a listing of services and programs offered by the Ruth Enlow Library, persons can visit its web site at www.relib.net.

Thanks from Warm the Children 2008

Thanks for another successful Warm the Children campaign!

Once again, even in this time of a terrible economy, donors came through with flying colors to help keep the children of Garrett County warm this winter. Warm the Children, operated by The Republican and the Civic Club of Oakland, raised more than an astounding $36,000 this year! And with that, we were able to shop for more than 350 kids, providing them with brand new coats, hats, boots, jeans, sweaters, and other warm items. That's fantastic! Again we thank all who helped with this worthy cause. Please note the names of all the willing volunteers on the page, as well as all the generous donors. We also extend our thanks to the public school system for helping us identify children in need, to the Dept. of Social Services for its assistance, to First United Bank & Trust for providing our fee-free account, and to the staff at Wal-Mart for helping our volunteers shop for our families. Every penny donated goes to a child in need. Thank you for responding, all of you, with such generosity — in donations, time, talent, or all three! God bless you!

The Right Influence

Who says dogs and cats can't get along? It's all in how they are raised.

The same is true in our relationships with one another. Given the right influences in our early years, we learn respect and tolerance, friendliness and forgiveness.

Our house of worship can have a considerable influence on our children - and on us! As part of our religious education, we learn that relationships with others are an expression of our relationship with God. Our love of God is reflected in how we treat others. As Peter says, "...live in harmony with one another, be sympathetic, love as brothers...." (1 Peter 3:8)

Worship together as a family every week, be influenced by God's love!

Develop Your Mind and Your Body

Just as we can change the direction of a stream by digging channels in the earth, so too can we change the direction of our lives by developing our minds and bodies. Just as an arrow must have straight fletchings in order to fly straight, so too must we have a properly developed mind and body. A wise person will consider this a matter of primary importance. Do we work to develop our intellect, or do we fill it with whatever happens to be present at hand? Do we read books, magazines, and newspapers that are likely to teach us something, or is our reading primarily just a diversion? Do we try to learn from those around us or are we more interested in the latest gossip? And, we should realize that it's not just about our minds. We cannot have a healthy mind in a sick or decrepit body. Do we take efforts to eat right, exercise, get enough sleep and avoid toxins? If we do not develop our mind and body properly, then we are squandering our greatest resource: our very self.

Therefore gird up the loins of your minds, be sober, and rest your hope fully upon the grace that is brought to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- It was infamous German philosopher Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche who made the following sage observation: "In individuals, insanity is rare; but in groups, parties, nations and epochs, it is the rule."
- If you're like the typical person, you completely regrow your fingernails once every four and a half months.
- Financial statistics show that 1 percent of the population in the United States owns more than one-third of the country's wealth.
- In the 17th century, a Frenchman opened a coffee shop in London and sold chocolate, newly imported from the Americas, for 10 to 15 shillings a pound. That may not sound like much until you learn that at the time, the going price of a pound of gold was 20 to 30 shillings.
- Some species of lizards can lay many clutches of eggs over the course of a number of years after having mated only once.
- Way back in 1879, the Cincinnati Gazette predicted that the game of baseball had "run its course."
- If you're a fan of fishing, here's a cautionary tale regarding the weather: A 48-year-old Colombian man named Felipe Ortiz decided (for reasons unknown) to go out fishing in a raging storm. He cast his line into a strong wind, but the line blew back and caused the baited hook to lodge in his throat, killing him.
- You probably have never heard of the affliction once known as "boanthropy," but evidently in the 1800s a man thinking he was an ox was common enough to require its own word.
- In the past 30 years, the size of the average American home has increased by nearly two-thirds.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I read with interest your recent column about the children whose pet fish died because they didn't take care of it. You asked readers how the children could prove to their mother that they're ready for another pet. I think you're asking the wrong question. You should be asking when is the mother ready for another pet.

Being a child is about learning, exploring and having as many experiences as possible. Because they're young, their interests change, often rapidly and unexpectedly. It isn't fair to a child to be forced to look after a living, feeling, thinking being whose requirements don't change (the dog always needs to be walked, for instance) and whose needs are unyielding (the dog will suffer if it's not fed and watered).

Furthermore, to make a child responsible for a pet is a poor idea on several counts: The child is set up for failure; the pet can experience discomfort at best, death at worst, from being neglected; and the adult can feel exasperation, annoyance and anger — at both child and pet.

In terms of dogs, no responsible breeder of dogs will sell one of his or her puppies to a family where the children will be the puppy's primary caregiver. Neither will a bona fide rescue group nor a well-run animal shelter.

The only reason to get a pet is because the adults want one themselves, fully understanding and accepting the reality that whatever help their children provide in caring for that pet is a bonus and is not something on which they can count.

Thus, I think you need to rephrase your question. — Don, via e-mail

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
Notice of Intent to Establish Total Maximum Daily Loads of Fecal Bacteria for the Little Youghiogheny River Basin in Garrett County, Maryland

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act requires Maryland to: (1) identify waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSS), where technology-based effluent limitations and other required controls cannot achieve water quality standards; (2) for each listed water, establish Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for pollutants preventing the attainment of water quality standards; and (3) offer an opportunity for public review and comment on the proposed TMDLs.

The Little Youghiogheny River (basin code 05020202) was identified on the state's list of water quality limited segments (WQLSS) as impaired by nutrients and sediment (1996 listings), fecal bacteria (2002 listing), and impacts to biological communities (2002 and 2006 listings). The nutrients and sediment listing have been addressed by TMDLs approved in 2001 and 2007, respectively. The listing for impacts to biological communities will be addressed at a later date. Broadford Lake, located within the Little Youghiogheny watershed, was listed as impaired by nutrients (1998) and methylmercury (2002). The nutrients impairment was addressed by a TMDL, approved in 2001; the methylmercury listing was addressed by a water quality analysis (WQA), approved in 2004.

The TMDL sets the maximum load limit for the impairing substance. The TMDL also reflects potential load allocations to point sources, nonpoint sources, and a margin of safety that accounts for uncertainty in the procedures used to estimate the TMDLs. Once established by the State, the TMDL will be subject to approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The established TMDL will support measures needed to attain water quality standards in the Little Youghiogheny River watershed.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT

A thirty-day public comment period for the draft document will take place from February 19, 2009 through March 20, 2009. A copy of the draft document has been placed in the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, 6 N. Second Street, Oakland, MD 21550 (301-334-3996). The draft document is also available on MDE's web site at <http://www.mde.state.md.us/Programs/WaterPrograms/TMDL>, or by contacting Tom Thornton by mail at MDE/SSA, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Suite 540, Baltimore, MD 21230-1718 (410-537-3656), outside the Baltimore area, dial 1-800-633-6101, x3656. Anyone wishing to review the draft documents and supporting information or needing technical information may contact Mr. Thornton during normal business hours.

Written comments concerning the draft document may be submitted to the Department on or before March 20, 2009, and should be sent to Mr. Thornton at the above address or emailed to tthornton@mde.state.md.us. If the Department determines there is sufficient interest, public hearings on the document may be held. All comments received during the comment period will be considered, and the draft document may be revised accordingly prior to its submittal to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for approval.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $18,000 in cash, cashier's check or certified check required at time of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. All past due property taxes paid by the purchaser. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incidental to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. All transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be paid by the Purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

Kidney Disease Conference Set In Cumberland

Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, will host a kidney disease conference on Tuesday, March 24. The event is being organized by the college and IDF Allegany Center.

"The Facts About Kidney Disease" is for people at risk for or diagnosed with kidney disease. It is free to the public.

"Renal Refresher" is for health care professionals and students. There is a minimal fee, and four CEUs are offered for nurses, dietitians, and social workers.

According to the National Kidney Foundation, more than 20 million Americans have chronic kidney disease, many of whom are unaware of it. An additional 20 million are at risk.

"Kidney damage happens gradually, sometimes without the person knowing it," said a spokesperson for the foundation. "Many people who feel fine have a hard time believing that their kidneys are not working properly. It is only when the kidney damage is advanced and the kidneys are not removing waste that one feels sick. The good news is that kidney disease can be treated. By learning about the early

Two Deer Park Area Houses Destroyed By Accidental Fires

Two houses in the Deer Park area were destroyed by fire this past week, both of which were accidental in nature, but one resulting in minor injuries to an occupant and to a volunteer firefighter.

Volunteers from the Deer Park, Oakland, Gorman, and Kitzmiller fire departments were summoned to the residence of Rodney King, 4066 Maryland Highway just west of Deer Park at 9:47 a.m. Sunday after King discovered a fire in a guest bedroom of his single-floor house. The blaze quickly spread throughout most of the structure.

Some 30 firefighters responded and brought the fire under control in about 20 minutes, according to a report released by Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver. However, the loss was estimated by Rodeheaver to be $150,000 to the structure and another $25,000 to contents.

Rodeheaver determined that the cause of the fire was electrical in nature.

The Southern Rescue Squad also responded. There were no injuries reported. King is being aided by the American Red Cross.

Another house located along Boiling Spring Road in Deer Park was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening.

Firefighters from the Deer Park, Oakland and Deep Creek departments were called to 1519 Boiling Spring Road at 7:28 p.m., and upon their arrival found flames and heavy smoke coming from the two-story wood structure.

A malfunctioning wood-burning stove in the living room was deemed the cause of the blaze, first igniting the flue and then the walls, according to Ken Collins, chief of the Deer Park CVFD.

The property is owned by

Man Charged With Burglary, Assault, Disorderly Conduct

A Grantsville man was arrested late Saturday evening after Maryland State Police were dispatched to a Bittering Road residence for a burglary in progress.

Jeffery Alan Auvil, 38, who was reportedly armed with a knife, was located hiding in a garage at the residence. Tfc. V. Upole and Tfc. M. Clapper were the responding MSP officers. Auvil was taken into custody, and his knife was recovered without incident.

He was charged with first degree assault, reckless endangerment, fourth degree burglary, and disorderly conduct.

MLP Woman Sentenced For CDS Possession

A 54-year-old Mountain Lake Park woman pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court on Tuesday to a possession of marijuana charge. Related charges against Beverly Ann Beitzel were dismissed upon her plea and a determination that certain pills that were located in her residence were of a kind that had been prescribed for her.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Beitzel to six months in the Garrett County Jail and suspended all but 30 days. Beitzel will serve her sentence on 15 consecutive weekends. She was also placed on probation and fined $200.

Beitzel and others in her residence were arrested and charged in August 2008 after a search and seizure warrant was executed. Quantities of marijuana and paraphernalia were located, as well as the prescription medication, according to the state's attorney.

Charges against one co-defendant were later dismissed after no controlled dangerous substances were linked to him. The second co-defendant's case remains pending in Circuit Court.

In other court proceedings this week, Edward Scott Moats, 24, Oakland, pleaded guilty to driving

Health Dept. Alerts Public Of Active Chickenpox Virus in Co.

Active chickenpox is being transmitted in Garrett County, according to a report from the Garrett County Health Department this week. The chickenpox virus (varicella) is highly contagious and can be spread from person to person through the air or by contact with fluid from the chickenpox blisters.

Persons may get a vaccine to prevent the disease, and those at high risk (pregnant women, newborn babies, any person with a weakened immune system, and adults who have never had the virus) are advised to do so.

A person can spread chickenpox from 1 to 2 days before the rash appears until all the blisters have formed crusts (usually about 5 days).

Although rare, more severe problems that can occur are pneumonia (especially in adults), serious skin or blood infections, or encephalitis. A person who has had chickenpox can get a painful rash years later called shingles (herpes zoster) caused by reactivation of the virus that lies dormant in the body's nervous system. If a person develops shingles, he/she can pass on the varicella virus through direct contact with the herpes zoster lesions to a person who has never had chickenpox.

A shingles vaccination has been available since May 2006 for healthy persons older than 60 who wish to prevent shingles.

Since the varicella vaccine was introduced in 1995, the number of deaths with chickenpox listed as the underlying cause have declined, a spokesperson said. The decline was observed in all age groups, with the greatest drop

Magazines May Now Be Recycled At County Landfill

The Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division announced this week that it will now accept magazines for recycling at the landfill location, 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road.

In addition to the county landfill, residents and businesses may recycle magazines at the Grantsville, Weber's, and Bumble Bee refuse/recycling sites.

"Recycling magazines has never been so easy and convenient," said the division's recycling coordinator, Kimberly Madigan.

Magazines, catalogs, guides, coupons, obsolete brochures, or paper with a high-gloss or shiny appearance may be recycled.

"Residents and businesses are encouraged to participate in the magazine recycling program," Madigan said. "Please deposit the materials directly into the container (no bags or cardboard boxes)."

All of the materials collected will be recycled at J.M.S. Recycling in Somerset, Pa.

"The permanent magazine recycling program began in February 2006 at the Bumble Bee site," Madigan noted. "The successful program has now grown to four sites; and last year Garrett County recycled 99.62 tons, or 199,240 pounds, of magazines. Great job."

Persons may call 301-387-0322 or visit garrettcountry.org for more information about the local recycling program.

Over 17 Mailboxes Damaged In Area; Local Man Arrested

An Oakland man was arrested Friday after turning himself in on multiple counts of destruction of property crimes that stemmed from numerous mailboxes being destroyed in the Broadford Road, Kings Run Road, and Memorial Drive areas of Oakland.

Justin David Dillsworth, 21, reportedly vandalized over 17 mailboxes in the named areas, which led to victims either replacing or repairing their mailboxes. Detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office conducted an investigation that led to an arrest warrant for Dillsworth.

He is charged with 17 counts of malicious destruction of property and one count of destruction of property scheme. He was jailed and later released from the District Court Commissioner's office on personal recognizance.

Proposed Smart Growth Standards Not "Attainable," Says GC Official

Garrett County will be out of luck if the proposed "Smart Growth - Visions and Performance Standards" legislation passes as currently written in the Maryland General Assembly, according to county commission chair Fred Holliday.

House Bill 1116 and its companion, Senate Bill 878, would alter the "visions" for certain land use plans and establish many new performance standards to measure the achievements of those visions.

Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, reviewed the legislation with the county commissioners last Tuesday.

"This is the bill that I've been worried about all along," the director said. "We knew it was going to be coming out soon."

The legislation was introduced in the House by 28 delegates from Baltimore, Montgomery, Anne Arundel, Howard, Dorchester, Wicomico, Prince George's, and Calvert counties, as well as Baltimore City. David Harrington of Prince George's County and Brian Frosh of Montgomery County introduced the Senate bill.

Nelson said the proposed legislation essentially came from the 1,000 Friends of Maryland group and the

Car Stolen In Loch Lynn; Four Minors Arrested

Four juveniles were arrested by Maryland State Police early Friday morning in connection with a motor vehicle theft of a 2001 Dodge Ram pick-up stolen from the Loch Lynn Heights area.

The truck was stolen from the parking lot of Fitzwater's Garage at approximately 3:30 a.m. Tfc. Brick observed the vehicle in the Loch Lynn area approximately two hours later. He stopped the vehicle and arrested the suspects: a 15-year-old from Crellin, a 17-year-old from Oakland, and two 16-year-olds from Loch Lynn.

All were charged with theft of a motor vehicle. The 15-year-old, who was taken to juvenile detention, was charged with driving under the influence and underage possession of alcohol. The two 16-year-olds were charged with underage possession of alcohol.

The juveniles were released to their parents, with the exception of the 15-year-old.

Chesapeake Bay Foundation

"This is a planning bill for Smart Growth issues that actually sets performance standards for all counties to meet," Nelson said.

Counties would have to develop new plans by 2012 that would exactly specify how all the standards would be achieved, Nelson said. The performance measures themselves would then have to be reached by Oct. 1, 2018.

Two of the standards require that 80 percent of all new development and 75 percent of all new jobs be located within Priority Funding Areas (PFAs).

"Failure to achieve those performance standards would result in a prohibition of issuing any new permits in the county for stormwater and erosion control under MDE's (Maryland Department of the Environment) authority," Nelson said.

The director said it would be virtually impossible for a rural county that has resource-based jobs, such as coal and timber, to comply, as those industries cannot be within PFAs. Less than 3 percent of Garrett County's land is located in a PFA.

"These performance standards are not attainable," Nelson said.

W.Va. Man Killed In Single-Vehicle Accident

An Albright, W.Va., man lost his life in a single-vehicle accident early Wednesday morning. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 4 a.m. scene.

Investigation revealed that Charles Herbert Robbins, 61, had been operating a 1999 Dodge truck westbound on Mayhew Inn Road, when he lost control of the vehicle and struck an embankment. Robbins was partially ejected from the vehicle and succumbed to his injuries at the scene.

A passenger, Michael R. Rodeheaver, 54, Albright, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

The accident remains under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office Crash Reconstruction Unit.

"I DO NOT LIKE GREEN EGGS AND HAM!" Approximately 100 children packed the Oakland Library on Monday evening to celebrate Dr. Seuss's birthday. They are shown here listening to Garrett County commissioner Denny Giotfelty reading one of Seuss's famous books, Green Eggs and Ham. The Cat in the Hat, also known as Bill Alken, is standing by, along with Warren Giotfelty, who read Horton Hatches the Egg. "With the Cat in the Hat towering above the crowd and gently making his way through the group to greet excited attendees, the party was a true celebration honoring an author who has brought hours of enjoyment to generations of readers."

said a Ruth Enlow Library spokesperson. Activities included face painting with Karen Bonaar, Dr. Seuss bookmarks to color, and green scrambled eggs and ham for refreshments. Children 2 years old and younger enjoyed special activities with volunteer Barb Klug and Pat Shelton's child care class. A drawing was held for eight prizes of Dr. Seuss stuffed characters and books. The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce contributed four of the stuffed characters and also donated a book to each child attending the party. A listing of all programs and services at the Ruth Enlow Library can be found on its web site at railib.net.

Local Medical Groups Discuss Phys. Shortage

Healthcare leaders and representatives of various rural Maryland counties, the Greater Cumberland Committee, the Greater Salisbury Committee, and the Maryland Medical Society met recently with the Maryland Rural Caucus to discuss the growing shortage of physicians in the state's rural areas.

The Maryland Rural Caucus is chaired by Del. Leroy Myers (District 1C) and includes Sen. George Edwards, Del. Wendell Beitzel, and 43 additional legislators from southern Maryland and other non-urban districts around the state. The caucus exists to ensure rural counties consider legislation unique to their constituents. "Physician manpower shortages are predicted to hit the rural regions hardest over the next 20 years," said one spokesperson.

Donald Battista, president/CEO of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, presented a forecast of physician needs in Garrett County over the next 5 to

MEDICAL GROUPS MEET WITH MARYLAND RURAL CAUCUS - Local healthcare committees and leaders recently met with the Maryland Rural Caucus to discuss the growing shortage of physicians in the state of Maryland. From left are Dr. Catherine Smoot-Haselnus, secretary/treasurer of the Greater Salisbury Committee; Michael Franklin, president/CEO of Mid-Atlantic General Hospital; Colleen Peterson, executive director of Greater Cumberland Committee; Donald P. See story for details.

10 years. This prediction included concerns in regard to the domino effect the looming doctor shortage could have on both the county's economic development as well as its medical services in the future.

Battista explained to the caucus that 50% of the county's current physician group will be eligible for retirement within the next 10 years, which is compounded by the fact that new physicians typically do not seek out Maryland to establish practices because of the many forces pulling this craft away from Maryland, especially rural Maryland.

"Many states offer extensive medical loan forgiveness, have dramatically better medical malpractice climates, provide higher levels of physician reimbursement, and offer monetary practice assistance and incentives to stabilize the community's medical needs and encourage physicians to set up practices," said Battista. "Rural Maryland counties simply do not have those resources available, and may therefore be at a recruiting disadvantage in the future."

There are several bills currently being considered in Annapolis that will utilize state resources to increase the number of medical school and residency slots so Maryland medical schools can begin producing more physician graduates. Other bills include inducements for keeping more Maryland medical school graduates in the state and incentives for agreeing to practice in rural areas.

"State government understands the need to ensure a sufficient number of physicians in Maryland and they are being very proactive to prevent a crisis from occurring," stated Battista. "The Western Maryland Delegation, as well as the Maryland Rural Caucus, is keenly aware of the importance of this issue and they are doing everything possible to ensure all areas of the state, especially rural counties, maintain an adequate supply of physicians and other health professionals into the future."

Destruction Of Property Charges Given To Driver

A Rockville man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Tuesday on malicious destruction of property charges.

Through investigation, Mihail Nosov, 21, was discovered to be the owner and operator of a vehicle that traveled over the Thousand Acres golf course, causing severe damage before getting stuck on the ninth hole.

Deputies determined that Nosov was the driver, and he was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a hearing before the District Court commissioner.

BOE To Hold Monthly Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 10, beginning at 6 p.m.

Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets will present the proposed FY2010 budget to the board at 4 p.m. The board will then meet in closed session until 6 p.m.

Public agenda topics include an information update regarding the 2009 Cohort, information on the 2009-10 proposed school calendar, proposed graduation date, and the Maryland Adolescent Survey.

Time is set aside at 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The public is invited to attend.

DP Houses

According to Collins, an unidentified female was transported to the hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation, and a Deer Park firefighter was also taken to the hospital after sustaining an ankle injury.

Collins said that the house was destroyed, but had no estimate of the loss. Units and personnel remained on the scene for about two hours.

Kitzmiller Man Sentenced For Assault Charge

An 18-year-old Kitzmiller man was sentenced to five years in the Division of Corrections for a second degree assault charge. All but 18 months of Cory Allen Lipscomb's sentence was suspended.

He will serve his time in the Garrett County Jail and will be on probation when he is released.

Lipscomb was arrested and charged in July 2008 by sheriff's deputies, who were called to an Oakland area residence for a reported destruction of property. The homeowner had returned from being out of town and found damage to his vehicles and garage door. Investigation revealed that the damage was caused during a series of altercations that had occurred at the residence the prior evening and earlier that morning.

A group of young men had gathered at the residence, and an altercation had occurred that resulted in three guests being asked to leave. Several hours later, two of those men, as well as

ANOTHER BIG PRIZE that will be awarded at the 2009 Mega Bash of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will be this John Deere X320 with snow blower and mower deck, provided by Manor Home Center, Mtn. Lake Park. Pictured with the machine are Kristle Kitzmiller of Manor Home Center and OVFD chief John Feather, co-chair of the Mega Bash. The event will be held at the fire hall on Saturday, March 14. Cash and prizes will be awarded every 2 1/2 minutes from noon until 6 p.m. A number of other large prizes will be awarded, including a grand prize of $10,000 in cash. Ticket holders, who will have the chance to win multiple times, will also be provided free food and beverages throughout the day. Tickets are available for $100 each at Winner's Circle, JG's Pub, Giotfelty Lumber, Little Sandy's Restaurant, Pawn Run Saloon, Mike Frazee Trucking, Bill's Marine Service, Backbone Mtn. Sports Shop, and Mtn. Top Cigro in Thomas, W.Va. Persons may also contact Chief Feather at 301-616-3776 or co-chair Denny Murray at 301-616-8455 for ticket information, or ask any other member of the OVFD.

Lipscomb and several more associates, returned to the residence and various assaults occurred, according to the state's attorney.

Lipscomb was charged after the investigating officer interviewed witnesses who identified Lipscomb as the person who struck the victim in this case, leaving him unconscious and with facial and mouth injuries for which he continues to receive medical treatment.

Lawmakers, Advocates Push To Insure All Maryland Children

by Erich Wagner
Annapolis — Lawmakers and advocates urged the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday to pass a bill that would require health care for all Maryland children.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Rob Garagiola, D-Montgomery, would require that parents provide health care for their children and allow families who make more than 300 percent of the federal poverty level — about $66,000 a year for a family of four — to buy into the Maryland Children's Health Program.

Garagiola said this requirement would be a "soft mandate," enacted primarily as an education and outreach program, because 100,000 of the 140,000 children in the state without health insurance are already eligible for existing state health care programs. The goal is to make sure families know about and take advantage of these programs, he said.

The mandate would take effect in 2010, but the enforcement statute — a $25 tax penalty for single filers and $50 for joint filers — would not occur until the 2012 tax season and would sunset in 2013.

The Maryland Children's Health Program provides health care to poor families at a significant discount. Under current law, families living at up to 300 percent of the federal poverty level are eligible, and if passed, families who make more would be eligible to buy in at about $170 per child per month, according to the Maryland Health Care Commission.

The legislation would also require the Maryland Health Care Commission, the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the Maryland Insurance Administration to file reports with the General Assembly in 2011 and 2013 outlining recommendations for further education and outreach, as well as possible while impaired by alcohol. Sherbin sentenced Moats to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail. Moats was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in April 2008 after they completed an investigation into a motor vehicle accident that occurred in Loch Lynn in January. Deputies were responding to a call that resulted in a child abuse investigation when a vehicle was observed in a snow bank in Loch Lynn. Persons at the location to where the officers were originally responding advised that Moats had been at the residence, was drinking, and had left in a friend's vehicle.

It was determined that Moats fled because there was an outstanding warrant for his arrest. Moats later admitted that he was driving the car when it was wrecked, the state's attorney said.

In an unrelated case, charges of burglary and assault against William Obadiah Cowgill, 35, Oakland, were dismissed by the state. Cowgill was arrested and charged in September 2008 by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who were called to the residence of Cowgill's estranged wife.

Cowgill had allegedly broken into the residence and assaulted his spouse and a friend, the state's attorney said. Both victims later requested that the state's attorney not go forward, as the Cowgills had since reconciled.

Garagiola said he has heard concerns about the requirement to provide children with health insurance, but that the bill has broad support from health care providers and senators.

Health care advocates said having more children insured will reduce overall costs.

"For asthmatic kids, four times as many uninsured asthmatic children are hospitalized [than insured asthmatic children], and twice as many utilize the hospital emergency department for an acute asthma attack," said Diane Briggs, director of external affairs for the Primary Care Coalition of Montgomery County.

Dr. Virginia Keane, Pegen Townsend, senior vice president of legislative policy for the Maryland Hospital Association, called the legislation an incremental step towards covering everybody in the state. "Not only will [the bill] incentivize those parents in that next level of income to purchase insurance for their children," Townsend said. "But in addition, it will also help flush out those who are currently eligible for the Medicaid program and who are not right now enrolled."

Michael Sullivan, director of communications for CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield, said his company supports the legislation, and that it is "an embarrassment" that 140,000 children in the state go without health insurance.

Dr. Virginia Keane, Pegen Townsend, sen-chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics, said she supported the bill, but had reservations about whether the Maryland Children's Health Program would be affordable for families making more than 300 percent of the poverty level. She fears they would choose to buy cheaper children's insurance programs with poor benefits.

"We are most concerned that families may opt to purchase these low-cost programs that are basically catastrophic programs that have very high deductibles, that have very high co-pays, and really don't give kids the access to the care they need," Keane said.

Still Harping...

"So now the state would electrify our mountains and turn the Berkshires into the Land of the Giant Turbines.... This is a bad idea at best, with so many arguments against it that it's hard to know where to begin, other than to suggest that state (Mass.) Secretary of Environmental Affairs Ian Bowles be run out of state on a high-speed rail. We won't have to do that. It will be done by numerous environmental organizations that have already spent years stalling any wind developments from private developers. Imagine their motivation now that the state wants to get into the act - and wants to target conservation land, wildlife corridors, and hitherto pristine scenic views.

"Getting serious, Mr. Bowles has suggested the idea of creating 947 megawatts of wind energy on state-owned lands is only a starting off point for 'discussion.' Let's hope so. Because tearing up our mountainsides for access roads and grid connections is going to cause quite a bit of consternation throughout our local communities. We had best watch that we don't get steamrolled by the corporations that stand to profit from state and federal subsidies - and the eager beavers in the Patrick (governor of Mass.) and Obama administrations who want to make a name for themselves with renewable energy. The state will likely try to lure us with promises of payments in lieu of taxes, but better check the fine print on that and examine the track record....

"We would also point out that all the wind farms in California haven't caused one fossil-fuel plant to go off-line."

The above are excerpts of an editorial that appeared in the North Adams Transcript in Massachusetts, a publication that has been around longer than this one (1846), and appears to be very much middle of the road politically. The words certainly should ring a bell in the ears of Garrett County residents, who are faced with exactly the same wind-turbine scenario.

We hate to use this column to keep harping about this issue, as there are a number of other worthy topics deserving of some published opinion. However, the stakes are simply too high. Once the ground is broken for the first turbine in Garrett County, there will be virtually no stopping the invasion. The risk is too great. There are far too many troubling questions and concerns about the technology.

It is obvious that our own commissioners are doing nothing to try to get meaningful restrictions and regulations in place before the first turbines are erected. In fact, by their opposition to the Edwards and Beitzel bills calling for these controls at the state level, they are endorsing a full-speed-ahead for the wind industry in Garrett County, seriously threatening our property values and, therefore, our entire economy, to say nothing of the questionable efficiency and dependability of the product. It's too bad that this is not an election year.

The places recommended to us by Mr. Lennon to receive continued services were: the Mental Health Center in Frostburg, Dr. John Yarbrough, the Garrett County Health Department, Casselman Counseling Consortium, Craig Abrahamson, Burlington United Methodist Family Services, Stewart Callis, Dove Center, Garrett County Lighthouse, Nancy Elizabeth Nimnich, Sherry O'Shell, and Skyeia Holistic Services.

In my search to find help for my family and me, with the recommendations of Mr. Lennon, this is what I found:

Pretty much other than the Garrett County Health Department, almost all of the others recommended to us are out of traveling range for Garrett County residents, private therapists who take only private insurance, or do not offer the services we require.

It is my personal opinion that the Mental Health Center could have handled things a lot differently than closing the center. After the decision was made, Mr. Lennon and Mrs. Shannan Spencer should have met with us consumers at the center out of respect, compassion, professionalism before the cold, confusing letter was sent out to us.

What they displayed was cold and harsh, with no human compassion of any kind shown.

Mr. Lennon, we need real recommendations, not false-hope deadends.

A wise lady once told me that a small voice can be heard through a whisper. I pray that a small voice in me is heard, and that this does not happen to any other person or family that does not have many options in life. Options should include evening and weekend counseling, and therapists who can see clients once or twice a week instead of just once a month, and that offers options after school and after work.

To the Editor:

County commissioner Fred Holliday recently gave a presentation to the Maryland Association of Counties about the benefits of wind projects, extending his role both as a shill for one of the dumbest energy ideas imaginable and as a business partner with perhaps the most craven, exploitative limited liability companies around. Even county commissioners are entitled to their opinions, pretending to know what they do not. But elected officials are supposed to make public policy based on factual information, not the ballyhoo of corporate propaganda.

In the spirit of informed policy and better government, I challenge Holliday to a public debate on the issue, which he and his associates have avoided for years. However, here he can reveal how these wind LLCs provide security for their promises of local revenues, taxes, and jobs. And he can show property owners who live within two miles of wind projects how their property values will be enhanced next to massive industrial development. And he can assure residents that the county will indemnify anyone who experiences unlawful noise. And he can demonstrate that the county or the wind LLCs have provided sufficient revenues to decommission wind turbines after a wind project's public subsidies run out, likely in the neighborhood of hundreds of thousands per turbine and concrete pad in today's dollars.

He can join with the country's new president Obama and that icon of civic virtue, T. Boone Pickens, to document how a highly variable energy source can become a significant part of our electricity production while reducing its cost. (I'd love to hear Holliday discuss how we get electricity.) If so, he has done more than I could do after more than a year as an intervener with the Maryland PSC. For I couldn't corroborate a single claim, even when the wind developers and their hirelings were placed on the stand under oath.

Garrett Countians should be embarrassed by someone whom they elected to represent them and their basic values, then sells them and the county's heritage out for something he doesn't understand, especially the county's sportsmen, who, if wind development takes hold under Holliday's "leadership," will be presented with substantially reduced hunting opportunities and degraded habitat.

To those property owners targeted by wind development, I suggest they contact the commissioner, demanding to see his Power-Point show, so they can better understand how his promotion of this energy snake oil scheme will improve the quality of their lives.

To the Editor:

Well, well! To my dismay, it seems that for the second year in a row, our rookie representative in Annapolis has chosen to play the role of "loose cannon on the deck!"

Last year it was the sign bill that he wanted to introduce, without any local input, that if passed would have created an outright ban on advertising signs bordering all public highways in this county.

want to thank our commissioners for shooting down both of these proposals. Furthermore, the record still shows that no one has ever been elected, much less re-elected, to public office here in Garrett County by telling our citizens that what they need in their lives is more government regulation, especially when those regulations diminish private property rights.

CREDIT RATES AND RISKS (Sixth in a series) by William Welch

Last week we saw that our credit scores determine whether or not we get credit. This week we'll see that credit score also determines the cost of credit, and that the cost of credit is just one factor in determining whether conditions of credit justify taking the risks of credit.

For example, an individual with a credit score of 800 might borrow money at 5% interest, while a person with a credit score of 600 might have to pay 8% to borrow money. Risk has two sides like a coin. One side is risk to the lender. The other side is risk to the borrower. The higher the credit score is, the lower the risk to the lender should be, which means lower interest rates for low risk borrowers with high credit scores. On the other side of the risk coin, borrowers with low credit scores are higher risk borrowers who can expect to pay higher interest rates.

Most loans are for set periods of time. In a set period the higher the interest rate is, the higher the monthly payment will be. By using a budget you can see whether or not you can afford to pay back a loan easily or with a little bit of stress, or if everything has to go right to pay back the loan. These differences are different levels of risk to you and to the lender. If you pay back a loan with no late payments and on time, your credit score should go up. If you miss payments or don't pay back a loan, then your credit score will go down.

But you can see that by creating a budget and then figuring how credit payments affect your spending, it is real clear where your money is going and why it is going there. If you spend credit payment money on credit, you are fine. If you spend money on movies that should go to pay back loans, then you have problems. Credit is not free.

You can get more information from your bank, from the library, or online. Always get professional advice before borrowing money or taking credit.

HUMANE SOCIETY STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF SPAY/NEUTER - This litter of 10 puppies was brought to the Garrett County Animal Shelter by their owner earlier this winter. After more than a week, however, only one pup was adopted locally. Because the shelter was full and people were not interested in adopting large breed black dogs, HART for Animals took the remaining puppies elsewhere to be adopted. "This is why pet owners should have their pets spayed or neutered," said Garrett County Humane Society president Lisa Baker. "There simply are not enough adopters for all the dogs and cats that come into our shelter." Her group recently distributed 100 discount vouchers to help county residents get their pets spayed or neutered. See story.

Garrett Co. Humane Society Hands Out 100 Vouchers In Record Time

by Lisa Baker, GCHS president
Garrett County Humane Society member Ellen Green arrived at the county animal shelter early last Thursday in preparation to hand out 100 spay/neuter vouchers. Upon arrival she observed a line of people all the way up to the shelter's front door.
Once the doors were opened at 9 a.m., the lobby remained full most of the day up until the 2:30 p.m. cutoff time.

This year, 92 vouchers were given out on Thursday - the most we've ever distributed in one day - and we only had 100 on hand.
We are always happy that there are pet owners who are willing to have their pets altered, even when they have to stand in line for a voucher. Most everyone who got one said "thank-you," and that is nice since we work hard all year to raise the money used for the vouchers.

On Friday, there were not as many people coming in, but we gave out another 28 vouchers. The shelter and Humane Society members are still getting phone calls about the vouchers, but we have to see how much money we have left after our February bills are paid.
We appreciate the GC Animal Shelter staff for letting us use the lobby every year to distribute the vouchers. This way, it gives residents a chance to visit the shelter and to see in person how many homeless animals are there. In a way, this should reinforce why owners need to follow through with having their pets spayed or neutered.

Every year in the United States, 4 million homeless animals are euthanized, according to Humane Society of the U.S. statistics.
In Garrett County alone last year, at least 500 of the 1,300 animals brought to the shelter were "put down." Some were because of illness or aggression, but others were euthanized because there are more animals than adopters in the county.

One bright spot in the midst of this situation is that HART for Animals rescued over 600 animals last year and took them elsewhere to be adopted. Plus, the GCHS and PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety) has assisted hundreds of county residents with getting their pets altered, which helps reduce the homeless animal problem.

If you would like to donate to our spay/neuter program, you can mail your donation to GCHS Treasurer, 1124 Mary Drive, Oakland, MD.

The Garrett County Humane Society is a volunteer, nonprofit organization that helps neglected and homeless animals.

Helbig To Seek Re-Election To Oakland Council

Terry Helbig has announced his intent to seek re-election to the Oakland City Council. The town election is slated for Monday, March 9.

Helbig served as a council member throughout most of the 1980s and returned to that service two years ago. He is the Broadford Park commissioner and serves on the street and water committees.

He is a member and past president of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, board member of the Garrett County Historical Society, member of the Greater Oakland Business Association, and associate member of Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition.

The candidate owns and operates the Helbig Insurance Agency in Oakland and previously owned Gonder Insurance Agency.

"It has been an honor to serve the citizens of Oakland these past two years," Helbig said. "I have always been accessible to the people of Oakland and tried to be of assistance with their issues and problems."

Riley Announces Candidacy For Town Council

Jack C. Riley has recently announced his candidacy for Oakland Town Council.

A two-year veteran of Oakland politics, he is one of the newest members serving on the current town council. His mother, the late Frances C. Riley, was a long-serving councilwoman for the town of Oakland.

Reared in Oakland, Riley attended Dennett Road Elementary School and graduated from Southern High School. He attended Garrett Community College and Frostburg State College, where he graduated with a B.S. in education and earned the Distinguished Military Graduate recognition.

He served in the U.S. Army, before retiring as a Lt. col. and moving his family back to Oakland. He and wife Libby have three children. His oldest son Taylor is married and serves in the U.S. Army in Germany. Kaytie is a senior at Southern High School, and youngest son Aryne is a sophomore at Southern.

Riley is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church and serves on the board of directors for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity and the Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club. He is also an active member of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club.

Riley believes that some of the responsibilities of the mayor and town council are to serve everyone in the community equally, plan for the future, expand the size of Oakland through smart and cautious annexation, assist volunteer and service organizations, and initiate projects as grant money becomes available.

"I have called Oakland my home for over 40 years," said Riley. "I have worked hard for our town for the past two years and I would appreciate the opportunity to do so again."

Grantsville Man Sentenced For Sexual Offense

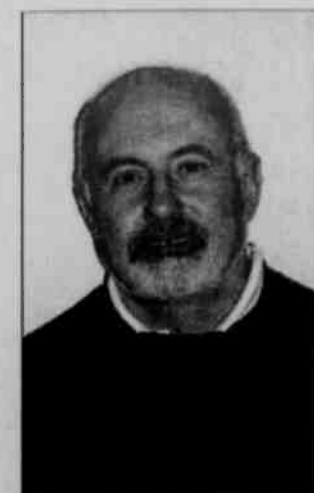

A 24-year-old Grantsville man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for a third degree sexual offense. Michael Wayne Wilburn Jr. received two years in the Division of Corrections.

All but six months of the sentence was suspended, and Wilburn will serve the balance in the Garrett County Jail. He will be on probation upon his release and will have to register as a child sexual offender.

Wilburn was arrested by Maryland State Police in September 2008 after investigators determined he had had inappropriate relations with an underage person at a Grantsville area residence in August.

Wilburn pleaded guilty in January, and sentencing was postponed until a presentence investigation report was completed.

Moyer Announces Candidacy For Oakland Council

Jay Moyer has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Oakland Town Council. He is a 22-year veteran of the Oakland council, making him the longest serving councilperson in the history of the town.

Reared in Oakland, the candidate is the oldest son of Jerry and Dolores Moyer of Oakland. He is married to Joyce Callis Moyer, and is an active member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, where he serves on the congregational council. He retired from the town of Oakland after 32 years of service, and is presently employed with the Garrett County government as the general roads superintendent.

"We (the mayor and town council) work to serve everyone in the community equally," Moyer said. "We have not raised taxes in over 20 years. We are always planning for the future. We have more than doubled the size of Oakland through annexation."

Moyer said the council has a policy to assist volunteer and service organizations such as the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, the Garrett County Historical Society, the American Red Cross, the American Legion, and others. He said projects are initiated as grant money becomes available.

"I have been a resident of Oakland for more than 50 years," Moyer said. "I have worked hard for our town for the past 22 years, and I would appreciate the opportunity to do so again. I would be happy to discuss any issues or answer any questions members of the public may have."

"With the potential economic downturn faced by the state and local governments, it is important that voters elect experienced leaders who understand their responsibility to protect the interests of the citizens they represent. I would appreciate your vote on March 9."

GCHD Notes Colorectal Cancer Awareness Mo.; Promotes Testing

March is Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month, as announced by the Garrett County Health Department. The agency is promoting early testing for the illness, as well as providing information about it to the public this month.

The American Cancer Society (ACS) projected approximately 149,000 new colorectal cancer cases in the United States in 2008, and it estimated about 50,000 individuals would die from the cancer. In Maryland, the ACS estimated 2,920 new cases and 940 deaths in 2008.

"Many people do not know that early colorectal cancer screening can save lives," a spokesperson said. "What people don't know could hurt them or their loved ones. Therefore, people should challenge themselves and the ones they love to get colorectal cancer screening before it is too late."

Despite the benefits of early screening, fewer than 4 in 10 cases of colorectal cancer are caught in an early stage, the spokesperson noted. Many individuals are not getting colorectal cancer screening. In fact, about 1 in 5 people ages 50 years and over in Maryland have never been tested for colorectal cancer.

The ACS recommends screening for everyone ages 50 years and over, and before 50 years of age for people with a personal or family history of colorectal cancer or adenomatous polyps (small growths that can turn into cancer), and individuals with a history of inflammatory bowel disease (ulcerative colitis, Crohn colitis).

Women with cancer of the ovary or endometrium (womb) before the age of 50 should also start screening earlier.

There are several tests available. The most common test used is colonoscopy, where a physician uses a flexible tube with a light to look inside the large intestines, or gut, to find cancer or to find and remove polyps before they can turn into cancer.

Before a patient's colonoscopy, the colon must be clean so the doctor can see inside of the entire organ. To do this, the patient is instructed to take a laxative and to go on a clear liquid diet one to two days before the test. Just before the test, the patient is given sedation medications. After the test,

HELPING TO SEND "LOVE IN A SHOE BOX" - Several area residents traveled to North Carolina this past December to help with the Operation Christmas Child project. The project is associated with Samaritan's Purse, a ministry started by Franklin Graham. Volunteers helped to check and pack shoe boxes full of gifts and necessities for children in need around the world. Local volunteers were instrumental in helping send out over 500,000 gift boxes from the distribution centers in Boone and Charlotte, N.C. More than 2,400 gift boxes were collected in Garrett County and sent to the area collection site in Keyser, W.Va. More than 9,000 gift boxes were sent from Keyser to the distribution center in North Carolina, and the final number was nearly 8 million shoe boxes full of gifts, distributed to the patient is sent home, although he/she will need a driver. "Although colonoscopy is safe, all medical procedures involve some risk," the spokesperson noted.

HART Parries "Economy Blues" With Local Business Partnerships

As the economy contracted more than expected in the last quarter of 2008, non-profits are looking for creative ways to fundraise. For HART for Animals, creativity comes in the form of partnerships with local businesses, which will both raise funds and introduce Garrett County businesses to the organization's donors and supporters.

As explained by HART president Michael Pellet, HART's Business Partnerships provide value to the local partnered businesses by integrating them into the HART web page and mailings, as well as by showcasing them at HART events.

HART's web site introduces the business partners by offering potential new clients a coupon that has a dual purpose: It provides a discount for the business product or service, and identifies the coupon user as a HART referral. For each new client obtained through HART, the business will make a donation to HART.

HART will select only one business in each product or service category so that there is no competition between any of its business partners.

HART's first business partner, which is being showcased on the HART web site this month, is the Dental Health Group in Oakland, owned by Dr. William Yant and Dr. Tim Longest.

"We selected this practice because we knew first-hand how excellent they were," Pellet explained about the choice of the Dental Health Group. "Their technology is the most advanced I have ever seen, and they combine that with tremendous professionalism at all levels."

Other partners currently on the web site are Bello's Portraits, located in downtown Oakland, Kindred Spirits of Grantsville, and Trilogy's HealthyPetNet online. Patronizing any of these businesses will result in a specific amount donated to HART. Coupons for these businesses or links, can be obtained by visiting HART's web page ners" on the index.

Dr. Yant pointed out that HART's Business Partnership initiative has multiple advantages "to the community because it fosters a spirit of cooperation, so essential in difficult economic times to the organization, because it provides them with donations at a time when most donors are holding on to their cash, and to the business, because it introduces them to a client base outside their marketing strategy."

Concerned Citizens

The Maryland Energy Resources, LLC (an affiliate of the Joseph Peles Coal Company), is proposing a 3,040 acre coal mining operation along and under the Casselman River in Grantsville, MD. A town meeting is being held to discuss elements of this mining application on March 12, 2009, at 7:00 pm. This town meeting will be held at the Grantsville Town Council Chambers, located at 171 Hill Street in Grantsville, Maryland 21536. In the case of inclement weather, the meeting will be rescheduled to March 18 at the same location and time.

Here's what you need to know about the proposed Casselman River basin coal mine:

- The proposed mining application requests the permission to pump between 500,000 to 750,000 gallons of water from the ground on a DAILY basis. To put it in perspective, 600,000 gallons of water, pumped from the ground every day, represents the amount of water required to fill 9,954 Olympic size swimming pools over the life time of this proposed mining activity. This is the equivalent of a swimming pool that is 4.8 square miles in size (3,072 acres). This volume of water drawn from our community's aquifer/ground water source could dramatically impact the quality and availability of well water within and beyond the proposed 3040 acre mining area. Furthermore, a loss of quality well water associated with this activity would certainly affect the real estate property values for local residents.
- The proposed mine plan includes tunneling under the Casselman River at several points. This delicate trout fishing estuary is a valuable source of outdoor recreation in Garrett County. There are many concerns about the potential impacts of tunneling under this valuable natural resource.
- The proposed mining site design requires the direct encroachment and adverse impact of sensitive wetlands.
- The proposed site design requires the encroachment of the protective environmental setback buffers along the Casselman River. This encroachment would potentially remove or diminish a safety buffer that protects the watershed from an environmental accident such as a chemical spill or a treatment pond containment breach.
- The estimated traffic impact from this operation is believed to be 100 coal trucks passing per day. This equates to (1) coal hauling truck, potentially loaded with 22,000 pounds of coal, traveling on our community roads every 10 minutes. If you compound this industrial traffic flow with normal school bus and commuter traffic, there arise many concerns about the congestion and safety of our county roads. It is believed that the mining company is retaining the right to go into a 24 hour/3 work shift operation.
- Due to the grade of the surrounding county roads (Durst Rd, Amish Rd, and MD Rte 495), it is anticipated that the noise generated by this traffic would approach the effective noise level of an interstate highway to the surrounding community. A noise nuisance of this type would clearly impact housing values and the quality of life in the surrounding area.
- Due to the proximity of the mining haul road to the Casselman River bridge (on Durst Rd) and riparian water bodies, it is feared that the dust from this excessive industrial traffic and coal mining operation would negatively impact the water quality, as well as the local air quality.
- The mining company representatives have admitted to participating in discussions associated with the potential construction of a coal burning power plant on or near the same site along the Casselman River.
- The mining site is directly adjacent to a sensitive conservation area operated by the Patuxent Conservation Corps, a Maryland Land Trust. The Maryland Dept. of Natural Resources - Bureau of Mines has already invested more than $150,000 of taxpayer dollars in reclaiming this site after a previous mining activity left the site an environmental disaster. The Maryland Dept. of Natural Resources - Maryland Environmental Trust jointly holds the environmental easement associated with this riparian parcel in partnership with the Patuxent Conservation Corps. This easement was granted to the State of Maryland due to the proximity to the Casselman River. Though much improved, this site is still recovering from this legacy mining activity. It is very concerning that a new mining application has been submitted involving the same branch of the Casselman River that was severely impacted from the previous mining activity.
- The Boy Scouts of America regularly use the parcel adjacent to this proposed mining site for numerous scouting activities. Should the proposed mining application be approved as written, this site would no longer be suitable for use as part of the scouting outdoor program.

Should you share any of these concerns, we encourage you to attend the above public meeting.

Teen Writing Club Welcomes Guest Author To Class

FRANK BITTINGER

Teens in Oakland Ruth Enlow Library's Creative Writing/Art Club were recently visited by author Frank Bittinger. A resident of Cumberland, Bittinger grew up in Grantsville and writes novels in the Gothic horror tradition. He was a top 10 finalist in the Predators & Editors Readers Poll in 2007, and his novels are on Amazon's Top 100 Horror List.

Bittinger spoke to the group about his writing process, how he became a writer, and how he became published. "You create entire worlds, populate them with creatures and other characters, and you control every detail," he stated. "This is the power of writing."

"Getting inspired can sometimes be hard for me," said club member Karen Bonser, "but after I met Frank Bittinger, it really wasn't hard at all for me to be encouraged to write... In the middle of the class, I got a great idea for a story and have even begun to write it. It was an amazing experience."

Bittinger's newest book, Angels of the Mourning List, will be released in June 2009. Into the Mirror Black, his first novel, will be reissued in October, with new edits and cover art. It is set in western Maryland, where the main character returns after the death of his great-grandmother and finds that he has inherited a Victorian estate complete with family secrets that might better have been left uncovered.

His second book, Angels of the Seventh Dawn, will be reissued in 2010. Portions of the proceeds from his book sales go toward finding homes for abused, unwanted, or neglected animals. More information on Bittinger can be found on his web site at www.frankebittinger.com. He also was featured in the October/November 2008 issue of Allegany Magazine, which is available at the Oakland branch of the library.

in U.S. courtrooms. However, Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Nancy Pelosi are trying hard with other UN bureaucrats who want to discard America's constitution. We wonder about the women's actual nationality. Maybe they just want to show us their equal rights. Most women are trustworthy, but not these two.

For 218 years, American law has been guided by the U.S. Constitution and the genius of the Founding Fathers like James Madison, who wrote our constitution. Several men like Chief Justice John Roberts, Samuel Alito, and others are working just as hard trying to support Judge Roy Moore and battle for the Ten Commandments and religious rights.

We have received petitions to be signed; they need our support. They say that Nancy Pelosi now has President Obama on her side.

The address of Faith and Action is 109 Second St. N.E., Washington, DC 20002.

In Virginia, a preacher was arrested for saying, "In Jesus' name we will pray." We have a deep concern for the young generation. Will they live in an atheist society?

As for now, we will keep on singing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

To the Editor:

Does anyone have any ideas about what can we do about satellite companies assigning Pittsburgh as our "local" television stations? Charles McLaughlin and R. Stricker have written letters to the editor regarding this issue, and I wholeheartedly agree with their concern and aggravation about not being able to get any news on television about the state in which we reside - Maryland! Coverage of our area is desperately needed because we should be informed about political matters, as well as our many weather-related emergencies.

I personally have contacted the FCC and got a document that stated its regulations and policies regarding how and what kind of "local" service satellite providers allow their customers to have. However, it was written in "legalese" and hard for anyone to understand. The FCC does not define what a "local" station is, but does say that it is determined by the satellite companies and Nielsen ratings. The satellite companies say it's determined by the FCC. Everyone seems to be passing the buck on this one, and in the meantime, we're stuck with having to watch Pittsburgh stations.

Would anyone be interested in signing a petition to be forwarded to the satellite companies, as well as our state, local, and congressional representatives? If we only knew who they were - there's no mention of them on the Pittsburgh news!

I'd be happy to assist in getting this resolved, but am really not sure how to get started. If anyone can give me ideas on how to go about changing what we are "forced" to watch on TV, please contact me or send suggestions via another letter to the editor. Perhaps a massive write-in/calling campaign would persuade the satellite companies to provide the kind of service for which their customers are paying.

Thank you.

To the Editor:

We are writing to tell the community how the Loar Auxiliary, a small, all-volunteer organization of fewer than 30 very dedicated members, serves the community through its support of Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH), a 56-bed medical facility in Oakland.

The auxiliary was established in 1952, has grown since, and continues to provide services through operation of the gift shop for employees and staff of the hospital, patients, and other local people. Daily management and operation of the gift shop, plus many fundraisers, including bake sales, jewelry sales, uniform sales, and book sales, provide funding for many projects. All proceeds are given back to the hospital for needed projects and equipment.

Most recently, the Loar Auxiliary funded the start-up cost for the new Wound Care Center, scheduled to open in early spring. A nursing scholarship was also recently established in the name of the auxiliary.

For many years, the auxiliary has been responsible for purchasing art work used throughout the hospital from the Garrett County Arts Council and other independent regional artists; as well as the purchase of a CT scan machine, baby monitors, wheel chairs, "fathers-in-waiting" recliner chairs, and lobby and emergency room redecorating.

The recent renovation of the Cup-o-Joe Coffee Shop was accomplished by a committee of auxiliary members and the help of several local businesses and artisans who donated much of their personal time and, in some cases, the materials to complete the project.

Loar Auxiliary is always searching for new members who are willing to give at least 3-4 hours a week to help our cause. You will be rewarded with the gratitude of the many people receiving our services. If interested in joining, you may call the Gift Shop at 301-533-4045, or stop by the shop to ask for an application.

GCMH Loar Auxiliary Executive Committee: Betty Wolford, President; Denise Shay, Vice President; Lisa Malone, Secretary; Gerald E. Gank, Treasurer; Phyllis Gank, Schedule Coordinator.

Rams Win Regional Crown; Sending Eight To State Event

Qualifying eight wrestlers, including four regional champions, for this weekend's Maryland state championships, the Southern High School wrestling team powered its way to the team title in the 1A/2A West Region Tournament, hosted Friday and Saturday by Catoclin High School.

The Rams, coached by Dave Taylor, amassed 162 points in the 19-team tourney, while Winters Mill finished second with 134.5 points, followed by Catoclin, Middletown, and Francis Scott Key.

It was the third straight regional championship for the Rams.

The Northern High Huskies, under Coach Scott Stough, placed eighth with 63 points, had two individual champions, and qualified three grapplers for the state event.

Leading the Rams with individual titles were Lex Ozias, Brutus Scheffel, Bubba Scheffel, and Jordan Skipper, while Adam Moranduzzo and Dustin Stough were champions for the Huskies.

Ozias, a state runner-up last year as a freshman, took the title in the 130-pound division when he gained a 5-1 decision over Rion Reiter of South Carroll.

Two-time state champion Brutus Scheffel took the 140-pound title by recording a 16-2 major decision over Gus Mohlenrich of Winters Mill.

Northern had a 15-6 lead after the first quarter, and pushed the score to 33-21 by halftime. After three quarters, the Huskies were up 47-35.

Leading Fort Hill was Lindsey Fisher with 19 points.

"I was impressed with Fort Hill's intensity," Yoder added. "They did a good job of slowing us down, and really controlled the offensive rebounds to get a lot of second chances."

The championship game will be the third time Northern and Allegany have faced off, with the Huskies as the only local team to beat Allegany this season.

Create a Strategy for Maturing CDs.

Some things, like fine wines, get better with age. But a certificate of deposit (CD) is not one of them. If you have a maturing CD, you need to decide what to do with it, and the earlier you make the decision, the better off you'll be. So if you've got one or more CDs coming due in the next few months, start planning now.

Of course, if you had a specific goal for a maturing CD such as a college tuition payment your decision has already been made. But if you've purchased a CD for another reason, you'll have to choose whether to renew it or invest the proceeds elsewhere.

If you bought the CD for the income it provides, you may want to renew it. If prevailing interest rates are the same, or higher, than the rate on your maturing CD, you can purchase a new CD without worrying about reducing your income stream. But if rates have fallen, you may have a dilemma: How can you reproduce the income you received from your now-maturing CD?

Here are a few alternatives to consider. Purchase a bond that pays a higher rate. Instead of buying another CD, you could possibly purchase another fixed-income instrument, such as a bond, that pays a higher interest rate. Be aware, though, that if you find a bond that pays a higher rate, you may be taking on more risk, so make sure any bond you purchase is considered "investment grade quality" by the independent rating agencies.

Buy a longer-term CD. Generally speaking, you can get a higher interest rate when you purchase a longer-term CD. Yet, you may still be locked into a longer-term CD, but it will help provide you with a more stable income stream over time.

Create a fixed-income ladder. To combat interest-rate concerns, you might want to build a fixed-income ladder by buying several CDs of bonds with varying maturities, short term, intermediate-term and long-term. When market rates are low, you'll still have your longer-term vehicles earning higher interest rates. And when market interest rates are high, you can reinvest the maturing short-term bonds and CDs at the higher rates.

Thus far, we've talked about replacing a maturing CD to protect your income stream. But if you bought a CD for another purpose, such as removing some of your money from a volatile stock market, then the CD's maturity gives you a chance to re-evaluate your investment strategy. As you know, 2008 was a tough year for the stock market, so at the time, diverting some of your money to a CD might have seemed smart. But history tells us that even the worst bear markets don't last forever, and the biggest gains in a rally often occur at early stages. Consequently, you may want to take this opportunity to rebalance your portfolio, and if appropriate for your individual situation, look for ways to invest the proceeds of your CD into quality equities or other securities.

By planning ahead, you won't feel rushed to make a hasty decision when your CD matures or, even worse, be tempted to spend the money and have little to show for it. Your maturing CD can help you achieve your financial goals if you give it a chance.

Lakers Top Frederick, Lose To Trojans In Region XX Finale

After leading by eight points at intermission, 34-26, and being up by as many as 11 points early in the second half, the Garrett college men's basketball team could not survive a rally in the second half of the Region XX championship game against Allegany College of Maryland, as the Lakers saw their season come to an end with a 74-62 defeat Sunday afternoon.

Seeded third in the four-team tourney, Coach Dennis Gibson's squad earned a spot in the finals by topping host and second seed Hagerstown on Saturday, 94-86, while the AC Trojans made it to the final round by rolling fourth-seeded Frederick in Saturday's other semifinal, 96-70.

The Lakers took their biggest lead of the game in the first five minutes of the second half. They were on top 45-37 with 11:35 to play, and following an 8-1 run, led 53-47 with 5:43 remaining.

The Laker lead was cut to one point via a basket by Ru White at the 4:14 mark, and the Trojans took a 53-

Francis "Mo" Gunn gave the Lakers their last lead of the contest with a pair of foul shots at the 3:56 mark, which made it 55-34.

The Trojans then went on an 8-1 run of their own and held a 62-55 advantage with 1:52 to play, and the Lakers never seriously threatened from that time on.

"Both teams played hard, and I think our late game on Saturday hurts us," said Coach Gibson. "But I'm proud of our bunch of no-name kids. You play to get to the title game and then see what happens."

Gunn led the Lakers in scoring with 15 points. Jeffery Lewis and Rodney Clark finished with 12 and 10, respectively. Lewis had six rebounds. Brian Koonce just missed double figures with nine points.

"Garrett played good team defense and outplayed and out-hustled us in the first half," said AC coach Mike Baker. "We didn't rebound and made a lot of mistakes. But we kept playing hard and our conditioning came through."

Granger led the Trojans with a game-high 16 points and pulled down 11 rebounds, while White also had a double-double with 14 points and 10 boards. Steven Shepp and Malik Witten also reached double figures with 10 points each.

Garrett's Gunn and Clark were named to the all-tournament team, along with Allegany's White and Granger, Jordan Brooks of Hagerstown, and Mitchell Weedon of Frederick. White was the tournament MVP.

The Trojans will now host the four-team District III tournament this weekend, with the winner advancing to the NJCAA National Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. The Trojans

Marcus Powell and Nick Caito had two hits apiece for Frederick.

Each team had only four hits and no earned runs in the second game, as Brandon Piper tossed the first five innings for the Lakers without allowing an earned run, and Jason Ashby got the save over the final two frames.

Scott Wilson had a double and a single, and Tetrick and Dan Olszewski each had a single for the Lakers.

Garrett managed just five singles yesterday off Allegany pitcher Andy Lytle, who went the distance for the Trojans, striking out 11 and walking only two.

Meanwhile, the Trojans battered five Laker pitchers for 17 hits, with Ethan

Oakland T-Ball Sign-up Slated

A makeup day to sign up for Oakland Little League T-ball/minor league has been scheduled for Thursday, March 12, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Oakland armory.

To be eligible to play, a child must be at least 5 years old by April 30, 2009. Persons with questions may call 301-334-2009.

Glottfelty Seeded Sixth Going Into National Event

The NCAA released its brackets for the 2009 NCAA Division III Championships, and McDaniel College's Brock Glottfelty, Grantsville, is seeded sixth nationally in the heavyweight division.

Competition will begin at the U.S. Cellular Center in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, this Friday and continue through Saturday.

Glottfelty, a 2005 graduate of Northern High School, enters the championship with a personal record of 35-1 overall for this season and has won his last 12 bouts since his season-opening 23-match winning streak was snapped by top-seeded Kyle Bilquist of Delaware Valley.

Glottfelty won the Centennial Conference championship at heavyweight on Feb. 21 with a 3-0 day that included his conference-leading 20th and 21st pins of the season.

He is the Green Terror's 37th wrestler to qualify for the NCAA championship and will attempt to be the eighth to become an All-American. If he advances to Saturday's competition, he would be guaranteed a finish of no lower than eighth place and would garner All-America honors.

Newton collecting four of them, including a double and three singles. He drove in two runs and scored three himself.

Sam Watkins finished with four RBI on four singles. A.J. Czap recorded three singles and three RBI. Jerry Lloyd plated three runs with a double and fielder's choice, and Luis Lopez provided a double and a single for one RBI.

The only multiple hitter for the Lakers was Brett Martin, who had two singles.

The win was the second in three games for the Trojans.

Feeding Nation Starts With WIC, Hopkins Professor Tells Congress

by Lauren C. Williams
Capital News Service
WASHINGTON — Johns Hopkins University professor Dr. David Paige told senators Wednesday that a healthy America starts with healthy women, infants and children.

Paige, with other nutrition and health advocates, testified before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry. He told Chairman Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, and Sens. Saxby Chambliss, R-Ga., and Robert Casey, D-Pa., that the Women, Infants and Children feeding program is the way to improve children's nutrition in and out of school during the economic downturn.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture's child nutrition programs are a tremendous opportunity to make a lasting impact on the nutrition and eating habits of our children," Harkin said. "A stronger, targeted investment in those programs must be a part of a comprehensive federal response to poor nutrition among our children."

Panelists included executive directors Kenneth Hecht for the California Food Policy Advocates and Lucy Nolan from End Hunger Connecticut.

Paige, an expert in community health and maternal and child nutrition, suggested that broadening the federally funded WIC program to include families earning up to 185 percent of the federal poverty level and all Medicaid recipients would move the program toward its "promise of covering all eligible women, infants and children."

In 2007, Maryland's WIC program served more than 130,000 women, infants and children each month, according to the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Family Health Administration.

The WIC program, according to the DHMH Web site, provides healthy supplemental foods and nutrition counseling for pregnant women, new mothers, infants and children under age 5.

"We have to be smarter about the way we run this program," said Paige, director of the WIC program at Johns Hopkins University Hospital.

WIC, a division of the USDA, has proven to be "extraordinarily cost effective" and has reduced the number of low-birth-weight and premature infants for those in the program, said Paige, who designed and implemented a supplemental feeding program used, in turn, as a template for WIC's Special Supplemental Nutrition program.

"WIC represents the nation's most successful nutrition program addressing the needs of the most economically disadvantaged," Paige said.

The number of children living in poverty has increased by 15 percent, or nearly 2 million, from 2000 to 2007, he said.

"Poverty, in general, results in poor health," said Paige, who is also on the Maryland State WIC advisory panel.

"We're not clever about the way we apply (nutritional programs) in the lower-tiered populations," said Paige. "We need federal standards and guidance."

In addition to extending care to more women and children, Paige suggested:

- States should certify children for up to one year in the program to increase opportunities for nutritional intervention.

- Integrating WIC with other health services to better target nutrition and health education and reducing paper work and unnecessary testing.

- Elimination of duplicative administrative and clinical services, such as redundant testing, to make the program more efficient.

The nation needs an approach that addresses nutrition and health disparities in a language that can permeate all communities with an emphasis on prevention and education, Paige said.

Virus Being

Despite implementation of a successful one-dose vaccination program, the number of varicella cases has remained constant or declined slightly. Outbreaks have continued to occur, primarily in elementary schools, even though varicella vaccination rates are high, the spokesperson said.

Persons of any age who have never had chickenpox should get varicella vaccine within 3-5 days of exposure to reduce the risk of developing chickenpox. Persons who have been vaccinated and are exposed to a person ill with chickenpox will sometimes develop a mild case. This is considered to be a breakthrough infection and results in a rash appearing as red bumps or blisters of a shorter duration with fewer than fifty lesions.

Children with chickenpox should stay home from school or day care. Up to 10% of children who receive the varicella vaccine may develop a mild rash within 5 to 26 days after immunization; these children may still attend school or day care.

Most chickenpox cases occur in children 1 to 15 years of age, and 95% of people have had chickenpox by their early 20s. The disease is usually mild in otherwise healthy children, but can be more serious in newborns and in adults, the spokesperson noted.

Some people are at risk of serious complications from chickenpox: the unborn fetus of a pregnant woman who develops chickenpox disease, a newborn baby whose mother had an onset of chickenpox 5 days before to 2 days after delivery, any person with a weakened immune system, and any person who acquires chickenpox as an adult.

Chickenpox infection can be prevented with varicella vaccine. The vaccine is recommended for the following:

- Children 12 to 15 months of age (one dose of vaccine) and a second dose at age 4-6 for entry into day care or school. The second dose may be administered at an earlier age as long as the interval between the first and second dose is greater than three months.

- Children who have received only one dose of vaccine and have not had chickenpox infection should receive a second dose. This should be given at least 3 months after the first dose.

- Persons 13 years of age and older who have not had chickenpox and are at high risk for exposure (such as those living in a household with children, teachers, institutional residents and staff, college students, international travelers, etc.), or persons who have close contact with those at high risk for complications from chickenpox. They should receive two doses of vaccine, four to eight weeks apart.

To prevent the spread of chickenpox disease, infected persons are advised to stay away from others until blisters are dry and crusted. Premature infants, immune compromised persons, or pregnant women may need a shot of VZIG (varicella-zoster immune globulin) to prevent chickenpox after exposure. Pregnant women exposed to chickenpox should be evaluated by their doctor as soon as possible after the exposure.

To schedule an appointment for the varicella vaccine or obtain further information, persons may call their own physicians or the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770.

The hearing Wednesday was informational, according to Harkin's spokeswoman, Kate Cyril.

"The committee is weighing all of the legislative options that were presented at the hearing." -30- CNS-03-04-09

Not Attainable

plain and simple," Nelson said. "It's obvious we can't stuff all our new development, all our new jobs into 3 percent of our county land base."

Holliday noted that it is difficult nowadays to expand Priority Funding Areas. According to the Maryland Department of Planning (MDP), counties may designate areas as PFAs if they meet certain guidelines for intended use, availability of plans for sewer and waters systems, and permitted residential density.

The following areas may qualify as PFAs: municipalities; areas inside the Washington and Baltimore beltways; and areas already designated as enterprise zones, neighborhood revitalization areas, heritage areas, and existing industrial land.

Nelson said another standard deals with the number of miles each resident travels for work and shopping purposes.

"It says that [amount] must be reduced by 11.2 percent by the year 2018," Nelson said about the proposed legislation.

He said he wonders how counties would be able to track mileage or implement plans to reduce travel.

"It is a tremendous bill, in my estimation, a very arrogant bill to place this type of burden on counties," Nelson said.

Holliday said if the legislation "goes through as written," Garrett County might as well just shut its Economic Development Department down and get rid of half of Nelson's staff.

"Because everything would just become stymied," the commissioner said. "We couldn't grow at all."

Nelson noted that both the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) and the Maryland Municipal League oppose the legislation. The director said he had submitted comments about the legislation to MACo:

The commissioners indicated that Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel would also receive comments about their opposition to the bills.

Hearings on the proposed legislation were held last week in Annapolis. The Senate Environmental Matters

SHRIEKS FILLED THE FRIGID AIR as the 822 Deep Creek Dunk participants took their turns at running into the lake on Saturday. The Maryland State Police and Natural Resources Police again sponsored the zany event, and managed to raise an astounding $165,000 for

DELIGATTI TAKES THE PLUNGE — Mike Deligatti, owner of Uno's and Arrowhead, took part in his very first Deep Creek Dunk, basically in his own back yard.

He completely submerged himself in the icy lake. An unidentified enthusiast is shown at right, obviously psyched up and "well-suited" for the event. Photos by Karlo Gesner.

Committee received verbal and written testimony about SB 878 last Wednesday, and the House Education, Health, and Environmental Matters Affairs Committee reviewed HB 1116 the following day.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said Holliday and Commissioner

Denny Giotfelty traveled to Annapolis on Wednesday to voice their concerns about the legislation and how it would affect the county. In its written testimony

ARE YOU SURE YOU WANT THAT ICE WATER? A group of dunkers are shown as they move toward walking the proverbial plank. The shot gives a great composite of the day's silliness: a "conehead," Mr. Bill, a serious Steelers fan, an apparent leprechaun, and a dude screaming to get himself revved up. The dunk provides the setting for a crazy party, and all for a good cause. The Special Olympics games at Wisp followed last weekend's dunk, with athletes from across the state taking part. Photo by Karlo Gesner.

IRONMAN SAFKO TAKES TO THE ICY DEPTHS — Greg Safko, director of the SavageMan Triathlon, organized a team, the Savage Dunkers, to take part in Saturday's fundraiser. Safko and Kyle Yost, the architect of the SavageMan course, took the plunge, along with some other reps from the triathlon. Safko is pictured above as he experiences the dunk. He said it was great fun, and meaningful for them to support Special Olympics as fundraisers themselves. (The proceeds from the annual triathlon go to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation.) The SavageMan Triathlon occurs in the fall in Garrett County and consists of some of the most difficult running, biking, and swimming courses in the world. Athletes come to the event from several countries. Safko said the search for volunteers for the Sept. 19 and 20 event is on now. Information can be found at the web site: www.savagemantri.org.

to the House, the MACo Legislative Committee stated, in part, that "HB 1116 would impose ill-conceived performance measures on local governments and create a 'one-size-fits-all' approach to Smart Growth that would be administered by the MDP at the state level. Accordingly, MACo recommends that the committee give HB 1116 an unfavorable report."

Pagenhardt noted that the county commissioners and MACo representatives might ask that the bills be amended. One suggestion is that the new regulations would not affect counties with less than 25 percent of their land qualifying for PFA.

PAUSE FOR THE PAWS

With millions of dogs and cats as members of American families, there's a good chance that you've got pets sharing the home you're trying to sell. Since not everyone enjoys the company of animals, there are some measures you should consider taking before prospective buyers come over for a showing.

Pet odors are the biggest problem sellers face, but they can be easily minimized with thorough cleaning and vacuuming, and vigilant duty with the litter boxes. Black lights are available that help you to pinpoint the origin of any mysterious smells. It also makes a good impression if you pick up and store toys, bedding, and food and water bowls while your home is being shown to buyers.

If at all possible, take your dog(s) out with you when an agent brings visitors, or ask a friend or family member to keep your pet during the initial listing period. This will help reduce the stress on your pet at a time when showings are usually more frequent.

Another way to put buyers more at ease with their purchase is to offer a cleaning credit or allowance. Even if you're certain you'll remove all evidence of your beloved pets before vacating your home, the buyers may not share your confidence.

Why not offer these gestures of good will, thereby encouraging a better offer from the buyers? If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call at the office or on my cell at 301-501-DALE

Jennings' Zion Lutheran Church Celebrates 100 Years Of Worship

by Leota Baker

As the toll of the bell of Zion Lutheran Church chimed out across the countryside of Jennings on Feb. 22, members and friends of the congregation gathered to attend a special worship service. The occasion was the 100th anniversary of the organization of the Zion Lutheran congregation.

Greetings and a welcome were extended by the pastor, Rev. Randolph Richardson. Guest speaker was Rev. Ralph Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod.

Rev. Douglas Knupp and his family were also present. He is remembered as an intern at Lutheran Theological Seminary who served Bittering Lutheran Parish in 1999.

Austin Hersh served as acolyte, Tracy Stewart as lector, and Floyd Baker and Terry Hersh as ushers. Sheila Southerly was organist, and several members of Emmanuel Lutheran Church sang in the choir.

A banner was made by Glenna Blocher, Kim and Scarlett Fost, and Kent Miller for the anniversary.

The anniversary cake was a gift of Zion's Women of the ELCA (Evangelical Lutheran Church in America), and was baked and decorated by Sharon Garlitz, member of Zion. A real work of art, it brought history alive with a picture of the church and the inscription "Zion Lutheran Church 1909-2009."

A poster of pictures of all of the pastors who have served the congregation during the past 100 years was displayed. Various pictures of the church that had been taken from 1909 until the present time were displayed in the narthex.

A collection of scrapbooks, kept by a Zion member, were on display. The books date from 1957 to 2009, and contain pictures and writings of those years.

CHURCH HISTORY
Zion Lutheran Church was established during the first decade of the 20th century. The schoolhouse built in 1902 by Jennings Brothers Company, a lumbering firm, served as a common worship place for all faiths in the community.

Rev. John B. Shoup, pastor

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH

of the Bittering Lutheran Parish - composed of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittering, and St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain - was the first Lutheran pastor to conduct worship services in Jennings.

It was through the efforts and leadership of Rev. Alvin Yugel that Zion Lutheran Church was organized at Jennings and became a third point in the Bittering Lutheran Parish. The congregation was organized on Feb. 28, 1909, and Rev. Yugel became its first pastor. Charter members were 17 in number.

ALVIN YUGEL

The following constituted the first church council: Harvey Custer, Floyd Stark, Christian Yommer, Edward Pritts, Ray Billmeyer, and Charles Stahl.

The article of incorporation was filed and recorded in Oakland on March 24, 1909.

That same month, a building site at the northeast edge of Jennings was acquired from J. Louis Durst for the sum of $5. The building was constructed by Plummer Contractors, Frostburg.

Molded concrete blocks made at the building site were used in the exterior construction. The interior was of plaster and was completed by Charles Engle of Frostburg. The cornerstone was presented by the J.B. Williams Company, marble dealers, also of Frostburg.

The building proper was designed to seat 100 people. All windows were of stained glass; the large center window in the front of the church, bearing the name of J.L. Durst, who donated it, remains intact.

According to notes entered in the church records, the present building was dedicated on Nov. 14, 1910. Ministers present at the dedication service were the Rev. C.F. Steck, president of the Maryland Synod, Rev. Yugel and Rev. Shoup.

In 1929, the interior of the church was remodeled, covering the ceiling and walls with tongue and groove stained wood veneer. Rededication services were held that year, with Rev. William P. Cline, president of the Synod of West Virginia, delivering the dedication sermon.

Additional ground was purchased from the Dursts in 1937 to provide adequate parking space at the rear of the church.

The first altar appointments in Zion Church appeared in 1946. The cross and candlesticks were presented by Mrs. Curt H. Runze, the pastor's wife. The marble cross, still in use, was originally given to her as a gift on her confirmation day. The first paraments used were made of wool felt, also a project of Mrs. Runze and the women of the church.

In 1953, the church interior was covered with white celatex paneling and ceiling tiles. The chancel was elevated and covered with new carpet, and lighting above the altar was added. A red dossal curtain was placed behind the altar as a gift of Pastor and Mrs. James M. Allan. The service of rededication, led by Rev. Robert Cassell, president of the West Virginia Synod, was held on June 6, 1954.

Later, new pews were purchased, and two aisles were dispensed with as the pews were arranged to provide a center aisle.

Brass candlesticks were presented to Zion Church as a memorial to Rev. Allan by his father, Rev. Allan died of cancer while serving the parish. Paraments in ecclesiastical brocades were made by various members of the women's group, also a tribute to the memory of Pastor Allan.

Coal stoves vanished from the scene in 1953 and were replaced by gas heaters. A furnace room was added to the original structure in 1975, and a fuel oil heating system was installed as a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Meyers.

A communion rail was erected at the chancel entrance in 1966. A baptismal font was added to the chancel furniture in 1972. The original slate roof was replaced on the west side of the church in 1972.

The original exterior doors were replaced in 1985, and a well was drilled and restroom facilities were installed in 1986. In 1988, a pouring lip chalice and burse and veil were purchased and dedicated in memory of Lula Belle Shives.

Church identification markers were placed at the intersection of Rt. 495 and Jennings Road in 1994. The church driveway was paved, and carpet was installed in the church during 1997.

In 1986, Rev. Louise Knotts was the first female pastor called to serve in Bittering Lutheran Parish. She served the parish for 10 years, longer than any pastor who served the parish.

L. Leota Baker, was elected to Zion Lutheran Church Council in December 1978, becoming the first female ever to serve on church council.

The 75th anniversary of the Zion Church was celebrated in 1984 with a joint service of the Bittering Parish, with Rev. David Rockwood leading worship. The communion assistant was Floyd Baker. Nellie Yommer and Lora Zuckerman were the lectors, and Tammy Burrow served as acolyte. Each family present received a booklet of the history of Zion Church, which I wrote. The anniversary cake was baked and decorated by Sharon Garlitz, a member of Zion.

John Yommer and Daniel Yommer were remembered on their 100th birthdays with special receptions on Aug. 30, 1978, and Dec. 24, 1984, respectively. Sharon Garlitz baked the birthday cakes for her great-great uncles. (Upon Daniel's death, Zion lost her last charter member).

Members and friends gathered on Feb. 26, 1999, to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the organization of Zion congregation. Greetings and a welcome were extended by Douglas Knupp, intern pastor. His sermon for the day combined an appreciation of the heritage, gratitude for former pastors and leaders of the congregation, and a challenge to move forward.

The altar service book at Zion was replaced by a book of Rev. Knotts, given as a tribute in memory of Martha Glatfelter, a former organist. This gift was dedicated on Oct. 30, 1999.

On April 1, 2000, Douglas Knupp was ordained into the ministry at Christ Casebeer Lutheran Church in Somerset, Pa., and completed his ministry in Bittering Lutheran Parish. His call was affirmed at Trinity Lutheran Church, Martinsburg, W. Va.

A reading lamp for the lectern was presented in memory of Mrs. Alice Resh by her daughters, Shirley Yommer and Judy Stanton, and was dedicated on Sept. 2, 2000.

A worship service worthy of note was the joint service held at Zion on Dec. 26, 2004, a beautiful celebration of Christmas. A selection of scripture texts was read, and voices from all the parish churches joined in singing a variety of Christmas hymns.

Rev. Patricia Pittsnogle instituted the memorial service held each All Saints Sunday to commemorate the lives of persons who

Rev. James Mitchell, former pastor, arrived from Fowler, Colo., and began an interim ministry on Sept. 4, 2005. His wife, Norma, assisted him with worship at Zion. Health problems were not an asset to his plans for an active ministry in the area. He confirmed a class that was begun by Rev. Pittsnogle on Feb. 26, 2006. Pastor Mitchell terminated his second ministry in the Bittering Parish, and he and Mrs. Mitchell returned to Colorado. Rev. Donald Thomas assumed the role of interim pastor until the current pastor, Rev. Randolph Richardson, was ordained on Oct. 14, 2006.

Having served faithfully for 12 years, despite weather and road conditions she faced to do so, Mrs. Maryorie Wan resigned as Zion's organist on May 20, 2007.

The highlight of 2007 was the presence with us of old friends at worship. On Aug. 14, Marcette Danner came with Lowell Leitzel, who led worship, and served as organist that Sunday. Marcette is remembered as Zion's organist during the pastorate of her father, Rev. Louis F. Danner.

On Sept. 30, 2007, the Appalachian Sunday service at Emmanuel brought the surprise visits of two former pastors, Rev. Knotts and Rev. Hugo Schroeder Jr. and his wife Evelyn.

In 2008, Zion participated in the disaster relief crew in Biloxi, Miss. Scarlett Fost accompanied Rev. Richardson and a group from the parish to work in hurricane stricken areas.

Attendance at worship began to decrease in the past two years. A number transferred memberships, and several were lost recently because of death.

Pastors who have served the congregation at Zion were the following: Alvin Yugel, 1909-1910; Carl Schull, 1910-1912; J.L. Marvin, 1915-1921; E.E. Campbell, 1921-1923 and 1925-1932; David Straeser, 1932-1933; Charles Sellers, 1934-1936; A.C. Curran, 1937-1944; Curt H. Runze, 1946-1952; James M. Allan, 1953-1956; John W. Kline, 1959-1960; Hugo Schroeder Jr., 1962-1964; Stanley K. Armentrout, 1965-1968; Louis F. Danner, 1969-1975; James S. Mitchell, 1976-1980; David H. Rockwood, 1981-1983; Louise A.
